

THE WASHINGTON AND LEE

ALUMNI MAGAZINE

Winter 1964

"To think of Washington and Lee is to believe in an ideal To think of this ideal is to believe that still it has power. Its power is to survive the unforeseen vicissitude, to enlist great teachers, great friends. But more than this, its power is still to achieve a distinctive purpose; to reach beyond the monotony of instruction, beyond the formulas of fact, forever widening and forever intensifying, forever important and forever trivial, to reach beyond these and deposit in the life of a boy something a little finer than culture, a little rarer than competence, a little nobler than success; to quicken a dream within the young brain prepared for dreams by the agony of the aeons, to formulate within the tenderness of the heart some coherence for its own compulsions, to furnish young personality with potency and poise."

THE WASHINGTON AND LEE

ALUMNI MAGAZINE

Editor

WILLIAM C. WASHBURN, 1940

Managing Editor

FRANK A. PARSONS, 1954

Editorial Associate

MRS. ROBERT STEWART

THE WASHINGTON AND LEE ALUMNI, INC.

President

JOHN D. BATTLE, JR., M.D., 1934

Vice-President

THOMAS B. BRYANT, JR., 1928

Secretary

WILLIAM C. WASHBURN, 1940

Treasurer

WILLIAM B. WISDOM, 1921

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

JOHN D. BATTLE, JR., M.D., 1934, President

THOMAS B. BRYANT, JR., 1928

JAMES H. CLARK, 1931

H. TYNDALL DICKINSON, 1939

E. STEWART EPLEY, 1949

ROBERT A. FULWILER, JR., 1925

THOMAS W. MOSES, 1939

E. MARSHALL NUCKOLS, JR., 1933

C. WILLIAM PACY, II, 1950

E. ALTON SARTOR, JR., 1938

WILLIAM B. WISDOM, 1921

SHERWOOD W. WISE, 1932

EDITORIAL BOARD

FRANK J. GILLIAM, 1917

PAXTON DAVIS

JAMES W. WHITEHEAD

JOHN D. BATTLE, JR., 1934

WILLIAM C. WASHBURN, 1940

March, 1964

Volume XXXIX

Number 1

THE COVER: An oft-quoted excerpt from the inaugural address of Dr. Francis P. Gaines when he assumed the Washington and Lee presidency. The address is reprinted in full on Pages 7 and 8.

INSIDE COVER: The King and Queen of Fancy Dress for 1964 in the spotlight. Other Fancy Dress photographs are on Page 14.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Dr. Francis P. Gaines—The Happy Memory	3
“To Think of Washington and Lee”	7
Resolution of the Board of Trustees	9
“Those Who Called Him Their Friend”	10
Dr. Fitzgerald Flournoy Dies	11
Mock Convention Time Again	12
Fancy Dress—1964	14
News of the University	15
Sports News: Basketball Coach Resigns	21
Lee Chapel’s Erben Organ Is Restored	22
Big “Quinquennial” Reunion: June 11-13	24
Alumni Fund Nears $100,000	25
Class Notes	26
News of the Chapters	40

Published quarterly by Alumni, Incorporated, Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Virginia.

Entered as Second Class Matter at the Post Office at Lexington, Virginia, September 15, 1924. Printed at the Journalism Laboratory Press of Washington and Lee University under the supervision of C. Harold Lauck.

DR. GAINES at the window of his Washington Hall office in 1959, the last day of twenty-nine years as Washington and Lee's president.

“The happy memory should be the residence of inspiration. There we recall the sweetness of an ancient honor, the warmth of old friendship, the vividness of ideals once clearly seen but dimmed perhaps by later years. There we discover in original beauty the old purposes that once gave life great promise.”—From the President’s page of the 1939 Calyx.

Dr. Francis P. Gaines— —The Happy Memory

By FRANK A. PARSONS, '54

A Heart Attack Takes
The Life of a Devoted Friend to All Alumni
And a Faithful Servant
Of Washington and Lee

AS THE RICHMOND News Leader said in an editorial, this was a sad beginning of a New Year that brought word of the death of Dr. Francis Pendleton Gaines.

Dr. Gaines was stricken with a heart attack in the late afternoon of December 31 while alone in the bedroom of his home on Lexington's Estil Street. He died in the charming white brick house which he and Mrs. Gaines built upon his retirement as Washington and Lee's president in 1959.

The home's location was a happy one for Dr. Gaines, for he lived close to young people he enjoyed so much. His next door neighbor was Professor O. W. Riegel, his long-time friend and close associate. Nearby were the Phi Psi, Phi Ep, ZBT, and SAE fraternity houses and their students, and across the street were the faculty apartments occupied by young professors and their families. He was, as he once remarked, still living "among my boys."

At the ODK assembly on December 17, DR. GAINES accepted the welcoming ovation with closed eyes, left, then spoke forcefully to students on "the credentials of leadership," and, right, once more received the audience's standing applause.

Death interrupted a happy time within the Gaines' home. Although none of their three sons could be with them at Christmas, there were grandchildren visiting and all who knew Dr. Gaines can recall his delight in his grandchildren.

Friends who visited the Gaines during the holiday remarked on Dr. Gaines' good humor and high spirit. Back in 1959 he had stepped down from the presidency "for reasons of general health," and he had never been completely well since, but there was nothing to suggest the imminence of a fatal attack.

Two weeks to the day before he died, Dr. Gaines stood once more before the Washington and Lee student body and faculty at the annual Omicron Delta Kappa "tap day" assembly. The leadership fraternity is nearing the 50th anniversary of its founding on the University's campus, and in his introduction of Dr. Gaines, President Don Partington noted that it was particularly "fitting and proper" that the ODK speaker be the man who personified Washington and Lee's leadership for twenty-nine years.

With the exception of a handful of law students who were undergraduates under Dr. Gaines, none of the 1,200 students in the audience had known him as president. But they knew of him, of the Gaines legend to which Partington had referred, and when he got up to speak, the assembly rose with him and he was visibly moved by the long applause.

He spoke on the "credentials of leadership," and he spoke in a manner that few among his young audience had ever heard before. His former faculty associates could note that his voice lacked some of its familiar resonance and often, when his quick mind brought words in racing succession, he demanded complete attention.

But the effect was the same as always. His audience was spellbound and, as was his custom, his words were a happy blend of the serious and the light-hearted. An admirer once commented that Dr. Gaines could "play an audience like an instrument," sensing its response to him, and responding in turn. He did that this day, building to emotional peaks in his discourse on leadership and then breaking the tension with a quick line of humor that permitted him to resume his thesis on a more appropriate level.

He spoke of positive character, the kind which he said "is an inner force that enables one to carry out a worthy resolution when the mood in which that resolution was born has passed away." Dr. Gaines attributed the definition to a former professor of his, and he referred often to it in his speeches.

Dr. Gaines spoke also of epitaphs. He noted how they might range from the ridiculous to the sublime and how one of his hobbies was the collection of unusual ones. He gave a few examples and then closed his address by quoting the epitaph for historian John Richard Green: "He died learning."

Once more the assembly rose to applaud Dr. Gaines, and again he was visibly overcome by his audience's acknowledgement. Later, he remarked that he had not done a good job, but there was no student who would agree, for most had heard a real orator for the first time and would not forget the experience.

In retrospect, many friends commented on Dr. Gaines' reference to epitaphs that day. The Board of Trustees in its resolution on Dr. Gaines' death suggested that "He died learning" might well serve as his own epitaph. For, indeed, he was ever the scholar.

Dr. Gaines' scholarship began early. The seventh son of a Baptist minister, he learned to read at the age when most youngsters are learning to talk. His great familiarity with the Bible began early, too, for it was his first textbook. His mother's teaching was so effective that when he reached school age he began in the fourth grade at Wytheville, Va. From then on, his progress as a scholar was at an accelerated pace—degrees from Richmond, Chicago, and Columbia, a teacher of English at Mississippi State in his early twenties, president of Wake Forest College at 35, president of Washington and Lee at 38.

Dr. Gaines loved to joke about his swift rise in the academic world. He would quote an introduction he once received from a former student of his on the occasion of a reunion of Dr. Gaines' pupils at Mississippi State:

"When this man came to our school, there were 152 members of the faculty graded in the strictest seniority and he was Number 152. And he surveyed that situation for about a year and he said this will never do. No! And the next year he married the dean's daughter and his progress was remarkable!"

Dr. Gaines did marry the dean's lovely daughter, Miss Sadie duVergne Robert, who became for so many years the gracious hostess in the President's House at Washington and Lee. Dr. Gaines recommended similar marriages to the boss's daughter for his students, as he told his ODK audience, "particularly if, as I did, you love her."

When Dr. Gaines took over the Washington and Lee presidency in 1930, he found himself caught up in a climate of great change. The depression years challenged the survival of many colleges, but Dr. Gaines helped Washington and Lee not only to survive but to grow. In the process, he found that his role as college president was also growing and changing.

"When I came here, the administrative staff consisted only of the president, the dean, the treasurer, and registrar," he recalled in an interview in 1959. "With the dean, I was the admissions committee, the discipline committee, to a large extent the curriculum committee, and what today we would call the development committee." In short, he was the kind of president he most enjoyed being—close to the day to day routine of the college, close to the students he loved.

But gradually—even he could not pinpoint the time the transition began—the president's broadening responsibilities took him more and more away from the everyday operation of Washington and Lee.

"I think the president's duties changed when the college recognized its need for varied and generous cooperation from those other than its immediate family," Dr. Gaines declared. "It became necessary to take the college to the supporting publics, not wait for them to come to it."

DR. GAINES with DR. COLE before the Colonnade.

How well Dr. Gaines measured up to these new duties is reflected in the strength of Washington and Lee today. During his administration the University's assets increased five-fold, Washington and Lee became a leader in advancing faculty compensation, scholarship funds rose significantly. The Alumni Fund became a major source of strength, new buildings were added and older ones remodeled, the faculty was strengthened and its holders of the doctorate degree increased in number. In 1956, the Chicago Tribune, after polling leading educators, named Washington and Lee as one of the ten best men's colleges in the country.

How much Dr. Gaines' personal charm and integrity figured in this progress is suggested by a remark he made to the Faculty Discussion Club, shortly before his retirement: "I never asked a human being for a dollar in my life."

In ways unrecorded in endowment and buildings, Dr. Gaines also contributed to Washington and Lee's prestige and stature. He headed government committees, boards, and commissions on state and national levels; he presided over educational associations and directed important foundations. Fifteen colleges and universities, including Washington and Lee last June, bestowed honorary degrees upon him.

When, in 1959, he turned over the University's administration to his successor, Dr. Fred C. Cole of Tulane University, he reflected on his many years in office in this way:

"No man could ask for a finer privilege. I go out of office without a single disappointment, except in my own performance. I have only happy and grateful feelings for all those who have supported me—the trustees, the faculty, my staff, the students, and the many good friends of this University."

Dr. Gaines welcomed the new president "with confidence and joy." In the five years that were to follow, Dr. Gaines—now chancellor of the University—and President Cole sustained a close friendship of mutual respect and admiration.

When the newspapers of January 1 told the public of his death at 71, the sorrow of his passing touched countless hearts. Editorials and resolutions praising him and his service followed, and Mrs. Gaines received hundreds of telegrams of personal condolences.

Dr. Gaines' funeral service was conducted in Lee Chapel and he was buried in the Lexington cemetery. The Chapel was filled, although bad weather prevented many from out of town from attending. Among the mourners were many college presidents, some Dr. Gaines' former colleagues in the Virginia Foundation for Independent Colleges, of which he was one of the founders. Many alumni also were there, including some with whom Dr. Gaines had worked in his final effort with the University Development Program.

There were those whose association with Dr. Gaines spanned all of the thirty-four years he lived in Lexington, thirty-four years that, in sum, certainly constituted a "happy memory" for him. Those of us whose privilege it was to work closest with him knew of the disappointments and problems which come to all men. He could depend on our love and respect. He is for all who knew him a happy memory of kindness and generosity.

Each of us treasures memories of this man. I recall the busy day at a newspaper desk when his telephone call opened up for me an opportunity to work with him for Washington and Lee. I recall his hand on my shoulder or the grasp of my arm while he shared the latest addition to his storehouse of anecdotes. I remember the flowers from "Penrobin" when my son was born.

I remember, too, his closing words when he addressed a Washington and Lee graduation class for the last time in 1959.

"And may He be with my boys."

Like so many others, I am proud and grateful to have been one of Dr. Gaines' boys.

"It is the final satisfying reward of all men's efforts, the sense of building something into a cause, or into an institution, that in itself is noble, that in itself is lasting, and you stand and look and say, 'I have been a part of something big, even though I was small. I have done for that which shall endure, even though I pass.'"—from an address by Dr. Gaines before Richmond alumni, January 15, 1959.

The inaugural address delivered by Dr. Gaines on October 25, 1930, is as timely today as it was then. It is reprinted here in full.

“To Think of Washington And Lee . . .”

TO THINK of Washington and Lee is to remember an ideal.

“An ideal stirred the settlers of this Valley who in days of grimness dreamed of fruitage and of light. It drew from Washington a donation of financial resource and a felicity of sonorous phrase. It proved stronger than wars and their disconsolate train. Unto it Lee brought the summation of his life.

“As this ideal has been powerful, so it has been free. The years define broadly the title given this enterprise in the rechristening of 1776, Liberty Hall. Dedicated to ends of citizenship, this institution has been free from the domination of any frantic fraction of popular whim. Aspiring to lead men to view life as through the eyes of Christ, it has been free from the clamor of conflicting creed. Reverencing the Southern sentiment which crystallizes in its community, Washington and Lee, through the influences of him who was greatest alike in that sentiment and this academic history, has been free from the prejudice and the pride of sectionalism. Striving for character not less than for learning, it has liberated students from most of the regulatory minutia, so that out of his freedom each boy may cry,

*‘If it be a sin to covet honor,
I am the most offending soul alive.’*

“It is an utterly new world in which this ideal today seeks expression. Then there was but a small band of heroic youth who annually set forth upon the pilgrimage of knowledge, isolating themselves in vales of quietness; now the browning of the leaves sees in exodus a nation of youth never quite detached from the larger world. Then the Pierian spring was single and standard; now tumbling cascades of variegated curricula are at every turning of the road. Then the mode of student life was routine beyond the chance of much deviability; now it is colored and noisy with the frolic pageantry of campus styles. Then, if we may believe the prophet of lament, the objective was the training of the mind; now the objective is to make money. Then, to quote again the frightened critics, the pilgrims were responsive to emotional impulse; now they are young sophisticates, sprayed by the acids of futility, seeking to integrate life in hardness beyond the scope of vulnerable moods.

"But to think of Washington and Lee is to believe in an ideal.

"It is to believe that this ideal shall still be free, free from new threats as well as old restraints. It is to believe that this ideal may preserve its liberty against the modern tyrannies of standardization. Humbly seeking to learn from the processes of other educational effort, this ideal shall be independent of the contagion of conformity, the assumption that every institution must do exactly the same thing in exactly the same way at exactly the same time. Its ideal is still to be free from the coercions of premature specialization. It shall not deny young life its legitimate professional interests, it shall in broad terms train young minds into the ideas, young lips into the vocabulary, of their destined work. But this highway is not to be cut into the deep ravines of trade. The energies dedicated to this ideal shall not cramp youth into the intellectual straight-jacket of economic necessity.

"To think of this ideal is to believe that still it has power. Its power is to survive the unforeseen vicissitude, to enlist great teachers, great friends. But more than this, its power is still to achieve a distinctive purpose; to reach beyond the monotony of instruction, beyond the formulas of fact, forever widening and forever intensifying, forever important and forever trivial, to reach beyond these and deposit in the life of a boy something a little finer than culture, a little rarer than competence, a little nobler than success; to quicken a dream within the young brain prepared for dreams by the agony of the aeons, to formulate within the tenderness of the heart some coherence for its own compulsions, to furnish young personality with potency and with poise.

"Such faith is justified by our recollections of this ideal in the past and by our knowledge of the material of the present upon which the ideal will work. Around us the air is full of facile dictions of despondency, as an unadjusted conservatism watches young life sweep on, as it has always done, to swifter adaptations. But the promise of tomorrow is still written only upon the countenance of youth; and those who know youth best see that the tablet still is fair, the message is still of hope.

"An antique poet has left for us an impressive figure. It is to be regretted that we have shuddered at the gloom of his prediction rather than marveled at the brilliance of his theme.

'Or ever the golden bowl be broken - - -'

"Perhaps just for the moment he was thinking not of death but of life. Perhaps here is an implication of our ideal; to take the bowl of life, so precious in native materials, and to give it beauty with a pattern of courtesy and of charm; to give it dimension with capacity for lovely interests and generous sympathies; to give it strength that it may resist and may endure; to give a divine utility that again and again it may be emptied before high altars. Perhaps this bowl is the Holy Grail of our privileged quest, the gleaming grace of which shall strengthen stumbling feet over the ranges of difficulty, shall illumine every shadowed vale of our despair.

'Saw ye no more?'

*'I, Galahad, saw the Holy Grail.
I saw the holy cup descend upon the shrine.
I saw the Holy Face as of a child.'*"

On the following pages are recorded some of the sentiments expressed by Dr. Gaines' friends and associates in the days that followed his death. Only the resolution of the Board of Trustees is reprinted in full; other resolutions and editorials, of necessity, have only excerpts recorded here. The resolution passed by the Virginia General Assembly was introduced by the Hon. Bernard Levin, '42, as chief patron, and was signed by the nine other Washington and Lee alumni in the House of Delegates and the seven alumni who serve in the Virginia Senate.

The Resolution of the Board of Trustees

January 18, 1964

“With deepest sorrow, the members of the Board of Trustees of Washington and Lee University append to their official minutes the report of the death of one of the University’s most devoted servants. Dr. Francis Pendleton Gaines, Chancellor and former President, was fatally stricken by a heart attack at his home in Lexington in the late afternoon of December 31, 1963.

“There is no way to calculate the hearts that were saddened by Dr. Gaines’ passing. So varied were his interests, so broad was his service to his University, his nation and his fellowmen, that those who called him their friend are legion. His was a personal magnetism of warmth and generosity that reached out to all that knew him during the 71 years of his life. We, the Trustees, and other members of the Washington and Lee University family, knew him best, and our sense of personal loss is overpowering.

“It is not our purpose in this memorial to review the many achievements of a full and unselfish life, nor shall we rechart the great progress of this University during the 29 years that Dr. Gaines served as President. On the occasion of his retirement, this Board, with affection and gratitude, expressed elsewhere in these minutes its admiration for Dr. Gaines’ personal accomplishments and his leadership which brought unprecedented distinction to Washington and Lee. Today, by this testimonial, we honor the memory of our friend and colleague, and we recount moments of our long association that each of us shall treasure. We recall the vigor of his hand-clasp, his felicity of expression, his unfailing charm and ready wit, his inexhaustible storehouse of delightful anecdote and parable with which he so often brought welcome relief to the tensions of our official deliberations.

“We rejoice in our knowledge that a generation of students who never knew Dr. Gaines as President had opportunity to hear him speak and marvel at his gift of oratory. And we reflect with new insight upon his closing remarks to the Omicron Delta Kappa assembly, just two weeks before his death, when he spoke of the noblest epitaph he knew: “He died learning.” Dr. Gaines possessed remarkable qualities of intellect. His knowledge of many fields was detailed and broad, and his capacity for sound reasoning and his sensitivity to the world about him were unparalleled. Yet, we know that he, too, died learning, as would befit one whose life was dedicated to increasing man’s knowledge and understanding, his humility and tolerance.

“In our sorrow, we draw inspiration from the life of Francis Pendleton Gaines, and we rededicate ourselves to the faithful service of the University which became a part of the very fibre of this kind man. We are comforted in our knowledge that he is now part of the immortal company of men—Washington, Lee, and many others—who are the sinew of our University’s strength.

“It is ordered that these fond and sorrowful sentiments be recorded upon the minutes of the Board of Trustees and that an engrossed copy be presented, with expressions of our profound sympathy, to Mrs. Gaines.

"Those Who Called Him Their Friend . . ."

"Whereas, Francis Pendleton Gaines did throughout his years at Washington and Lee University hold open his door, his mind, and his heart to the students, and did give to them and to Washington and Lee incalculable values; and was because of all these things revered and beloved by the generations of Washington and Lee men who passed his way . . ."—from a resolution adopted by the EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE of the STUDENT BODY.

"Always he was mindful of the great traditions of George Washington and Robert E. Lee. He moved in their shadows. He built on their foundations. Dr. Francis Pendleton Gaines has left a deep imprint upon every facet of University life. The impression of his character and accomplishments will be etched upon the red brick and white columns of Washington and Lee for endless years to come."—from a resolution prepared for the ALUMNI BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

"So profound was his impact upon the faculty and students of Washington and Lee that he inspired others to emulate his example. To be introduced to him was to become his friend. He was master of the strategic and mindful of the tactical in meeting his own responsibilities."—from a resolution adopted by the FACULTY.

"Washington and Lee grew steadily scholastically and materially during this period embracing a full generation of students. It owes a great debt to Dr. Gaines, as does the whole field of education in Virginia. And this community in particular will feel a great loss in his death."—from the Lexington NEWS-GAZETTE

"Dr. Gaines was a charming gentleman of the old school who thrived on new ideas. He deserves to be ranked among Virginia's greatest sons of the 20th century."—from the Roanoke WORLD-NEWS.

"To attend a large dinner where he was present was to find the guests eventually turning to hear what story it was that Frank Gaines was telling, or to listen to his informed and witty conversation . . ."

"He was a gallant gentleman with as full a life as any man could have and he will be remembered as such men always are remembered."—from the Lynchburg NEWS.

"No one did more than Dr. Gaines in a time of growing social and economic complexities to awaken Virginia's people to the importance of education of breadth and quality at all levels. The progress and welfare of Virginia were causes which held his ardent interest and he was one of our most articulate and persuasive leaders in all areas of civic endeavor . . ."—from the Roanoke TIMES.

"It is a sad beginning to the year that brings word of the death of Dr. Francis Pendleton Gaines. He exemplified all that is best in the academic life of this State; in every literal sense of the familiar phrase, he was scholar and gentleman. Virginia was greatly the richer for having known him all these years . . ."

"He combined a superb command of the English language with a showman's gifts of timing and diction. His puckish sense of humor lightened the most serious address, and his grip on an audience never wavered . . ."

"He will be keenly missed. Plagued all his life by ill health, he had been off stage for quite some time, but it is a sad thing to realize that we no longer can expect to see that sturdy figure in the doorway, came in one hand, some book in the other, as he dropped by the office to talk of Virginia's colleges or just to say hello. This Commonwealth has been blessed with some exceptionally fine college and university presidents. We venture to say that when the roll is called up yonder, the name of Frank Gaines will lead the rest."—from the RICHMOND NEWS LEADER.

"Fairly short of stature, he was stocky and his jaw was squared off and heavy, like a reference book. His silver hair, and thick hand that would swing through the air to emphasize a point, added authority to what he had to say. As a politician, he would have been, perhaps, of the Bryan mold; as a preacher, probably a Sockman or Fosdick; as an entertainer, the Will Rogers type, intelligent and full of good humor. As an educator, Dr. Gaines himself set the pattern. A University president, he was no ivory-tower scholar; he was not even mainly an administrator. He became education's leading emissary to the outside world, pleading for its larger, voluntary support . . ."—from the Norfolk LEDGER-STAR.

"There were giants in that class of 1912 but none of greater stature than Francis Pendleton Gaines whose death on the last day of the dying year closed out the career of one of the greatest educators the South has produced. A man of noble spirit, of lofty vision, he revealed the idealism by which he lived . . ."—from the University of Richmond's ALUMNI BULLETIN.

"In addition to many other qualities which are too rarely seen in these days, Francis Pendleton Gaines was the exemplar of the tradition of the 'Virginia gentleman.' Dignity, noblesse oblige, and an abiding modesty were among the characteristics which set him apart from other men . . ."

"It is therefore fitting and proper that the General Assembly of Virginia record its regret upon the passing from our midst of this great educator, friend, wise counsellor and true Virginian . . ."—from a joint resolution adopted by the VIRGINIA GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

Death Claims

Dr. Fitzgerald Flournoy, '21

DR. FITZGERALD FLOURNOY, '21, whose popular courses in Shakespeare and Elizabethan drama established him as one of the most memorable of Washington and Lee professors, died January 29 in University Hospital in Charlottesville. He was 65.

Dr. Flournoy had been ill for several weeks, following a stroke in his home. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mildred Flournoy; a son, William Cabell Flournoy of Lynchburg; and his mother, Mrs. Mary Boyd Flournoy, who for many years was hostess at Lee Chapel and house mother for Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity.

A distinguished student while at Washington and Lee, Dr. Flournoy received his A.B. degree in 1921 and his M.A. in 1922. In 1922 he became the University's second graduate to be selected as a Rhodes Scholar for study at England's Oxford University. Oxford awarded him a B.A. degree with honors in 1924 and an M.A. in 1928. He received his Ph.D. degree from Yale in 1936.

After teaching at Stanford University in 1925-26, Dr. Flournoy joined the Washington and Lee faculty the following academic year and undertook a teaching career there that would win him the respect and admiration of generations of students. He was promoted to professor in 1937.

Of all his courses, Shakespeare was his most popular. In the spring when open windows let his booming voice escape from Payne Hall's classrooms, students would pause on the walks outside to enjoy his reading from King Lear and other of Shakespeare's tragedies.

DR. FLOURNOY was the second of Washington and Lee's seven Rhodes Scholars. When JON B. MCLIN, '60, right, was selected for the coveted award in 1960, DR. FLOURNOY showed him the Oxford blazer he wore in England in the early 1920's.

Dr. Flournoy was often a participant at Fancy Dress as a narrator for the figure. Life magazine once carried his photograph in this capacity.

Dr. Flournoy was a man of great charm and keen wit. His gift for distinctive self-expression was admired by his colleagues, and his report to the faculty on Rhodes Scholarship candidates was always a highlight of an academic year.

Once when required physical education was under attack from some quarters of the faculty, Dr. Flournoy rose in defense of the established program and demolished opposition with an oration that drew applause from his associates.

Several years ago, in describing his plans for future scholarly investigation, Dr. Flournoy admitted that his eagerness in this area had somewhat lessened, particularly during the summer. "Frankly," he wrote, "the time comes when I would rather fish."

Through a grant from Washington and Lee's faculty research assistance program, Dr. Flournoy, in 1961, was able to revisit England and the Shakespeare country that he loved.

His courses, important offerings of the University's English program, will continue to be taught well by others, but future students will miss a distinctiveness and charm that only Fitz Flournoy could add.

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY'S

DR. WALTER H. JUDD
KEYNOTER

1964 REPUBLICAN MOCK CONVENTION

MAY 4 AND 5, 1964

LEXINGTON, VIRGINIA

By GENE B. HANSLEY
Assistant Director of Information
Services

ALL WASHINGTON AND LEE students are Republicans this year.

At least they are deep into plans for portraying the delegates who will select the 1964 Republican presidential nominee.

This is the year for one of Washington and Lee's best-known events—the Mock Convention.

Actually preparations already are heading down the home stretch. This year's convention is scheduled May 4 and 5 and it will be accompanied by all the ballyhoo, excitement, famous people, and hopefully, accuracy of the twelve former sessions. Following the pattern set with the first convention in 1908, this year's affair will be for the political party out of power—the Republicans.

Work on the 1964 event started last May when Philip D. Sharp Jr., a 23-year-old intermediate law student from Richmond, was appointed chairman. He received his B.A. degree, cum laude, from Washington and Lee in 1962, and was a convention delegate in 1960. Soon after his selection as chairman, Sharp named a seven-man student steering committee to assist in the planning and operation of the event.

The four law school students on the committee are: Charles B. Rowe of Courtland, assistant chairman; Wyatt B. Durette, Jr. of Franklin, Republican Party chairman; Donald H. Partington of Springfield, state delegations chairman; and Peter T. Straub of St. Louis, Mo., pre-convention director.

Undergraduate members are Edward M. Norton, Jr. of Butler, Pa., secretary; John M. Madison of Shreveport, La., parade chairman; and Stephen P. Smith III of Jacksonville, Fla., publicity chairman.

THE ALUMNI MAGAZINE

Behind the scenes work went on all summer and fall until the committee announced in October that former Congressman Dr. Walter H. Judd would keynote the 1964 Republican Mock Convention.

Judd is an appropriate choice because he keynoted the 1960 Republican National Convention. When sounding the party challenge to the Washington and Lee convention, he will be following a tradition set by previous keynote speakers like President Harry Truman, Senator Alben Barkley, and on the Republican side, Kansas Senator Frank Carlson, and Congressman Clarence Brown, '16L, of Ohio.

From 1942 to 1962 Dr. Judd served as a Congressman from Minnesota. His experience as a medical missionary in China before World War II helped make him a leading member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs. In a 1962 Congressional poll, his colleagues named him one of the House of Representatives' five most influential members, the only one chosen from the minority party.

Early in March Virginia's Sixth Congressional District Representative Richard H. Poff accepted an invitation to be honorary chairman of the Mock Convention. A Republican who has served in Congress continuously since 1952, Poff represents a district in Virginia which includes both Roanoke and Lynchburg. He will welcome delegates to the Mock Convention on behalf of Virginia Republicans as well as introducing Dr. Judd.

Thousands of people have always jammed Lexington on the convention's opening day to see the kickoff parade and the 1964 version is shaping up as an equal to any in past years. There will be bands, a float from each of the 53 delegations and maybe a real elephant let everyone know the Republicans are in town. Dr. Judd and Poff will ride together in the lead car.

After the parade and opening session devoted to the keynote address, delegates will get down to the business of the convention—trying to select the same presidential candidate that the Republican National Convention will later this summer. Alumni have posted a winning record of predictions in the past by accurately naming the out-of-power party's standard bearer eight times. They have been wrong only four times in the Mock Convention's history.

Chairmen of the 53 state and territorial delegations were selected last spring too, and were instructed to begin taking soundings of the political situation in their states during the summer.

For example, John Heinzerling, a School of Commerce senior from Houston, made contact with both the Republican Party chairman and Republican Party executive director in Texas. As head of the 56-vote Texas delegation, Heinzerling has been keeping a sharp eye on political developments in this strategic state.

He said determining Goldwater as the candidate Texas Republicans will cast their votes for at the national convention this summer "wasn't all that much of a problem because it's pretty clear cut."

Like most other state chairmen, Heinzerling will have his own "hot line" from the convention floor to his Republican advisor in Texas to receive voting advice.

Where the preference for a particular candidate is clear cut in Texas, Jim De Young, Illinois Delegation chairman to the Mock Convention, is having to "read between the lines" to determine how his state will actually vote at the national convention. De Young, a junior from the Chicago suburb of Kenilworth, sums up the situation by saying that Illinois Republican leaders seem to favor Goldwater "but not many of them will come right out and say it."

Walter Bennett, a junior from Tuscaloosa, Ala., has politically made himself into a New Englander to be chairman of the Massachusetts delegation. Advice from alumnus Harold Hickox, '36, in Westboro, Mass., plus information from Massachusetts Republican leaders and such highly regarded newspapers as the Christian Science Monitor, tell Bennett the state is now divided between Goldwater and Henry Cabot Lodge.

Meanwhile, other students have been working in Lexington to insure the accuracy and success of the convention. A fifteen-man Secretariat is handling the correspondence and paper work for arrangements. Each of the mentioned Republican candidates has a student campaign manager already at work on the campus.

The publicity director, in cooperation with university public relations staff members, is sending out stories to the press and planning a campaign to attract coverage of the convention by national publications, network television and radio.

Last summer a brochure giving general information about the convention was printed. Soon after Christmas, it was revised to include pictures and biographical facts about Dr. Judd.

And then there are the thousand and one details to arrange such as who is going to make the signs identifying each delegation, who is going to entertain Miss Virginia when she visits the convention, who will meet Miss America of 1963 at the airport when she comes to ride in the parade on the Texas float, who will arrange special parking spaces for the visiting press and political leaders.

These and hundreds more are all being worked out and somehow, on May 4, the 13th Mock Convention will get under way and, hopefully, the next day nominate the man who will campaign this fall against President Johnson.

PRESIDENT RANDY WOOTTON and MISS SUSAN WHITE lead the Fancy Dress figure.

THE Alumni Magazine, which was criticized by students last year when it dared suggest that Fancy Dress isn't what it used to be, can report with pride that Fancy Dress 1964 was a great success, comparing favorably with the best of yesteryear.

Under the direction of President Randy Wootton of Baltimore, decorations in Evans Dining Hall tastefully suggested the atmosphere of Mardi Gras, theme for the 1964 ball. The narrative for the opening figure was witty and spirited, and it was presented excellently by visiting law professor Archibald Robertson.

President Wootton, as King Rex, and his queen, Miss Susan White of Baltimore, were elegantly attired, as were all members of the figure and most other dancers.

Costumes of the figure participants were colorful and varied.

Tapped for membership in Omicron Delta Kappa were, l-r, attorney WILBUR CURTIS HALL, '15L; newspaper publisher COL. JOHN MARTIN JONES, III, '37; Lexington physician DR. O. HUNTER MCCLUNG, JR.; and Dean of Students DR. EDWARD C. ATWOOD, JR.

News of the University

Two Alumni Honored by ODK

TWO ALUMNI, the Dean of students, and a distinguished Lexington physician were among twenty-two persons tapped for membership in Omicron Delta Kappa's Alpha Circle at Washington and Lee.

Also selected at the annual "tap day" assembly in December were sixteen student initiates whose campus leadership qualified them for membership in the national honor society founded at Washington and Lee a half century ago.

Chosen as alumni members were Wilbur Curtis Hall, '15L, of Leesburg, Va., and Col. John Martin Jones, III, '37, of Greenville, Tenn.

Dr. Edward C. Atwood, Jr., who succeeded Dean Frank J. Gilliam as Dean of Students at Washington and Lee, was also honored.

Dr. O. Hunter McClung, Jr. of Lexington, was cited for his tireless efforts in the service of his community as a physician and a civic leader.

Mr. Hall is a former member of the Virginia legislature who has conducted a highly successful law practice in Leesburg since 1915. He was praised for his contributions to his Alma Mater as a class agent for the Alumni Fund and in other alumni activities.

Colonel Jones is president of the Greenville, Tenn., Publishing Co. and editor and manager of the Greenville Daily Sun. He served in World War II in the Northern Burma campaign, and his diary was the basis for the moving picture, "Merrill's Marauders."

Law students tapped were Wyatt

B. Durette, Jr.; James A. Gory, III; Edward H. MacKinlay; and Philip D. Sharp.

Seniors included were John W. Baker; Arthur E. Broadus; Sydney J. Butler; Jere R. Cravens; Alfred E. Eckes, Jr.; Barry A. Greene; Kenneth P. Lane; John M. Madison, Jr.; Roger W. Paine, III; Jimmie T. Sylvester; and Frank W. Wright.

Junior selections were James W. deYoung; James M. Morris; and Stephen P. Smith, III.

THE CAMPUS

■ GENE B. HANSLEY of Altavista has been named assistant director of information services.

Hansley, 27, assumed his duties December 26, succeeding A. Prescott Rowe, '60, who resigned to take a public relations position with the Reynolds Metals Company of Richmond.

Formerly employed by the Lynchburg News, where for two years he was religious editor and feature editor, Mr. Hansley previously worked for three years as an advertising copywriter in the advertising department of the publishing agency of the Southern Baptist Convention in Nashville, Tenn.

He is a 1956 B.A. graduate of the University of Richmond and has studied at the University of Tennessee's Nashville Extension and at the University of North Carolina summer session.

His Washington and Lee work will involve him in general public relations, with emphasis on relations between the University and representatives of the press, radio, and television media.

■ WILLIAM G. ALBRIGHT has assumed his new duties as manager of the Slater Food Service at Evans Dining Hall.

Mr. Albright succeeds Merle Campbell Bartley who has held the position since the dining hall was opened in 1959. Mr. Bartley now manages one of the Slater-served cafeterias at North Carolina State.

Although a native of Georgia, Mr. Albright calls Florida home. He graduated from the St. Petersburg high school and is a graduate of Florida State University, majoring in restaurant and hotel management. While doing graduate work at Florida State, he was a partner in a restaurant business in Tallahassee.

Following this, Mr. Albright served as director of food service at the Bainbridge Air Base in Georgia and later was with the Dobbs House chain, serving as manager of a coffee shop at the Atlanta Municipal Airport and manager of an airport restaurant in Birmingham, Ala. Other cafeteria management work has been at Tennessee State College and the University of Alabama.

Mr. Albright is married and has two sons, aged eight and eleven.

■ THE WORLD premiere of a new song cycle by Ezra Laderman, commissioned especially for the occasion, was presented by George Hoffman, bass-baritone, on December 4 in Lee Chapel.

Presented by the Concert Guild, Mr. Hoffman sang Laderman's "Five Michelangelo Songs" in addition to selections by Handel, Schubert, Schumann, and Richard Strauss.

UNDERGRADUATES

■ THE AMOUNT of financial aid the University awards undergraduates has climbed to a new high in the current session.

Dean Lewis John, Director of Student Financial Aid, reports 246 students are receiving $191,365 in assistance. Included in these figures are fifty freshmen who are getting $46,560.

This total compares with $154,119 awarded 200 students in the 1960-61 session—the first year of the University's expanded financial aid program whose purpose is to make Washington and Lee education available to all qualified high school students, regardless of their financial limitations.

Through this program, a total of $189,940 was awarded undergraduates last year.

The program gives assistance in the form of a scholarship, loan, campus job, or any combination of the three. Dean John says a majority of students receiving aid this year are being helped through a scholarship-loan combination.

Repayment of these loans does not begin until a student graduates, enabling him to pay part of the cost of his college education when his earning power is established. All loans are from University sources.

Students also earn part of the expense of their education through campus jobs as dining hall workers, dormitory counselors, or helpers in the offices of academic departments and administration officials.

The average amount of aid given undergraduates this year is $778. The highest amount awarded is $2080 through a scholarship-job combination. The biggest amount given through a scholarship alone is $1800.

The two top financial aid awards the University gives are the George F. Baker Scholarships and the Robert E. Lee Scholarships.

A gift from the George F. Baker Trust of New York City established the Baker Scholarships at Washington and Lee in 1960. In the current session, six freshmen and ten upperclassmen are sharing $16,800.

The Robert E. Lee Scholarship Fund was established in 1955 with a $200,000 gift from an anonymous donor. Including four freshmen, a total of twelve undergraduates are receiving $13,600 from the fund this year.

Financial aid given by Washington and Lee is awarded on the basis of merit and need. In considering a student for financial assistance, Dean John says a boy's academic record and potential for development are considered along with his need for assistance in meeting expenses.

The actual amount of aid given is determined by procedures adopted by 516 institutions participating in the College Scholarship Service. This includes consideration of a family's income, assets, number of dependents, debts, and all unusual expenses.

Both the academic record and need of each student receiving financial aid are reviewed each year. Those holding any scholarships or receiving other kinds of aid must maintain a satisfactory academic record each year to continue receiving assistance.

Not included in the $191,365 awarded undergraduates in the 1963-64 session is the approximately $19,735 given to forty-one students in The School of Law.

Also not added to the $191,365 are grants made to Robert E. Lee Research Assistants.

■ JOHN CLARK, captain of Washington and Lee's Debate Team was chosen the best speaker out of a field of fifty-six debaters, representing ten Virginia and District of Columbia colleges and universities at the Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha Dist. 3 Debate Tournament at Williamsburg.

Clark and Jack Eure, debating on the affirmative side of the national debate question, were chosen as the best affirmative team at the tournament by winning three of four debates. Eure tied for second place, just one point behind Clark in the speaker ratings.

Both Clark and Eure are senior debaters. Clark as a freshman in 1960-61 won more debate awards than anyone else at Washington and Lee, and was a member of the State Championship Debate Team both in 1960 and 1961. Eure is a member of the Tau Kappa Alpha Forensic Fraternity.

■ A ROANOKE student has been awarded third place prize for his entry in the 1963 national essay contest of the American Society for Personnel Administration (ASPA).

Lynn R. Hammond, III, received a prize of $50 for his essay, which will be published in a forthcoming issue of The Personnel Administrator, the ASPA's national publication.

Hammond's entry was one of eighty-three submitted by students from twenty-two colleges and universities throughout the United States and Canada.

LYNN R. HAMMOND, III

■ SIX SENIORS have been designated as Distinguished Military Students by the ROTC staff. They are Robert E. Lee, Washington, D. C.; William B. Ogilvie, Jr., Shreveport, La.; Norman E. Youngblood, III, Fayetteville, N. C.; John M. Madison, Jr., Shreveport, La.; James H. Wallenstein, Dallas, Texas; and Frank W. Wright, Blacksburg, Va. Each received certificates from Lt. Col. Jack Birch, head of Washington and Lee's Military Department.

LAW SCHOOL

■ EDGAR H. MACKINLAY, senior law student from McConnellsburg, Pa., has been named editor of the Law Review for the second semester.

A graduate of Mercersburg Academy, MacKinlay received his B.S. degree from Washington and Lee in 1958. He is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary leadership fraternity, and Phi Alpha Delta, legal fraternity. He has served as an associate editor of the Law Review and is president of his class. He is listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

FACULTY

■ EIGHTEEN faculty members have been awarded $7,020 in grants-in-aid from the John M. Glenn Fund for projects in their respective fields during the coming summer and fall.

Established in 1953, the Glenn program is supported through a $120,000 gift from the late John M. Glenn who was an official of the Russell Sage Foundation and an 1879 graduate of Washington and Lee.

The 1964 recipients, their academic departments and projects are:

James R. Baird, biology, for completion of anatomical studies for Ph.D. research project at the University of North Carolina.

Dr. Jay D. Cook, Jr., accounting, to conduct research in risk management for the purpose of orienting the economics course, Principles of Insurance, toward this broader area.

Dr. Sidney M. B. Coulling, English, to complete research at the University of Virginia for three papers on Matthew Arnold.

John F. DeVogt, commerce, for preparation of the final draft of his Ph.D. dissertation.

Dr. Cecil D. Eby, Jr., English, to continue research at the Widener Library, Harvard University, for manuscripts in preparation on Poe, Hawthorne, Melville and the siege of Toledo.

Dr. Lyman R. Emmons, biology, to continue research on "A Cytogenetic Study of Atypical Humans."

Thomas E. Ennis, Jr., accounting, for preparation of the final draft of his Ph.D. thesis.

A highlight of the Christmas season for children of Washington and Lee's faculty and staff was a party given for them by PRESIDENT and MRS. COLE at the President's house. In the photograph, a magician evokes delighted expressions from his young audience.

Brett W. Hawkins, political science, to develop two case studies on the consolidation of 1962 of Nashville and Davidson County, Tennessee.

Dr. Louis W. Hodges, religion, to continue investigation of traditional and contemporary theories of Christian social ethics:

Dr. Allen W. Moger, history, to continue research on a book, Virginia in Transition, 1880 to 1919.

Dr. Chaplain W. Morrison, history, to continue research on the reciprocal influence of the Wilmot Proviso and the Democratic Party, 1846-1848.

Dr. James S. Patty, romance languages, to complete research in Paris on Hippolyte Babou, French journalist and critic.

Dr. Edward L. Pinney, political science, to study the political attitudes and orientation of the West German civil service with particular attention to the upper echelons of the administrative services in three of the West German states.

O. W. Riegel, journalism, to participate on the program of the General Assembly, International Association for Mass Communications Research in Vienna, Austria, and to study effects of mass communication in central and eastern Europe.

B. S. Stephenson, German, to attend a six-week summer session at a German university and to do research on Carl Spitteler in Switzerland.

Robert Stewart, fine arts, to establish a library of his more recent works at the American Music Center, New York City.

Herman W. Taylor, Jr., ancient languages, to complete work on his Ph.D. dissertation at the University of North Carolina.

Dr. George S. Whitney, chemistry, to conduct research on thio-lactic acid at the University of Basel, Switzerland. His Glenn Grant supplements a fellowship awarded by the American-Swiss Foundation for Scientific Exchange.

■ MEMBERS of the faculty of the School of Commerce and Administration have had a busy fall and winter.

Professor Milton Colvin, Professor Edward L. Pinney, Mr. Delos D. Hughes, and Mr. Brett W. Hawkins attended the Southern Political Science convention at Gatlinburg, Tenn., October 31 to November 2. Dr. Pinney, who was elected for a three-year term to the Executive Council of the Association, gave a paper entitled "A Declaration of Interdependence."

Attending the Southern Economic Association conference at

Roanoke, November 14 to 16 were Dean Lewis W. Adams, Professors Edward C. Atwood, Jr., Harmon H. Haymes, Stanley T. Lowry, Charles F. Phillips, Jr., and Mr. John F. DeVogt. Professor Lowry gave a paper entitled "Greek Social Theory Pertaining to Economics" and Professor Phillips gave a paper, written with George R. Hall, entitled "Implications of the Market Power Standard for Antimerger Policy."

Two other articles written by Professor Phillips and Mr. Hall were published this fall: "Good Faith, Discrimination and Market Organization" in The Southern Economic Journal, and "Economic and Legal Aspects of Merger Litigation, 1950-1962" in Houston Business Review.

■ DR. DAVID W. SPRUNT, University chaplain, attended an eastern regional conference of the National Association of College and University Chaplains in Washington, D.C., in December.

■ THREE compositions by Robert Stewart, associate professor of fine arts, were presented on a Composers Forum concert at the Donnell Library in New York on January 18.

Included on the program were "Trio No. 5 for Viola, Clarinet, and Trombone," "Five Miniatures for Piano," and "Five Movements for Bassoon and Four Instruments."

SPEAKERS

■ DR. HUGH KENNER, chairman of the Department of English at Santa Barbara College of the University of California, was presented in a lecture December 5 by the Seminars in Literature.

Topic of his lecture was "Marianne Moore."

■ SPONSORED by the History Department, Dr. Clement Eaton, professor of history at the University of Kentucky, lectured on "The Mind of the Old South" on December 9.

■ JOHN LUKACS, a leading authority on Eastern Europe, the Cold War, and public opinion, spoke on "From Cold War to Cold Peace—the End of Ideology?" on January 16. He was sponsored by the Department of Journalism and Communications.

■ A PRIVATE industry representative who has worked in the government's Apollo program to land a man on the moon lectured in February under sponsorship of the School of Commerce and Administration.

K. D. Remington, director of Technical Programming, Apollo Engineering Space and Information Systems Division of North American Aviation, Inc., spoke on "Problems in A Technologically Advanced Industry: Industry in the Service of Government."

■ RELIGION and sociology were related to each other by a man currently working in both fields in a two-day Seminar in Religion in February. Dr. Ephraim Fischhoff of Lynchburg, rabbi of Congregation Agudath Sholom and professor of humanities and social science at Lynchburg College, spoke on "Sociology and Religion" and "Religion and the Contemporary Social Order."

■ TWO UNITED STATES Government officials were featured speakers during the University's International Relations Week in February.

Dr. Jack N. Behrman, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Domestic and International Business, spoke on "The Common Market and Underdeveloped Nations." Dr. Behrman taught economics at Washington and Lee from 1952 to 1957.

Phillips Talbot discussed the area of the world he deals with as Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs.

GIFTS

■ A GRANT of $5,000 has been received from the E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company as part of that corporation's program for strengthening the teaching of science and related subjects.

The grant consists of $2,500 for chemistry and $2,500 for other subjects that contribute importantly to the education of scientists and engineers.

■ A GIFT of $4,700 from an anonymous alumnus has established the John F. Kennedy Memorial Fund at the University.

The fund will provide financial aid for deserving students who are studying or plan to study in fields related to the government.

■ THE LEE Memorial Journalism Foundation has received a grant of $1,000 from the Reader's Digest Foundation to "enhance the value of journalistic training and experience of students during 1963-64.

Professor O. W. Riegel, director of the Lee Foundation, says the grant will augment a "research travel fund" established last year with a similar grant of $1,000 from the Reader's Digest Foundation.

■ WASHINGTON AND LEE has been chosen as one of 500 American colleges and secondary schools to share in the 3M Company's "Assistance Grant to Education" program.

Each of the participating institutions has received an award of visual communications equipment, consisting of overhead transparency projectors, two copying machines, and supplies for making projection transparencies.

In a letter to President Fred C. Cole, President Bert S. Cross of the 3M Company said that Washington and Lee and other program participants were chosen from among 14,000 American colleges and secondary schools who submitted proposals to the company's educational program.

"It is a great reflection on your resourcefulness and demonstrated interest in improved classroom communication that yours was selected among so many worthy candidates," President Cross wrote.

Expressing the university's appreciation for the award, President Cole commended the 3M Company for its "gratifying interest" in American education, both at the college and school levels.

President Cole said Washington and Lee will use the projectors to supplement other modern teaching aids now in use in its classrooms and laboratories.

Neal C. Allard, branch manager of Gallant, Inc., of Roanoke, area distributor for 3M Company thermo-fax visual products, conducted a demonstration class for professors in the various classroom applications of the projection equipment.

■ GERMAN teaching and scholarship at the University has been boosted with a gift of books, records, and tape recordings from the Goethe Institute, Munich, Germany.

The institute, whose purpose is the teaching of the German language to people of all ages, sent the gift to Washington and Lee through the Atlanta, Ga., consulate of the Federal Republic of Germany.

About 150 items valued at approximately $500 are included in the gift. The tape recordings and records already have been put into use in the language laboratory to help students improve their German speaking ability.

All books will be available to undergraduates taking German courses. Also they will be used by the German faculty as supplementary and illustrative material in classes.

■ THE LATE JOHN MARTIN, '26, of Wilmington gave to the Geology Department of Washington and Lee lapidary equipment which will be used in preparing thin sections of rocks and minerals for identification and for petrologic studies. The equipment is valued at $300.00.

At the same time Mr. Martin donated a collection of polished mineral and rock slabs and a collection of semi-precious and precious stones including rubies, sapphires, tourmalines, garnets, and others. There are approximately two hundred specimens in the collection. Part of the collection is on display in the Geology museum on the basement level of Howe Hall.

Mr. Martin died December 8 in a tragic crash of a commercial airliner near Philadelphia.

Founders' Day Thought

THE FOUNDERS' DAY ADDRESS on January 19th was delivered this year by Dr. William W. Pusey, III, Dean of the College. His talk was an excellent appraisal of the University's "identity" and he expressed his concern for the future in this way:

"We cannot afford inertia at Washington and Lee, and I detect little of it here. The quality and the image of an educational institution do not remain unchanged. In a decade or so the ridiculed Podunk can become an excellent university, while conversely the ivy-covered 'name' college could tumble into 'Podunkism,' if it doesn't intelligently and vigorously keep up with evolving, bustling society. We at Washington and Lee have problems and opportunities with which we must continue to grapple as men of good will, realizing that never will—or indeed never should—everything 'come out even,' or have a final solution."

DEAN WILLIAM W. PUSEY, III

Bob McHenry, '56, Resigns Basketball, Lacrosse Jobs

HEADLINING the winter sports news was the resignation of J. Robert McHenry, '56, as head basketball and lacrosse coach, effective in June.

Bob McHenry, who took over both sports in 1958 at the age of 24, said he would take a position at Lebanon Valley College, in Annville, Pa., where he would be head basketball coach, tennis coach, and an assistant football coach.

Athletic Director and head football coach at Lebanon Valley is William McHenry, '53, former Washington and Lee football and lacrosse standout, and Bob's older brother.

During the younger McHenry's five years at Washington and Lee, his basketball teams won 27 and lost 65, while his lacrosse teams compiled an overall record of 13-38-1.

Athletic director E. P. "Cy" Twombly has begun a search for a successor to McHenry. He said he is seeking a man who can "do the job in basketball that Lee McLaughlin has done in football." Twombly admitted that such a person may be hard to come by, but he indicated that the men under consideration are highly promising.

Twombly emphasized that McHenry's decision to leave Washington and Lee was entirely the young coach's own. McHenry had indicated last year that he was interested in making a change. Twombly praised McHenry's coaching work at Washington and Lee and cited how he had been handicapped by injuries to key players, academic losses, and a general shortage of talent in both basketball and lacrosse.

Whoever takes over McHenry's basketball job will inherit a team that won only four games while dropping thirteen. The 1963-64 Generals got off to a relatively good start, and stood 3-3 after their first six games, but a long dry spell set in that wasn't broken until the last regular season game against Richmond Professional Institute, a team that had beaten them handily earlier. In the opening round of the College Athletic Conference tournament at Memphis, the Generals lost to Centre College.

There was one bright spot in the all-round play of Louie Paterno, the Generals' fine guard who led all scorers with an 18-point average per game. Paterno, a junior, will head up a veteran squad of improving Generals next year, but many basketball followers at Washington and Lee feel that the Generals are still several years away from a real revitalization of the game.

Other teams on the winter sports circuit fared this way:

Coach Norris Eastman's swimmers managed to squeeze out a winning season with a 6-5-1 mark against perhaps the strongest schedule ever taken on by Washington and Lee mermen.

With freshman Dick Musick of Norfolk providing a bright promise of future victory, Coach Dick Miller's wrestlers finished all even at 5-5 for the year. The season was somewhat of a disappointment, as injuries and a tough schedule ate into the win column.

The rifle team was far off target with a record of 1-9-1, and the freshman basketball team of Coach Joe Lyles surprised with a 9-3 season against prep school opposition.

In football activity, right halfbacks Bill David and Tom Crenshaw were elected co-captains for 1964, and Coach McLaughlin is considering adjusting his offense to take advantage of both boys' talents at the same time.

After an alumni team of outstanding players from the 1960, 1961, 1962, and 1963 banner teams defeated the varsity 20-0 at the end of spring drills, McLaughlin seemed ready to adjust things some more.

Football co-captains for 1964: TOM CRENSHAW, left, and BILL DAVID

Lee Chapel's Erben Pipe Organ, Silent for Years, Is Heard Again

Restoration of the Historic Instrument, Part of the Ford
Project at Lee Chapel, Draws
Widespread Praise from the Public

By MAURICE FLIESS, '66

LEE CHAPEL'S most cherished possession may eventually be its Erben pipe organ, erected in 1872 by "the father of American organ builders."

That is the prediction of several prominent musicians, among them the widely-known organist of Chicago's Fourth Presbyterian Church, Wyatt M. Insko.

Said Insko:

"Its (the organ's) value will become increasingly important not only in historical context, but as a record of a musical milieu."

Insko called the restoration of the organ—built by New Yorker Henry Erben—"one of the few intelligent restorations of historical American organs that has been done for this (post Civil War) period."

For a 92-year-old organ which was replaced in the 1930's by an electric organ, then left to deteriorate, its newfound status is a complete switchover from times past.

A total of $7,000 of the $370,000 Ford Motor Co. Fund allotment for the Chapel work was set aside by Washington and Lee University President Fred Carrington Cole to restore the Lee Memorial, or Erben Organ.

Lawrence Walker, a 44-year-old Richmond organ builder, was employed for the project.

In July 1961, soon after the restoration project at the Chapel got under way, the organ was dismantled and shipped to Walker's Goochland County workshop. There, the veteran organ builder cleaned and refurbished the organ's 320 pipes—many of which had been bent and warped. In addition, felt and leather were installed within the valves, and the pine case of the organ, which had been dulled by a dark walnut stain, was refinished. The case was reworked by a Lynchburg furniture firm.

The organ was constructed in 1872 and placed in the Chapel balcony, in memory of Gen. Robert E. Lee, who during his tenure as President of Washington College (now called Washington and Lee University), had expressed a desire for an organ in the Chapel.

Mrs. M. J. Young, a Texan who was a friend of the University, announced soon thereafter that she would attempt to raise sufficient money to pay for an organ.

As recorded in the Feb. 11, 1871 issue of the University magazine—the Southern Collegian (Vol. II, No. 9)—Mrs. Young wrote to a friend in Lexington:

"Texas must—I am almost impelled to say she (Texas) shall—do the whole of it."

In the same letter, Mrs. Young revealed a very touching incident concerning her campaign to produce funds to finance the building of a Lee Memorial Organ.

"An old man, who refused to give his name, approached my son, and said, 'Is this Dr. Young, son of Mrs. M. J. Young?' Being answered in the affirmative, he drew from his pocketbook a silver half-dollar, and said, 'Here is a contribution for the Lee Memorial Organ. It is a very small sum, but it is all I have.'"

This article, written by Washington and Lee sophomore MAURICE FLIESS of Clifton Forge, Va., appeared in the special supplement published by the Roanoke Times upon the rededication of Lee Chapel last October.

GEORGE K. TAYLOR at the Erben organ keyboard.

As a result of the generosity of that unknown donor and many like him, the financial end of the organ project was culminated successfully.

The rest was up to Henry Erben, who was hired to build a seven-stop organ in his New York factory.

Termed the "father of American organ building" by many, Erben worked on the organ for six months before March, 1872, when he sent the parts to Lexington for assembly.

Meanwhile, the Lee Chapel balcony was re-inforced in preparation for the 2,000 pound instrument which was to be situated against the back wall of the chapel's tower.

Originally hand pumped, the organ was first used in early April 1872, and it has been suggested that the musical notes which flowed gently out of its pipes were a primary factor in the ever-increasing attendance at daily chapel services at Washington College.

There was an introductory concert in May 1872, at which the chapel choir was accompanied by the organ and several other instruments.

After that time, very little is known of the Erben Organ.

In the 1930's, The United Daughters of the Confederacy replaced the Lee Memorial organ in favor of an electric organ. Until the summer of 1961, the famous instrument remained in the balcony while its more modern counterpart was used once a year at Washington and Lee's June baccalaureate services.

Now that the Erben Organ has been restored, it will be used periodically. A dedicational concert was given March 1 by George K. Taylor, Washington and Lee senior, whose interest in the Erben Organ as a student research project helped convince University officials that the organ should be restored. (Dr. James G. Leyburn played the organ for the Chapel's rededication on October 11.)

A Big "Quinquennial" Reunion Coming Up for All Alumni

By WILLIAM C. WASHBURN
Executive Alumni Secretary

THE FOURTH quinquennial General Reunion of All Classes is scheduled for June 11, 12, 13. The date follows graduation ceremonies at both Washington and Lee and V.M.I. Its choice by the 1964 Reunion Committee was influenced by Lexington's limited lodging facilities. Commencing with the Bicentennial in 1949, Washington and Lee has continued its practice of holding a big reunion of all classes every fifth year. A large number of alumni can attest to the outstanding success of these gatherings in 1954 and again in 1959.

For the second time, the four anniversary classes will merge their reunions with the General Reunion. Each year, except the 1959 quinquennial, the 50th, 40th, 25th, and 10th anniversary classes have held their reunions in May. This year, as in 1959, the reunions of these anniversary classes of 1914, 1924, 1939, and 1959 will be consolidated with the big celebration in June. As in the past, the anniversary classes will be especially featured in the program with individual class banquets, special lead-outs at the dances, and other events of particular interest to them.

The reunion committee emphasizes that alumni wives and families are cordially invited. A program for ladies will be featured and they should enjoy each event. While it should be noted that there will be no baby-sitting arrangements, children and teen-agers are invited, and there will be special events in the program for them.

The town of Lexington will be practically yours. Most of the students will be gone, although a few remain to keep some of the fraternity houses open for alumni visitors. You and your families will be housed, by classes as far as possible, in the hotels and motels in and around Lexington. Members of the earlier classes and the anniversary classes will be assigned to those accommodations nearest the campus, but all classes will be close by the college and near familiar scenes.

Relax! Live again the days of your youth. Visit with classmates and friends, compare notes and talk over "the good ole days."

The program will be full, but there will be ample time for relaxation. Included on the program are golf, swimming and tennis outings; a trampoline exhibition for children, trips to Natural Bridge, Go-shen Pass, and other nearby scenic attractions. There will be the President's welcome party, a law reception, dances and a good time for all.

On the serious side, returning alumni will have an opportunity to hear and talk with University officials about Washington and Lee's current progress and its plans for the future. All will share the opportunity to become better acquainted with the Washington and Lee of 1964.

In the past five years there have been several important additions to the campus and more are in progress. You will enjoy seeing the new dining hall, the new dormitories, and the new science facilities. You will take pride in the beautifully restored Lee Chapel, and view the first stages of the renovation of Reid Hall for an enlarged Journalism and Communications department.

Literature with detailed information is being mailed to each alumnus. Begin now with your plans to attend. Coordinate with your classmates through your class agent and start the ball rolling for a group from your area to come to Lexington. Make this Reunion '64 better than ever before!

The Alumni Fund Is Nearing $100,000 Mark of 1963-64 Drive

Alumni Support Is Encouraging,
But the Fund Council Renews Its
Plea for 100 Per Cent Participation

AS THIS REPORT goes to press, the annual Alumni Fund has passed the half-way mark of its $165,000 goal for 1963-64. To date 1,635 alumni have made gifts totaling $97,800. This sum represents an approximate 27 per cent advance over this same date last year, but the number of contributors is increasingly larger emphasis is now directed toward graduate study and research activities. Your gift helps strengthen the quality of undergraduate preparation which is so vital to young minds. Also, your active interest and participation strengthens the concept of the independent, privately supported in-task becomes easier when you are an active, sincerely interested participant in its welfare.

The alumni office is busily working on the 1964 Alumni Directory, an undertaking requiring infinite attention to detail. Moreover, it requires the sincere cooperation of every alumnus.

- - - $165,000 Alumni Fund Goal for 1963-64 - - -

- - - $97,800 Contributed to Date - - - running behind last year's figure, which at this time was 1,785.

The Alumni Council and all who are directly connected with this campaign urge your early response to your class agent's appeal in this important effort. And it is important. Much of Washington and Lee's continued progress depends on the interest of each and every alumnus in the University's future.

Your gift is significant beyond its monetary measure. Washington and Lee is primarily concerned with the education of the undergraduate. Ironically, this has become a somewhat distinctive approach in an academic world where stitution. If you value your University's traditional emphasis on quality education and if you value your relationship with Washington and Lee, you will want to sustain its freedom and its strength.

The Alumni Fund Council has placed special emphasis on the full participation of every alumnus. It must continue to strive for its goal of 100 per cent support because it is through participation that alumni can best declare their faith in Washington and Lee and their concern for its future.

The University must maintain and improve an already distinguished educational program. Its

As a symbol of the vital relationship between Washington and Lee and its Alumni, a copy of the directory will be sent to each contributor to the 1963-64 Alumni Fund. Perhaps it is one way of saying "thanks." Perhaps, too, it will suggest to you that you have cared enough about the continued strength and vitality of Washington and Lee to share in its future as well as its past.

On behalf of the nearly one hundred class agents and the hundreds of regional agents and committeemen, the Fund Council urges your immediate attention to your thoughtful response.

CHAPTER CORRESPONDENTS

Appalachian—R. P. London, Jr., '27, P. O. Box 831, Johnson City, Tennessee
Arkansas—H. Tyndall Dickinson, '41, 6 Palisade Drive, Little Rock
Atlanta—Farris P. Hotchkiss, '58, 120 Biscayne Drive, Apt. B-5
Augusta-Rockingham—J. B. Stombeck, '41, Box 594, Waynesboro, Virginia
Baltimore—Richard C. Whiteford, '57, 905 Arran Road
Birmingham—John V. Coe, '25, 3421 Hill Road, Birmingham 13
Charleston, West Virginia—William T. W. Brotherton, Jr., '47, 612 Charleston National Bank Building
Charlotte—Harry A. Berry, Jr., '51, 3832 Abingdon Road, Charlotte, N. C.
Chattanooga—Gerry U. Stephens, '50, 2720 Haywood Avenue
Chicago—Selden W. Clark, '55, 345 N. Western Avenue, Chicago 12, Illinois
Cleveland—Robert H. Moore, Jr., '44, 13802 Ardoon Road, Cleveland 20, Ohio
Cumberland Valley—James L. Rimler, '31, N. Court St., Frederick, Maryland
Danville—Douglas K. Frith, '57, 5 Monroe Arms Apartments, Martinsville, Virginia
Florida West Coast—Joseph H. Chumbley, '55, 205 Fifth Street North, St. Petersburg 1, Florida
Houston—Robert I. Peeples, '57, 2344 South Boulevard
Jacksonville—William B. Barnett, '58, 4619 Apache Avenue, Jacksonville 10, Florida
Kansas City—W. H. Leedy, '49, 15 West 10th Street
Louisville—A. R. Boden, '52, 3310 Nanz
Lynchburg—S. Thomas Martin, '38, 89 North Princeton Circle
Mid-South—Wm. R. Carrington Jones, '54, 644 Commerce Title Building, Memphis, Tennessee
New Orleans—John H. McMillan, '42, 1333 Webster Street, New Orleans 18, La.
New River-Greenbrier—Judge Robert J. Thrift, Jr., '31, Box 599, Fayetteville, West Virginia
New York—Richard H. Turrell, '49, 26 Hobart Gap Road, Short Hills, New Jersey
Norfolk—Earle A. Cadmus, '26, 303 New Kirm Building, Portsmouth, Virginia
North Texas—C. M. Patrick, Jr., '55, 5358 Montrose, Dallas, Texas
Northern Louisiana—Robert U. Goodman, '50, 471 Leo Street, Shreveport, Louisiana
Palm Beach-Ft. Lauderdale—Hugh S. Glickstein, '53, Suite 304-06 Atlantic Federal Building, 1750 East Sunrise Boulevard, Ft. Lauderdale, Florida
Peninsula—I. Leake Wornom, Jr., '50, 2219 Chesapeake Avenue, Hampton, Va.
Philadelphia—Stuart J. Bracken, '54, 727 Mt. Moro Road, Villanova, Pennsylvania
Piedmont—Robert F. Campbell, Jr., '42, 621 Nokomis Court, Winston Salem, North Carolina
Pittsburgh—John E. Perry, '38, 1330 Terrace Drive
Richmond—C. W. Pinnell, Jr., '46, 701-703 West Broad Street
Roanoke—William R. Holland, '50, Mountain Trust Bank, P. O. Box 1411
San Antonio—Robert H. Seal, '44, 417 Canterbury Hills, San Antonio, Texas
St. Louis—Burr W. Miller, '49, 6632 Pepperidge Drive, St. Louis 34, Mo.
Southern Ohio—Robert W. Hilton, Jr., '38, 3277 Hardisty Avenue, Cincinnati 8, Ohio
Tri-State—Joe W. Dingess, '21, 151 Kings Highway, Huntington, West Virginia
Tulsa—Eldridge C. Hubert, '51, P. O. Box 93
Upper Potomac—Thomas N. Berry, '38, 15 N. Alleghany St., Cumberland, Maryland
Washington, D. C.—Arthur Clarendon Smith, Jr., '41, 1313 You Street, N.W.
Wilmington—Russell F. Applegate, '52, Street Road, Kennett Square, Pa.

If you move, contact the nearest chapter correspondent for news of meetings.

CLASS NOTES

1910

HARRY J. LEMLEY is a retired U.S. District Judge, Eastern and Western Districts of Arkansas. He is the author of numerous articles on Confederate military history and is author and co-author on papers of Arkansas archaeology. Judge Lemley is a member of the Sons of Confederate Veterans and the Order of the Stars and Bars.

1913

The Honorable EDWARD S. DELAPLAINE of Frederick, Maryland, eminent jurist and author, was presented the Regents' Distinguished Service Award by the University of Maryland. This award, given in the fall of 1963, was bestowed upon three Maryland citizens who in the opinion of the Maryland University Board of Regents exemplify the ideals for which the University stands. Judge Delaplaine has served as a member of the Maryland House of Delegates, as city attorney of Frederick, and was chief judge of the sixth Judicial Circuit and associate judge of the Court of Appeals of Maryland until 1957.

1915

Completing his fortieth year as Commonwealth's Attorney in Louisa County (Va.), W. EARLE CRANK expects to retire at the end of 1963. Thereafter he will devote his time to private practice.

1916

Following retirement from TVA in 1959, E. B. "TED" SHULTZ spent four years as a visiting professor at the N. Y. State School of Industrial and Labor Relations of Cornell University. He is now retired again and lives in Norris, Tennessee.

1918

Since his return from China in 1935,

JAMES L. HOWE, JR., has been with Arthur H. Thomas Company in Philadelphia. Recently he visited his daughter, a correspondent for the New York Times, in Morocco, North Africa.

1920

After forty-two years in service with the American Sugar Company, WILLIAM E. JOHNSTON will retire on his sixty-fifth birthday in January, 1964.

During the spring of 1963 C. E. KIEVLAN from Houston, Texas, made an extended tour through the Eastern United States. In his travels he saw ERIC B. HALLMAN, '30, who took him on a visit to Valley Forge. In Bastrop, Louisiana, he talked to E. L. GLADNEY, JR., '19, who is associate Judge in the Court of Appeals. Charlie also made a visit to Apple Valley, California, where he visited with ART CROMWELL, '19. He writes that in all of these visits there was much reminiscing of the old days.

1921

Though retired in 1961, MORTON FELSENTHAL manages to remain quite active. He is a Regional Board member for the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts Council. He is treasurer of the local library board and a trustee of the State Library Board. He lives in Brownsville, Tennessee.

1923

EDWARD AULL, JR., has recently compiled an Early History of Staunton and Beverly Manor in Augusta County, Virginia. The work is published by the McClure Printing Company of Staunton, Virginia. In this history Mr. Aull has some interesting notes about Washington and Lee.

RAYMOND G. WICKERSHAM is pastor of the Goose Creek Presbyterian Church, which he organized, in Charleston, South Carolina. He is also minister to the college students of the Charleston area, including the Citadel, College of Charleston, and the Medical College of South Carolina. In October, 1962, Raymond was retired from the Naval Reserve with the rank of lieutenant-commander, after serving twenty years as a Navy Chaplain.

1924

The chief engineer for Stonega Coke and Coal Company is W. CLIFFORD SMITH. The Big Stone Gap resident is also consulting engineer for the town which is currently involved with installing a new sewage disposal system and water filtration plant. Mr. Smith is serving a fourth term on Town Council and is chairman of the TVA Reforestation committee for the surrounding counties. A past deputy district Governor of Lions International, he is now director of the Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Town's Planning Commission.

1926

THOMAS THORN MOORE assumed the office of president of the Roanoke Chamber of Commerce in January. Mr. Moore is on the Board of Directors of the Shenandoah Life Insurance Company.

After thirty-two years in Government service as a construction engineer, GEORGE L. READ retired on December 1st from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Mr. Read entered Federal service in 1931 with the Office of Supervising Architect, Treasury Department. He served in World War II and in the Korean War with the civil engineering corps and came to the Public Health Service in 1946, where he had an important role in developing regulations and procedures under which the Hill-Burton hospital program is carried out. Since 1957 Mr. Head has headed the construction and maintenance program of the PHS Division of Indian Health. Mr. Read and his wife plan to live in Florida.

1927

ALLEN HARRIS, JR., executive vice-president of Harris Manufacturing Company in Johnson City, Tennessee, is congratulated on his election as a new director of the National Association of Manufacturers by NAM chairman, William T. Brady. The ceremony took place at the directors' dinner of the 68th annual Congress of American Industry in New York in December, 1963.

Verbon Kemp Leaves Chamber of Commerce Post

■ VERBON E. KEMP, executive director of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce for the past twenty-six years, retired from that position February 15 to become chief executive of the Christian Children's Fund in Richmond.

Kemp, who succeeds Dr. J. Calvitt Clarke as international director of the organization, has served for many years as a member of the board of directors and secretary of the world-wide non-denominational organization which provides for some 40,000 orphans in fifty-five countries. CCF has a current income of approximately $5 million annually.

At Washington and Lee, Kemp served as field secretary, alumni secretary, and executive secretary to the president from 1920 to 1929.

As a student he operated an honor system canteen which received national publicity. He also was the founder of the Troubadours and was a member of Omicron Delta Kappa and Beta Theta Pi, social fraternity.

As alumni secretary he was the founder and first editor of the

VERBON E. KEMP, '22

Alumni Magazine. He compiled and published the Alumni Directory of 1927 which was the second such directory to be published in the history of the University.

He became executive secretary of the Charlottesville Chamber of Commerce in 1929 and held that post until he joined the State Chamber in 1935 as general secretary.

Kemp is publisher of "The Commonwealth," monthly magazine of the State Chamber, and is author of the monthly column, "Notes and Comments," carried in the publication. He is a trustee of the Jamestown Corporation and a member of the board of directors of the Jamestown Foundation. He was a member of the Virginia State Planning Board, the Advisory Council on the Virginia Economy and the Virginia 350th Anniversary Celebration commission.

Founder of the Virginia Cruise Corporation, an organization dedicated to the promotion of passenger traffic through Virginia ports, he has participated in or conducted fifteen tours throughout the world while serving as that organization's executive director.

On the occasion of Mr. Kemp's retirement from his position with the State Chamber, James T. Mathews, State Chamber president, said, "His wise leadership over the years of Virginia's largest organization of businessmen has provided the state with that rare combination of ability and foresight granted to only a few."

ALLEN HARRIS, JR., left, with NAM's WILLIAM T. BRADY.

ROY G. NICHOLS is the educational guardian of four grandsons and two granddaughters. He reports that the two oldest boys are entered at Fork Union Military Academy with eyes toward Washington and Lee in 1968 and 1970. The girls will lean toward Sweet Briar, and he hopes to be around for the graduation of all.

The Family Service Association of America has announced newly elected vice-presidents. They include DAVID H. WICE, with life tenure, as Rabbi of Rodeph Shalom Congregation, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He has been a member of the FSAA Board since 1959, a board member of the Family Service of Philadelphia, and also of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

1928

After a six-month study of transportation in Ecuador, JOHN B. ECKER, with his wife and two daughters, spent two months touring South America. They returned to Potomac, Maryland, in September, 1963.

For his services to Southern agriculture JAMES B. NANCE, chairman of the National Livestock and Meat Board, has been named Man of the Year by the Progressive Farmer. A Crockett County, Tennessee, man, Mr. Nance was the first president of the Tennessee Livestock Association, a former chairman of the National Swine Council, and is now a member of the President's National Agricultural Advisory Commission.

1929

EDWARD H. OULD, president of the First National Exchange Bank of Roanoke, was elected chairman of the Board of Directors of the bank at their meeting in January.

HARRY GODWIN's life-long association with music, particularly jazz, has culminated in the addition of his own record label to his collection of over 3,000 sides. His record label is Jazzette, and he is in celebrated company on this first release of his own composition, a recitation with piano background. The vocalist is famed Dr. Edmond Souchon, the New Orleans surgeon known the world over among jazz fans for his knowledge and writing about New Orleans music. Harry and Dr. Souchon have been friends for many years. Harry is a manufacturers representative of auto parts in Memphis, Tennessee.

C. ALFRED BAILEY, vice-president of Mercantile National Bank of Dallas, Texas, has been appointed to a 12-man national marketing group that will work closely with the U.S. Department of Commerce to stimulate sales abroad by American firms. This top-level committee will coordinate its work with that of the National Export Expansion Council.

1930

GERARD E. GRASHORN is a trial lawyer in Chicago and is a partner in the firm of Winston Strawn Smith & Patterson.

1931

During World War II HORACE W. WESTON served overseas in combat and intelligence duties. He is now practicing law in New York City with emphasis on labor-management relations. Harold has served on several presidential emergency fact-finding boards and special boards of adjustment for the Railway Industry. He and his wife have three children.

Under the presidency and chairmanship of FRANK MILTON SMITH, the Capital Cities Broadcasting Corporation, with offices in a brownstone mansion in Manhattan, enjoys a profitable business with a promising future. Mr. Smith himself has had thus far a fantastic career in advertising and broadcasting—thirty years ago an ad man for station WNEW, later the general manager for WLW in Cincinnati, then advertising manager for Gruen Watch, and in 1946 agent and manager for Lowell Thomas in a partnership that has lasted ever since. One venture was Thomas-(Mike) Todd Productions which obtained exclusive rights to Cinerama. By 1954 they had decided to enter TV and acquired broadcasting enterprises which in 1957 became Capital Cities. The corporation has shown steady profits since 1958 and continues to add stations within the FCC regulations, hoping to add three more radio stations and one more TV station. Mr. Smith has also gone beyond the broadcasting field by acquiring interest in New York Subway Advertising, a business holding an exclusive contract for sale of subway advertising.

1932

R. W. REINHOLD has just returned from two years of government employment with A.I.D. in Brazil.

Name Your Candidate

In compliance with Article 9 of the By-Laws of the Washington and Lee Alumni, Inc., we are listing below the names of the Nominating Committee for the coming year.

Under the By-Laws, any member of the Association may submit the names of alumni to fill the vacancies on the Alumni Board of Trustees and the alumni representative on the University Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics.

There are three vacancies to be filled on the Alumni Board of Trustees and one vacancy for the alumni representative to the University Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics. These vacancies are to be filled at the June 1964 meeting of the Alumni Association. Members are urged to submit names of their candidates for these offices. The Nominating Committee will close its report on April 24, 1964. Present alumni trustees whose terms expire this year are: Dr. John D. Battle, Jr., '34, William B. Wisdom, '21, and T. B. Bryant, Jr., '28. The term of Gilbert Bocetti, Jr., '54, on the University Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics also expires this year.

The Nominating Committee as appointed by the President of Washington and Lee University Alumni, Inc., is as follows:

BARTON W. MORRIS, JR., '43 Chairman
2644 Robin Hood Road, S. E.
Roanoke, Virginia

MARVIN K. COLLIE, '39
3415 Sleepy Hollow Court
Houston 19, Texas

ROBERT W. HILTON, JR., '38
3277 Hardisty Avenue
Cincinnati 8, Ohio

Enjoying life in an 18th Century house, DR. WILLIAM D. HOYT manages to stay quite active in historical societies. During this past summer and fall he did research for a National Park site in Salem, Massachusetts. Dr. Hoyt continues his work of editing the John Carroll papers and estimates publication will be in late 1964. He writes that he recently had a nice visit from CARSON HUNTLEY, '35.

DR. WILLIAM C. KNOPE, JR., formerly of the University of Florida, is now professor and chairman of the Department of Electrical Engineering at the University of Miami. He is also serving as acting chairman of the Division of Marine Technology, a recently created department at this university. Dr. Knopf is the author of many scientific works, including a number of classified documents produced under federal auspices.

R. L. MCKINNEY, JR., of Denison, Texas, was appointed last August as Interstate Compact Commissioner for the Red River by Governor Connally. This group of commissioners from Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, and Texas is writing a Compact for Red River. Mr. McKinney is the third commissioner to represent Texas on this work which has been in progress since 1956.

Associate Justice GEORGE ROSE SMITH of the Supreme Court of Arkansas has been elected a member of the Institute of Judicial Administration. The institute promotes improvements in federal and state courts, conducts studies in problems of court congestion and modernization, and publishes the results of research in judicial administration. Justice Smith served as an instructor of the University of Arkansas Law School and as a practicing attorney before taking his present position on the bench in 1949.

1933

DR. ROBERT R. SMITH has been appointed medical director of McNeil Laboratories, Inc., effective January 1, 1964. Dr. Smith has been medical director of Warner-Chilcott Laboratories since 1960 and prior to that time was senior clinical associate with Warner-Lambert Research Institute.

A reprint of the "History of Conecuh County, Alabama" has been undertaken by J. VERNON BRANTLEY. The original history, by Dr. B. F. Riley, was published in 1881. The reprint will now include an Index and a brief biographical sketch and portrait of Dr. Riley. The release is scheduled in the spring of 1964. Pre-publication orders ($4.00) may be sent directly to Mr. Brantley.

BERNARD B. "DUSTY" DAVIS is being sworn in as Commissioner of the Court of Appeals by Judge MORRIS C. MONTGOMERY, 1930 Law. In the background is FRED T. MOFFATT, JR., 1950 Academic, who is pastor of the First Baptist Church in Shelbyville, Kentucky. A leading attorney in Shelbyville, Dusty has practiced in his home town since 1933 except for four years duty with the FBI during World War II. At the time of his selection to serve the State's highest tribunal, he was City Attorney for Shelbyville, where he is also a deacon and Sunday school teacher at the First Baptist Church.

BERNARD B. DAVIS, '33, is sworn as Commissioner of the Court of Appeals in Shelbyville, Ky., by JUDGE MORRIS C. MONTGOMERY, '30L, while REV. FRED T. MOFFATT, JR., looks on.

1934

RICHARD SALE has turned out a novel, The Oscar, about the machinations involved in the selection of the winners of film-land's coveted awards. During the past years Richard has written prolifically and produced and directed radio and TV shows and has written for the movies. This recent work is published by Simon and Schuster.

SCOTT MOSOVICK is completing his 25th year at Trenton Central High School in business education department. He has retired from coaching football and basketball.

JUDGE THORNTON G. BERRY is one of an eminent group of jurists and national leaders who have been chosen to select the 1963 recipients of the National and School Awards Programs of the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge. The panel will evaluate multi-thousands of nominations and will select individuals, organizations and schools throughout the nation to receive cash and honor medals for their work in helping to bring about a better understanding of the American Way of Life.

The Honorable THORNTON G. BERRY, '34, second from right, served as a member of the 1963 Awards Jury of the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge. Also pictured are l-r, MRS. JENNIE HAYMAN, Navy Mother's Club of America; DR. KENNETH D. WELLS, president of the Freedoms Foundation; and EARL B. MUSSER, Sons of the Revolution.

affairs, he is president of the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club, and the Huntsville Industrial Expansion Committee, and is a trustee of Randolph School. Harry and his wife have three children.

With the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Foreign Agricultural Service, LEROY HODGES, JR., has traveled to Africa, Southern Europe, the Philippine Islands, Hong Kong, Singapore, Australia, and New Zealand—all in the last six months.

RICHARD T. KELLEY is with the publication division at Emerson Electric. The division has become involved in audio-visual training aids, and Dick is busy with Program Instructions.

For the past twelve years ROBERT B. MAYO has operated a small business for the manufacture of minor items used in pipeline construction. During recent years Bob went to law school at night at South Texas College and three years ago he received his LL.B. degree and successfully passed the Texas State Bar. He and his wife have celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary and are proud of their two grandchildren.

1935

HARRY M. RHETT, JR., followed his work at Washington and Lee with graduate training and then served four and a half years with the Army in World War II. Now in Huntsville, Alabama, his business is one of investments, although he owns a farm and is president or director of several local corporations. Active in civic

1936

ED BAUM, III, is a manufacturers representative in Norfolk, Virginia. He is married to the former Mary Virginia Rush, and the couple has two daughters.

For twenty-seven years ORAY M. DAVIS has been in the engineering field, five years in private industry and twenty-two years with the Federal Government. At present he is assigned to the Corps of Engineers, US Army T-7 Building in Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Davis live on a farm in Fauquier County, Virginia, and raise beef cattle.

1937

In December, 1963, WILLIAM C. WILBUR, JR., flew to London with a group of seventy students and five members of the faculty of Florida Presbyterian College. He is in charge of the group who will spend the winter term studying the history of London.

GEORGE RATHER JONES is an airline pilot for Braniff International, flying to Denver, Chicago, and Houston. He is married to the former Eleanor Fordham of Dallas, and the couple has two sons.

1938

SETH N. BAKER of Bloomfield, Connecticut, has been appointed assistant manager for labor relations in Monsanto Chemical Company's Personnel and Administrative Services Department after serving as personnel director for the company's packaging division.

DR. GROVER H. BATTEN was elected president of the Hawaii Division of the American Cancer Society at a meeting in Honolulu in December. Dr. Batten, long associated with cancer control work in Honolulu, will serve for the fiscal year, 1963-64. He is also president of the board of governors of the new Hawaii Medical Library Building which will be dedicated this year.

1939

MARRIED: JOHN MEHLER and Miss Virginia Slocum of Moorestown, New Jersey, were married on May 4, 1963. John is in charge of the library at the University of Alaska, and Virginia is also a librarian attached to the staff there. The couple spent Christmas with her parents in New Jersey.

BORN: MR. and MRS. THORNTON R. CLEEK, a daughter, Margaret Brantley, on December 2, 1963.

JOHN H. WARD, III, General Agent for Aetna Life Insurance Company in Louisville, Kentucky, was elected to the board of trustees of the National Association Life Underwriters in September, 1962. Jack has been past president of the Louisville and the Kentucky State Life Underwriters Association. He has regularly attended the NALU mid-year and annual conventions since 1948 and has served as chairman of the Field Practices Committee and as a member of numerous other committees.

RANDOLPH M. DUNCAN is with the General Electric Company in Owensboro, Kentucky, in the electron tube phase of the business. He has the responsibility for purchasing, distribution, and quality control. The Duncans have a boy nine years old and twins seven years old.

1940

A professor of history at Tulane University, DR. HANS A. SCHMITT is co-winner of the George Louis Beer prize for 1963. The award, presented by the American Historical Association for outstanding work in the field of European international history since 1895, is one of the most distinguished and important awarded by the association. The award was shared jointly with Dr. Edward W. Bennett, a faculty member at the University of Chicago. Dr. Schmitt was awarded the prize for his book "The Path to European Union."

In 1963 JOHN C. WHITE became Managing Director and General Counsel for the Private Truck Council of America, Inc. His offices are in Washington, D. C.

WENDELL R. "BUCKY" STOOPS is in the food brokerage business in Shawnee Mission, Kansas. He and his wife have four children, two daughters and two sons. The daughters are in college at Stanford and at the University of Missouri. The two sons are in the 9th and 3rd grades.

DR. FRANK S. BEAZLIE has recently been inducted into the American College of Surgeons. The ceremony took place in San Francisco last November. Dr. Beazlie has a large practice in Newport News, Virginia.

GILBERT GARDNER is now with the Hudson Dispatch, a morning daily published in Union City, New Jersey, and the only morning daily in Hudson and Bergen Counties, New Jersey.

MELLOR W. STEVENSON, '42

HOMER D. JONES, JR., is now director of the Fund Development Division of the Board of National Missions of the United Presbyterian Church with offices in New York City.

1941

Recently THOMAS S. TULEY, JR., has been in business for himself as a manufacturer's representative, selling furniture. He travels Kentucky and Indiana.

WILLIAM LEE SHANNON has been elected to the Board of Education of the Shelbyville (Kentucky) Independent School District. He and Mrs. Shannon have seven children, five girls and two boys.

RICHARD M. HERNDON has completed a tour with the Department of State in Washington. He expects to spend another year before his next overseas assignment in the Foreign Service. He and his wife, Ginger, have a daughter who attends George Washington University and two sons, age sixteen and seven.

The new mayor of Maywood, New Jersey, is CHESTER ECCLESTON. Chet beat his Democratic rival for mayor by 200 votes.

1942

BORN: MR. and MRS. ROBERT T. VAUGHAN, a fifth child and second daughter, Margaret Harrison, on July 24, 1963.

ROBERT G. ISGRIGG is in the general practice of law in Pontiac, Michigan. He concentrates on plaintiff negligence cases.

Having joined the Ford Motor Company in 1956, ALEXANDER H. JORDAN has just been named controller of the New York Parts Depot. At the time of his appointment Alex was supervisor of the General Accounting Department at the Atlanta Parts Depot. He and his wife with their four sons will move to New York.

A change to the real estate business was made a year ago by HARRELL F. MORRIS. For seventeen years he had been in the automobile field, including the Sales Division of Ford Motor Company, managing positions with Ford dealers in Raleigh, North Carolina, Richmond, and Newport News, and owner of a Lincoln-Mercury Dealership. Mr. Morris' real estate business is located in Newport News, Virginia.

MELLOR W. STEVENSON has been elected to the newly created office of Vice-President-Marketing for the National Castings Company of Cleveland, Ohio. The position was effective October 1, 1963. Mellor, who joined National Castings in 1950 as a sales trainee, has been promoted through the sales division and in 1958 was named vice-President-Sales of the Transportation Products Division. He was appointed Vice-President and General Manager of that division in 1961.

EVANS JASPER is president of Manco Manufacturing Company of Kankakee, Illinois, a company supplying special hydraulic tools of the steel industry. He is also vice-president and director of Timberline Equipment Company of Dallas, Texas, which he founded to develop a new pulpwood harvesting machine, the Busch Combine. Other than business interests, Mr. Jasper is completing his third year on the School Board and is County Chairman of the Percy for Governor Committee.

1943

S. PERRY SIMMONS has just been named a vice-president, domestic sales, of Friden, Inc. Perry, a native of Baltimore, joined Friden in 1953 and has had assignments in New Orleans and Atlanta, and is now in the home office in San Leandro, California.

1944

FREDERICK B. ROWE is on leave from his teaching duties at Randolph-Macon Woman's College. Fred has a research grant from the National Institute of Mental Health, and he and his family are in Denmark where he is studying Denmark's program for the mentally retarded.

WILLIAM P. PEAK is a doctor specializing in arthritis and rheumatic diseases. Bill is past-president of the Kentucky chapter of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Society and is chief of the arthritis clinic at St. Joseph's Hospital in Louisville. The couple has two children.

EARLE PALMER BROWN of Earle Palmer Brown Associates, Washington, D. C., took part in the opening of the new Conrad Hilton Tokyo hotel in June.

HARRISON KINNEY is editor of IBM Corporation's magazine "Business Machines." He is also working on the biography of James Thurber for McGraw-Hill Publishers.

RICHARD L. (DICK) HEARD has accepted a position as Employment Service Adviser with the United States Employment Service, a branch of the US Department of Labor in Washington, D. C. He had formerly been associated with the Virginia Employment Commission for seven years, which gave him the necessary background for his present assignment. Dick, his wife, Millie, and their two children, Sharon Lee and Richard Lewis, Jr., are residing in Arlington, Virginia.

1946

JEROME D. GREENBERG has been promoted to executive vice-president of a complex of textile and plastics companies with home office in West Conshohocken, Pennsylvania. He is also secretary and on the board of directors of these companies. He and his family live in Villanova, Pennsylvania, where Jerome is very active in civic and professional groups.

1947

WILLIAM T. ROMAINE is commercial manager for WWOM-Radio in New Orleans. He is also in charge of entertainment at the Royal Orleans Hotel. Bill and his wife, the former Ann Elizabeth Hayes, have three daughters.

1948

ROBERT T. BOSSERMAN is a partner in the CPA firm of Bosserman and Ould with offices in Harrisonburg, Lynchburg, and Waynesboro. He is also vice-president of the Virginia Society of Certified Accountants and vice-president of the Middle Atlantic Accounting Conference.

After thirteen years in general law practice in Baltimore, JACK L. GROSSMAN has become a partner in the firm of Weinberg and Green, one of the largest law firms in Maryland. He specializes in corporate and tax law. The Grossmans have two sons.

JAMES M. BALLENGEE, president of the Philadelphia Suburban Water Company, has been elected chairman of the Main Line District, Valley Forge Council, for the Boy Scouts of America. He will direct the administration of the scouting program in his area. Jim also serves as a director of the Chamber of Commerce for Greater Philadelphia and is on the Metropolitan Board of Directors for the Y.M.C.A.

1949

BORN: MR. and MRS. WILLIAM ROY RICE, a son, William Randolph, on August 14, 1963.

NORMAN FISCHER is owner and operator of a Spanish language radio station in San Antonio. He is married to the former Cecile Raylano of Sweetwater, Texas, and the couple has a two-year old son.

Having recently resigned as vice-president of the Small Business Investment Company of New York, E. STEWART EPLEY has joined American Can Company in its finance department.

T. E. FOSTER, JR., is treasurer, Union Envelope Division, Hammermill Paper Company, Richmond, Virginia.

In January MADISON D. MCKEE was promoted from vice-president and cashier to senior vice-president and cashier of the First National Exchange Bank of Roanoke, Virginia.

PAUL J. B. MURPHY, JR., is a lieutenant colonel in the Army. After finishing the Armed Forces Staff College in January of this year, he expects to be assigned duty in Vietnam for a year.

1950

MARRIED: DR. ROBERT HUTCHESON

MAUCK and Elizabeth Langhorne Sydnor were married on November 30, 1963, in Lynchburg, Virginia. Mrs. Mauck is a graduate of Agnes Scott College. Among the groomsmen were DR. HENRY PAGE MAUCK, JR., '47, DR. WILLIAM R. MAUCK, '52 and LANDON WHITE TRIGG, '51.

BORN: MR. and MRS. GERRY U. STEPHENS, a son, Gerry, Jr., on September 7, 1963. Gerry is vice-president of the American National Bank and Trust Company of Chattanooga, Tennessee.

JAMES Q. AGNEW is assistant vice-president and in charge of the Virginia office of Marsh and McLennan, Inc., international brokers. The offices are in Richmond, Virginia.

THOMAS T. TONGUE, II, is the head of the history department at Avon Old Farms School in Connecticut. In 1959 he married Barbara Gowdy, and the couple has a son and a daughter. Tom is also lacrosse coach for the school and for the Connecticut Valley Lacrosse Club. He is chairman of the Boys Work committee of the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut.

After a sabbatical year, most of which was spent in Asia, ARTHUR MARENSTEIN has returned to the social studies department of Elmont Memorial High School on Long Island.

DR. JOHN S. CHAPMAN is practicing internal medicine in a three-man group in Dubuque, Iowa. The Chapmans have six children.

Having served since 1951 as a home underwriter, LAWRENCE RIKER has been promoted to manager of The Life Insurance Company of Virginia's new business issue section. He lives in Richmond.

WALTER E. HUNTER moved from Kansas to Scottsdale, Arizona, in June, 1963, where he is now associated with the Russ Lyon Real Estate Agency.

ARTHUR A. BIRNEY has published an article, "The People You Meet," in Yachting Magazine for December, 1963. Art is still practicing law in Washington, D. C., and is this year Commodore of the National Yacht Club.

IRVIN H. WICKNICK is branch manager for Crawford and Company, International, casualty claims adjuster, with offices in Allentown, Pennsylvania. He and Mrs. Wicknick have two daughters, eight and ten years old.

The Savings Bond Division of the U. S. Treasury has appointed OLIVER M. MENDELL, vice-president of the Chemical Bank New York Trust Company, as the chairman of the Kings County Savings Bond Committee. Mr. Mendell succeeds the late Edmund W. Madden, who had headed the committee until his recent untimely death. He is active in numerous charitable and civic activities and is currently heading the United Hospital Fund Business Men's Drive in Brooklyn. Mr. Mendell is also on the board of the Brooklyn Psychiatric Center, as well as the board of the U.S. Selective Service Commission.

On January 1st WILLIAM S. HUBARD was promoted by the Shenandoah Life Insurance Company of Roanoke to Vice-president and General Counsel. Bill has been with Shenandoah since 1954 and was elected General Counsel in 1962. He received his CLU designation in 1960 and is a Fellow of the Life Office Management Institute. In the line of civic work, he has served as chairman of City of Roanoke Redevelopment and Housing Authority, a director of the Roanoke Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, a director of the Roanoke American Red Cross, and of the Kiwanis Club. He is a member of the American, Virginia State, and Roanoke Bar Associations, the Association of Life Insurance Counsel, and the Roanoke Estate Planning Counsel.

DOUGLAS M. EGER is now a partner in the law firm of Radford and Eger in Bedford, Virginia.

FORD STEPHENS has been named special assistant to the president of Woodard Research Corporation at Herndon, Virginia. Ford joined the firm as marketing director in 1962, and in his present position he is responsible for public relations, marketing and planning. Woodard Research is primarily engaged in pharmaceutical research for leading drug manufacturers in the United States and Europe. The company recently developed and marketed several electronic products, including components of a future medical monitoring system for hospitals.

The new editor of The Commonwealth, the magazine of Virginia, is JAMES S. WAMSLEY. The magazine is published monthly in Richmond by the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce. The Commonwealth recently won the top award from the American Association of Commerce Publications for editorial skills and content. Jim and his wife live in Richmond with their two children.

1951

BORN: MR. and MRS. BURTON L. LITWIN, a third son, Kenneth David, on December 27, 1963. Kenneth's older brothers are four and two years old.

BORN: MR. and MRS. J. ALAN CROSS, JR., a daughter, Melanie Jean, on December 4, 1963, in Coral Gables, Florida. Alan is a C.P.A., and he and Mrs. Cross have four other children.

In November, 1963, LOUIS PRESTON (PAT) COLLINS, III, resigned from the practice of law and is now advertising manager for radio station WMEV in Marion, Virginia. He writes that he enjoys every minute of the work.

WINTER 1964

DICK TAYLOR, '51, is author of a new book on Las Vegas gambling.

As of August, 1963, JACK E. KANNAPELL, JR., joined the advertising agency of Foote, Cone, and Belding of Chicago. He is a member of the account management group and has responsibility for Hiram Walker, Inc., of Ontario, Canada.

HUNTER LANE, JR., making his first political race, in November pulled an upset in the eyes of many political observers when he defeated a veteran incumbent by more than 25,000 votes in the race for Public Service Commissioner in Memphis, Tennessee. Hunter, who has practiced law in Memphis with his father since 1955, is not new to politics, however, for he has managed two races for other candidates and he has been politicking against machine-rule government since the early 1950's.

ANDREW W. GOTTSCHALL, JR., took office in October as the regional director for the Carolinas of the National Conference of Christians and Jews. Before his move to North Carolina he was regional director for the Western Pennsylvania-West Virginia Region and in Pittsburgh he produced and moderated both TV and radio shows featuring local and national personalities. He was also successful in developing public relations institutes and workshops in human relations which drew students from private, public, and parochial schools.

The Las Vegas casino operator, DICK TAYLOR, is author of a new book, Las Vegas, City of Sin, which has just been released by The Naylor Publishing Company. In this book, Dick spells out reasons why he believes that legalized gambling has less than fifty years remaining in Nevada. Taylor, an officer on the board of directors of the New Frontier and Hacienda hotels, forecasts a booming Nevada but a dying dice activity. The book, in which Taylor is joined by ex-nightclub singer Patricia Howell as co-author, has stirred controversy in many gambling quarters.

SOL WACHTLER was elected Town Councilman of Great Neck, New York, in the elections held last November. Sol easily led the local GOP, showing exceptional strength although a political newcomer.

DAVE WOLF, JR., has changed his business associations and is now with Markel Service, Inc., as resident vice-president.

ROBERT H. FIELDS, a Marine Corps combat veteran and a former agent for the FBI, was appointed sheriff of Marion County (Indianapolis, Indiana) in October. At one time deputy state attorney-general and deputy county prosecutor, Bob is believed to be the first attorney or former FBI agent ever to hold the sheriff's office. He did not solicit the office—he was the subject of a draft movement. When he was with the FBI he received two personal commendations from Director J. Edgar Hoover. In 1959 he left the FBI to accept the position of state deputy attorney-general, and then in 1961 he entered private law practice. He will, however, now disassociate himself from his law firm.

1952

BORN: MR. and MRS. HENRY I. WILLETT, JR., a son, Rodney Turner, on September 8, 1963.

TOM GARDNER is now teaching at the McLean School for Boys in Washington, D.C.

Having completed his military obligation, ROBERT MASLANSKY is now engaged in the private practice of medicine in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

At the request of the Episcopal Bishop of Kentucky, ERNEST H. CLARKE is serving as chairman of the newly-formed board of trustees for the diocesan conference center. He has served on the maintenance committee for the past two years.

After serving as head of the Suffolk bureau of the Norfolk Ledger Dispatch for nearly ten years, RICHARD O. CARDEN became director of public relations for the Virginia Retail Merchants Association. Recently Dick resigned from the VBMA to become executive assistant of the Virginia Society of Professional Engineers. In this new post he will publish the Society quarterly magazine, The Virginia Engineer, and will direct the annual convention and trade show of the Society as well as handle similar administrative duties.

For the next three years PRES MANNING, JR., expects to be at the Queen Elizabeth Hospital in Eastern Nigeria, Africa. He will be there as a medical missionary.

CLIFTON T. HUNT, JR., has entered the private practice of law in Greensboro, North Carolina. Ted has his own office and specializes in patent, trademark and copyright matters.

HAROLD N. HILL, JR., has been named a partner in the Atlanta, Georgia, law firm of Gambrell, Harlan, Russell, Moye and Richardson.

In June, 1963, D. TERRY WHITMAN, became associated with Realty Funding Company in Atlanta, Georgia, as an operative builder of homes. He and his wife, Gail, have one daughter.

JOHN J. KINDRED has been elected an assistant vice-president of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Company, New York. He is in the personal trust estate administrative department. He joined the bank in 1955 as an executive trainee.

1953

BORN: MR. and MRS. CHARLES MONZELLA, a second son, David Glenn, on December 9, 1963. The Monzellas are living in Charleston, West Virginia, where Charles is West Virginia Broadcasting Editor for the Associated Press. In this capacity he was in New York City in December as a member of an AP Task Force to study broadcast wire reports from various states and to write critiques to improve the quality and content of AP news.

JOHN I. BOWMAN will complete his residency in oral surgery at the Medical College of Virginia in June, 1964, and plans to open a private practice at Virginia Beach.

After internship in Chicago's Cook County Hospital and two years in Navy, T. KYLE CRESON, JR., is back in Memphis in private practice of internal medicine. He and his wife, Jayne, have two sons.

The American College of Life Underwriters has awarded the coveted Chartered Life Underwriters Designation to FRANK A. MCCORMACK. Frank lives in Santa Ana, California.

BRANTLEY F. BARR, JR., has recently been named Staff Supervisor for the Public Relations Department of the Washington, D. C., branch of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company. Brantley has been associated with C & P since graduation and has been in various capacities in West Virginia and New York City.

McHENRY T. TICHENOR received a law degree from the University of Texas in 1958. At present he is president of a radio, FM and television station, KGBT, in Harlingen, Texas, and a radio station in Corpus Christi. He and his wife, Carolyn, have three children, McHenry, Jr., eight years old, Warren, three years old, and Jean, two years old.

JOHN R. O'CONNELL, JR., has joined Reynolds Metals Company as regional public relations manager in New York. For the last seven years Jack has been editor of E & M J Metal and Mineral Markets, a McGraw-Hill publication, and before that he was a public relations staff writer in New York.

JOHN R. O'CONNELL, JR., '53

1954

BORN: MR. and MRS. J. ROBERT CROSS, a daughter, Ann Campbell, on November 1, 1963. The couple also has a son, Robert.

BRUCE R. KING, JR., has been promoted to Assistant Vice-President of the Life Insurance Company of Virginia. Bruce joined the Life of Virginia as a security analyst in 1954 and was promoted to assistant treasurer in 1960.

THOMAS J. KINNY is an instructor in Pediatric Psychology at the University of Maryland where he is also attached as psychologist in the clinic for exceptional children. Tom is married to the former Katherine Klenkenberg of Norwich, Vermont. The couple live in Baltimore, Maryland.

EDWARD ROSS WAGNER, JR., has accepted the position as field claim representative with the Eastern Regional Office of the State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co. Ross will be stationed in the Baltimore office. He was an All-American lacrosse player in 1953.

JAMES C. CONNOR is associated with the law firm of Steptoe and Johnson in Washington, D. C.

J. BENNETT JOHNSTON, JR., won the Democratic nomination for one of five members of the Louisiana House of Representatives from the Caddo Parish in the primary on December 7. The nomination is considered tantamount to election in Louisiana. Bennett is an attorney in Shreveport.

1955

BORN: MR. and MRS. PAUL H. WEINSTEIN, a son, Richard Ira, on June 15, 1963. The Weinstains also have a daughter, Debbie, five years old, and another son, Jay Michael, three years old. Paul is a partner in the law firm of Levitan and Weinstein with classmate LARRY LEVITAN, '55. They practice in Washington, D. C.

BORN: MR. and MRS. DAVID M. BERLINGHOF, a son, Berkshire Todd, on September 9, 1963. David is associated with Cargill, Inc., of Sacramento, California.

Promotions in the Trust Company of Georgia in Atlanta, Georgia, have touched two Washington and Lee men. JOHN W. STACKHOUSE has been named Assistant Vice-President and C. F. PATTERSON, JR., has been named Assistant Treasurer.

A year ago CHARLES H. NOWLIN completed his thesis, "The Thermal Dependence of the Magnetic Moments of Oxide Systems," and in June, 1963, received his Ph.D. from Harvard in applied physics. For a year he has been employed at the Oak Ridge (Tennessee) National Laboratory.

GEORGE T. W. HENDRIX, JR., a property and casualty agent and broker in Olean, New York, is secretary of Both, Branch, and Hendrix, Inc. He is married to the former Norma M. Henry, and the couple has three children. Whip is presently serving as vice-president of the Olean Rotary Club.

Elected at a recent meeting, JAMES A. REEDER is the new Secretary-Treasurer of the Shreveport, Louisiana, Bar Association. Jim is also serving as Secretary of the State Junior Bar Association. He is a practicing attorney with the firm of Booth, Lockard, Jack, Pleasant and Lepage in Shreveport.

Last September BILL BARTSCH left Jamaica, where he was assistant program officer for the US Agency for International Development, for the School of Oriental and African Studies at the University of London. He is engaged in a six-year program leading to a Ph.D. in Middle Eastern Studies and plans to do his dissertation on the economic development problems of Iran. Bill's long-range plans are to do research writing on economic matters of the Middle East, either in the academic field or with a US Government Agency.

1956

BORN: MR. and MRS. BRUCE M. FREDERICKS, twin sons, William Ott and Raymond Edwards, October 9, 1963.

BORN: MR. and MRS. ARNOLD M. APPELFELD, a son, Alex Lee Appelfeld, on June 3, 1963. The couple has an older daughter.

BORN: DR. and MRS. ARISTIDES C. ALEVI-ZATOS, a son, Christen Aristides, on June 28, 1963. For the 1964-65 year of service, which starts in July, 1964, Ted has been appointed chief resident in medicine at the University of Maryland Hospital. He is now completing a third year of medical residency at this hospital.

The year 1963 was full of achievement for CHARLES R. BEALL, JR. In January he and Mrs. Beall announced the arrival of a son, Dennis Bouldin Beall. In February Charlie received the Martinsburg (West Virginia) Jaycee's Distinguished Service Award, and in May he was named president of the Jaycees. During the year he was also elected to the Board of Directors of the Martinsburg Chamber of Commerce.

1957

BORN: MR. and MRS. JOHN D. GARSON, a second son, Scott, on March 13th, 1963. The older brother, Chris, is four years old.

BORN: MR. and MRS. STANLEY M. ERDREICH, JR., a daughter, Mary Elizabeth, on August 9, 1963. The family lives in Birmingham, Alabama.

BORN: DR. and MRS. ROBERT C. TOLLE, a third son, Ada Andrew, on January 2, 1964. Bob received his D.D.S. degree from Ohio State University and is now interning at the State Tuberculosis Hospital in Columbus, Ohio.

BORN: MR. and MRS. H. PRESTON PATE, a daughter, Melissa Ann, on November 5, 1963, in Joplin, Missouri.

BORN: MR. and MRS. RICHARD R. WARREN, a second daughter, Page Warwick, on December 2, 1963, in Bronxville, New York.

BORN: MR. and MRS. DALE FRANKLIN GUY, a second son, Evan Scott, on July 26, 1963, in Houston, Texas.

BORN: MR. and MRS. H. GREIG CUMMINGS, JR., a son, H. Greig, III, on July 6, 1963. Greig is with the brokerage firm of Folger, Nolan, Fleming & Co. in Washington, D.C.

HOWARD V. SANDEN is a pediatrician in Muskegon, Michigan. He and his wife have a year-old daughter, Tracy Lee.

JOHN A. FIREBAUGH is a digital computer programmer at the Defense General Supply Center in Richmond, Virginia.

A captain in the Army Medical Corps, ALFRED J. MAGOLINE, JR., will go to Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D.C., in September, 1964, for three years of residency training in ear, nose, and throat. He and his wife have two daughters.

In December, 1963, JOHN MICHAEL GARNER was elected vice-president of the Little River Bank & Trust Company in Miami in charge of the mortgage loan department. He is also director of the Airport Bank of Miami and the Hialeah-Miami Springs Bank.

F. EUGENE KEITH, JR., is practicing law in Montclair, New Jersey. He and his wife have a daughter, Carolyn.

Accepting a position as field claim representative with State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co., BARRY M. STORICK will be in Raleigh, North Carolina.

ROBERT A. CAIRNS is now selling data recording instrumentation for Consolidated Electrodynamics Corporation in Huntsville, Alabama. Recently he filed papers to start a corporation to do electronic systems engineering and manufacturing

1958

MARRIED: IRA SAMELSON, JR., was married August 24, 1963. His wife, Phyllis, is from Dallas, Texas. The couple now lives in Memphis, Tennessee.

BORN: MR. and MRS. ROBERT G. McCULLOUGH, a son, Robert, Jr., on January 3, 1964. Bob is an attorney in Nashville, Tennessee.

BORN: MR. and MRS. GLENN FAHRENT-HOLD, a son, Scott Curtiss, on June 12, 1963. Glenn is with General Electric Lamp Division in Prairie Village, Kansas.

The Society of Real Estate Appraisers' Board of governors has awarded the Senior Residential Appraisers designation to K. WILLIAM CHANDLER. Bill has had eight years of experience in appraising residential and commercial properties in Memphis, Tennessee. The designation carries the professional endorsement of the Society.

RUFUS L. SAFFORD and his wife moved to Atlanta in February, where he is project manager for the construction of a new country club.

After being assistant trust officer of the First Union National Bank in Charlotte, North Carolina, O. S. AIKEN, JR., has recently been elected trust officer of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company of Florence, South Carolina.

After completing his internship, DR. WATSON G. WATRING remained at the Toledo Hospital where he is presently employed as house physician. In July, 1964, Wat expects to begin a residency in obstetrics and gynecology at Indiana University Medical Center in Indianapolis.

This past November 7, 1963, WILLIAM A. ROBERTS became President of the First National Bank of Eufaula, Alabama.

1959

MARRIED: JOHN C. KOEDEL, JR., and Fay Barbara Birren of Stamford, Connecticut, were married December 21, 1963. She is an occupational therapist working for the public school system. The couple lives in the Short Hills area near Pittsburgh.

MARRIED: ANTHONY J. FRANK and Harriet Ann Duff were married on June 9, 1963, at Jefferson Lakeside Club in Richmond, Virginia. The groom is with J. C. Wheat and Company in Richmond.

MARRIED: JOSEPH STUART LEWIS, IV, and Mary Frances Pyles were married in the Beckley (West Virginia) Presbyterian Church on October 5, 1963. They will make their home in Oak Hill, West Virginia.

BORN: MR. and MRS. ROBERT CONRAD KETCHAM, a son, John Hoover, on December 25, 1963, in Paris, France.

BORN: MR. and MRS. ROBERT E. SHEPHERD, JR., a daughter, Sharon Lynn, on December 17, 1963. Bob left the service in February and is practicing law in Richmond, Virginia, with the firm of Wicker, Baker & Goddin.

DON K. JOFFRION is in his first year of orthopedic residency at Confederate Memorial Medical Center in Shreveport, Louisiana.

1960

MARRIED: JAMES R. LOUTIT was married on August 10, 1963, to Miss Judith Anne Ford of Marion, Massachusetts. The couple now lives in Garden City, New York.

BORN: MR. and MRS. JOHN KENNEDY McMURRAY, a daughter, Nicola Ross, on December 4, 1963, in Martinsburg, West Virginia.

BORN: MR. and MRS. MALCOLM BOBB BURTON, a second daughter, Susan Elizabeth, on November 11, 1963. The Burtons are living in Chatham, New Jersey.

BORN: MR. and MRS. PAUL BARGAMIN, III, a second son, Stephen Neal, on November 8, 1963. Paul is doing legal work with Traveler's Insurance Company in Winchester, Virginia, where the Bargamins have resided two and a half years.

After being with the Irving Trust Company of New York City for two years, FREDERICK J. HERRMANN, JR., has joined Van Products Company in Erie, Pennsylvania. He does personnel and labor relations work. Fred and his wife have two sons.

JOHN M. KIRK is serving in the US Navy at the US Naval Air Facility, Naha, Okinawa, as a Lt. (jg.) Law Specialist.

WICKLIFFE HOLLINGSHEAD is CIC officer and electronic materials officer aboard the USS Aldebaran (AF-10) with the rank of Lt. (jg.). He is married to the former Mary Hamilton of Denver, Colorado.

After receiving an M.A. degree in history from Tulane in 1962, H. GOULD SHIELDS is teaching at Asheville School for Boys while writing his dissertation for his Ph.D. degree.

CHARLES G. BUFFUM, III, is now associated with the First National City Bank in New York City.

Presently on deployment with the Navy VP-24, DAVID K. WEAVER is in Rota, Spain. In June he and his wife, Kitty, announced the arrival of a son, David K., Jr. Kitty and the son are waiting out the deployment with her parents in Boston. Dave expects to be home in May.

In his military service CLIFTON MITCHELL is stationed at the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard in charge of the supply, overhaul, and outfitting programs.

Now in his last year at Cornell Medical College, JOSEPH E. (JERRY) RINGLAND plans to go to Rochester next year for intern-

.....

Richmond Jaycees Honor William Abeloff

■ WILLIAM H. ABELOFF, '57A and '60L, was honored in January by the Richmond Junior Chamber of Commerce when it conferred upon him its Distinguished Service Award for 1963.

For Abeloff, the Jaycees' recognition was doubly significant:

At 29, he became the youngest man to be so honored since the first award for outstanding community service was made by the Richmond Jaycees in 1938.

And the 1963 Award marked the first time the son of a former winner of the award was selected. Abeloff's father, Irvin G. Abeloff, was the award's recipient in 1944.

The younger Abeloff also became the third Washington and Lee alumnus to win the distinction. Stuart Sanders, II, '31, was honored in 1945, and Landon W. Trigg, '51, was recognized in 1958.

Abeloff, who received his LL.B. degree summa cum laude in 1960, is a partner in the Richmond law firm of Cohen, Cox and Kelly.

He is co-founder of Big Brothers, Inc., and has served as the Richmond president of the Big Brothers organization. He has served as a United Givers Fund group chairman, and is on the Jewish Center's board of directors. He is a member of the Richmond and state bar associations and the Richmond Omicron Delta Kappa Club.

While at Washington and Lee, Abeloff was editor of the Calyx, vice-president of the student body, and editor of the Law Review. He was tapped for membership in ODK and the Order of the Coif.

Abeloff holds a reserve commission in the United States Army. He is married to the former Ruth Kohn of South Orange, N. J. They have two children, Jimmy, 4, and Patricia, 11 months.

WILLIAM H. ABELOFF, '60L, and MRS. ABELOFF accept congratulations from Richmond friends after receiving the Richmond Jaycees' Distinguished Service Award.

ship and thereafter he will specialize in obstetrics and gynecology.

Having received his law degree in June, 1963, from the University of Alabama, EDWARD S. ALLEN is presently associated with the firm of Martin, Balch, Bingham and Hawthorne in Birmingham, Alabama.

STEPHEN D. MILLER graduated from the Law School of Georgetown University last October and is now associated with the firm of Wyal and Saltzstein in Washington, D. C.

The appointment of A. PRESCOTT ROWE to the public relations staff of Reynolds Metals Company in Richmond was announced in November. Pres has been assistant director of information services and curator of Lee Chapel at Washington and Lee. He joined the staff here at the University in 1960 and was named curator of the Chapel in June, 1963. While he was in Lexington he was a member of the board of the Rockbridge Concert-Theatre Series and a member of the Lexington-Rockbridge Junior Chamber of Commerce.

GEORGE EMMANUEL ANTHOU has passed the Pennsylvania and Ohio Bar examinations and has been admitted to practice before both.

1961

MARRIED: JOHN HOLT MERCHANT, JR., and Lucy Rebecca Cannaday were married on October 12, 1963, in Charlotte, North Carolina. John is now serving as a first lieutenant in the Army and the couple will live in Ft. Knox, Kentucky, until January when they will be in Germany.

BORN: MR. and MRS. COURTNEY. R MAUZY, JR., a son, Courtney R., III, on November 5, 1963. Courtney is with Johnson & Wimsatt, a lumber company in Springfield, Virginia.

WILLIAM D. MCCOLLUM was recently promoted to the grade of Specialist Fourth Class in the U.S. Army. He is a clerk-typist in the Command's Personnel Division of the Office of the Director of Personnel at Ft. Lee, Virginia.

T. S. CLAIBORNE is currently doing graduate work for a master's degree in chemistry at the University of Texas.

ROBERT W. REHMET is a third-year student at the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston.

LAURENCE KINGSBURY is presently the Director of Library and a teacher of American History at John Burroughs School in St. Louis. He expects to receive his M.A. in English from Washington University in June and will attend the Graduate School of Library Science at Rutgers in the fall of 1964.

Still playing tournament tennis, CHARLES C. BOWIE, JR., was runner-up in the annual post tournament at Ft. Benning. He ranks first lieutenant, and after release from the Army in August, Chuck expects to enter Law School at Washington and Lee. He and his wife, Louise, have one son.

WINTER 1964

A. PRESCOTT ROWE, '60

Having completed his M.B.A. at Columbia University Graduate School of Business, PETER G. SCHMIDT has accepted a position with Beta Shoe Company in International Marketing. He will be in South America for the next two years, initially in Lima, Peru.

MICHAEL K. SMELTZER is now associated with the firm of Eggleston, Holton, Butler & Glenn in the general practice of law in Roanoke, Virginia. LYNWOOD HOLTON, JR., '44, and ROBERT E. GLENN, '51, are members of this firm.

JAMES VINCENT LOUGHRAN became Judge of Municipal Court and Judge of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court of the City of Buena Vista, Virginia, last October. Jim will also engage in the general practice of law in Buena Vista.

1962

MARRIED: GEORGE S. LOGAN and Roberta Whitney Bartlett were married on November 30, 1963. The couple lives in St. Louis where Top is with Union Electric Company.

BORN: MR. and MRS. FRANK C. BARGER, a daughter, Deborah Dorsey, on November 15, 1963. The family lives in Washington, D. C.

LESLIE L. PEARD, III, is employed by United California Bank in Sacramento on a credit management training program.

Following his graduation JAMES N. APLEBAUM started with R. H. Macy Company in New York on an executive training program and was shortly promoted to the position of assistant buyer in the cosmetics and drug department. Jim then served a six months' tour of active duty with the Army. He is now assistant editor of Chain Store Age, a large trade journal for the retail store business.

In June, 1963, ROBERT J. OSBORNE graduated from New York University with an M.S. degree in retailing. He joined the Army Reserves and is now on six months active duty at Fort Dix, New Jersey.

ALLYN KANTOR is presently at the University of Michigan Law School. After graduation in August, 1964, he expects to go in the service. His wife, Syma, teaches French in the Ann Arbor elementary schools. The couple has one daughter.

ALAN M. CORWIN has moved to Portland, Oregon, to assume a position in the management office of the Bonneville Power Administration.

EDWARD P. "NED" HOBBS is attending Columbia University's Graduate School of Business.

Currently on active duty in the Office of the Judge Advocate General of the Army, JOHN A. PAUL has been appointed to the Board of Editors of the Federal Bar Journal. The Journal is the official publication of the Federal Bar Association which is composed of attorneys who are or have been employed by the federal government.

GEORGE VAN SCIVER and his wife, Barbara, live in Lawton, Oklahoma, while he is completing his military service. George is an instructor in the target acquisition department of the Artillery and Missile School of Ft. Sill. He expects to finish his tour in February, 1965.

In May of 1964 JAMES SAGNER expects to receive an M.A. from Wharton's Graduate School of the University of Pennsylvania.

BEVERLY MEANS DUBOSE, III, graduated last fall from Navy Officers Candidates' School, Newport, Rhode Island, with the rank of Ensign. He graduated with honors, sixth in academic rank in a class of 850 students. His military rating on performance by fellow officer candidates in his company was third out of the 850 students. Bo was given an award under the Navy's General Order No. 21 by the Newport Kiwanis Club for displaying the highest quality of leadership.

DAVID F. BROUSSARD has completed Naval OCS and Justice School in Newport, Rhode Island, and is touring the Mediterranean as an ensign on the carrier, USS Shangri-La.

1963

MARRIED: DANIEL BLAIN, JR., and Dale

Van Sciver were married in Philadelphia on November 30, 1963.

MARRIED: THOMAS NELSON RAINS and Laura Whitner Dorsey were married on December 20, 1963, in Atlanta, Georgia.

ROBERT A. YOUNG graduated from the technical training course for United States Air Force aeromedical specialists at Brooks Air Force Base, and FREDERICK F. HENDERSON, RUFUS K. BARTON, and SAMUEL A. BLOCH have completed officer orientation courses.

EUGENE JOHNSON, III, is a student in the graduate school of psychology at George Washington University in Washington, D. C.

Currently serving a military service tour. GERALD L. KESTEN is a lawyer in the Judge Advocate General's Corps. He is living in Long Beach, New York.

KEN KOWALSKI is presently majoring in science in the School of Education at George Washington University.

Although DANIEL F. BOYLES is serving a five-month tour of duty with the Army Reserve, he will return in June to the Gulf Oil Company in Houston, where he was previously in a training program for the company.

Since graduation H. KIRKLAND HENRY, JR., has been a trainee at the International Service Insurance Company in Ft. Worth. In January, however, he began his military duty with an Officer Orientation Course at Ft. Sill, Oklahoma.

PAUL H. BOSWELL is presently serving as a first lieutenant in the 12th Cavalry, 3rd Armored Division, U.S. Army Reserve.

WARDEN H. EMORY is a first-year medical student at the University of Virginia. He is rooming with LINDSAY HICKAM, '62.

ROBERT M. AUBURN and his wife, Diane, live in Durham, North Carolina, where he is attending medical school at Duke University.

Since graduation ROBERT C. HOLLAND has been a reporter for the Richmond Times-Dispatch. He expects to leave in April, 1964, for six months active duty with the National Guard.

JOHN N. GULICK, JR., is stationed on the USS Fletcher (DD 445) as an ensign in the USNR. The Fletcher is out of Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

THEODORE A. DOREMUS, JR., is studying dentistry at the University of Pennsylvania Dental School.

1965

NEWELL S. DOTY is completing studies at American International College at Springfield, Massachusetts. This spring he will be assistant lacrosse coach at Williston Academy in Easthampton, Massachusetts.

in Memoriam

1898

EMORY HOMER SMITH died on November 9, 1963. Mr. Smith had been a wholesale grain and fruit broker in Colusa, California.

1903

JOHN MORTON McCLUNG, who for many years has been in the general insurance business, died in Richmond, Virginia, on September 6, 1963. Mr. McClung had been confined to the Hermitage Methodist Home for the past several years.

1904

ROY DAVIS THOMPSON, former manager of First and Merchants National Bank of Richmond, Virginia, died on January 25, 1964. Mr. Thompson was a member of the first rowing crew at Washington and Lee. Before his association with the bank he had taught school in Virginia and Maryland and had been with a realty firm in Richmond.

1905

JAMES IRA PRITCHETT, JR., of Danville, Virginia, died on June 13, 1963.

1908

DOZIER A. DeVANE, Federal District Judge and former presiding judge of the North Florida District, died December 15, 1963, in Tallahassee. During his college days he played right guard for three years on a powerful W&L football team. After graduation he practiced law for some ten years in Tampa and then came to Tallahassee as an attorney for the Florida Railroad and Public Utilities Commission, helping to draft the vital power commission legislation during the 1930's. Following retirement he continued to assist other federal judges in North Florida, and his last opinion for the appellate court was dated four days before his death at the age of eighty. The present district judge stated that Judge DeVane "won the respect of all who knew him... his great natural dignity and sincere compassion for his fellow man combined with a keen intellect... above all he was a gentleman and a dedicated public servant."

HARRY WORD GASSMAN, for many years a teacher in Walnut Hills High School of Cincinnati, Ohio, died November 3, 1963.

EARLE K. PAXTON died in a Clifton Forge hospital on November 22, 1963. Mr. Paxton had been in the educational field in Virginia for most of his professional life. He started out as principal of the Fin-castle High School in 1909 and went from there to Teacher McGuire's University School and then the principalship of Covington High School. From 1913 to 1920 he was superintendent of the Rockbridge County Schools. Mr. Paxton was perhaps best known, however, for his association with Washington and Lee from 1923 to 1946 as a math professor and for his work with his fraternity, Pi Kappa Phi. In 1950 he was honored by that group for his ceaseless devotion to the chapter and was given a watch as Pi Kappa Phi's "grand old man."

1910

WILLIAM LAWRENCE CRAMER, a bookkeeper for the York Stone and Supply Company of York, Pennsylvania, for forty years, died on January 1, 1964.

HARRY JENNINGS GARNAND died in Tucson, Arizona, on December 3, 1963. Professor Garnand had retired after teaching college students for a total of fifty years. He had taught at Florida State University, Davidson College, The Citadel, and for thirty-seven years at Emory and Henry.

1911

WILLIAM P. THURSTON, an engineer and contractor of Richmond, Virginia, died on July 3, 1963.

1913

STUART TRIMBLE MAY, retired manufacturer, died in Montgomery, Alabama, on November 16, 1963. Mr. May had been owner of the Duncan May Candy Company.

WILBUR WHITE SMITH died on September 26, 1963, in Cape Town, South Africa, where he had been with the United Tobacco Company since 1917.

1914

LEE R. GRABILL, JR., retired patent expert with the duPont Company died in Wilmington, Delaware, on November 2, 1963. At retirement in 1955, Mr. Grabill had been with duPont for thirty years and was secretary of the company's patent board, representing the legal department. He was given broad assignments in the preparation of patent applications and license agreements for synthetic rubber and neoprene and had been called upon increasingly to advise and assist in patent phases of expanded research work. Mr. Grabill was a member of the bars of the U.S. Supreme Court, the U.S. Court of Customs Appeals and the District of Columbia U.S. District Court.

WILLIAM L. LANCASTER, JR., died in Chattanooga, Tennessee, on September 28, 1963. Mr. Lancaster had lived in Chattanooga for forty-two years where he established and had been active in the Lancaster Battery & Electric Company.

1915

W. CARTER BLEIGHT, former principal of Bellevue School in Richmond, Virginia, died on May 4, 1963.

1917

INMAN PAYNE CRUTCHFIELD died in Jacksonville, Florida, on December 23, 1963. Mr. Crutchfield had practiced law in Jacksonville since 1925. He was a former State Attorney of Florida's Fourth Judicial District and was City Solicitor for Jacksonville.

JOHN MORGAN BRIGHT, prominent insurance executive and civic leader in the area, died at his home in Athens, Tennessee, on November 16, 1963. Mr. Bright was the agent for the New York Life Insurance Company as well as operating his own insurance agency. He had served as president of the county TB Association and had been active in TB work on the state level. He had won many state honors in the insurance field.

1921

SHERMAN HART BALLARD, an attorney in Peterstown, West Virginia, died December 25, 1963. Mr. Ballard was a prominent lawyer and a former member of the House of Delegates of the West Virginia Legislature. He was very active in the Rotary and was former Governor of the 273rd Rotary District.

DR. RAMON D. GARCIN, JR., of Richmond, Virginia, died on November 8, 1963. Dr. Garcin specialized in the practice of internal medicine and at the same time was the medical director of the Hope Harbor Hospital for Alcoholism and was the physician for the City Jail of Richmond. Dr. Garcin was also very active in the work of the American Legion and had held many local, state, and national offices in the organization.

1922

WILLIAM B. HESSELTINE, internationally known American Civil War scholar and author, died after a heart attack on December 8, 1963. Professor Hesselstine, who had taught at the University of Wisconsin since 1932, wrote nearly two dozen books dealing with the Civil War and the South. In 1961 he was appointed by the University of Wisconsin as the first Vilas Professor of American History. Professor Hesselstine was president of the Wisconsin Historical Society, a past-president of the Southern Historical Society, and was active in numerous scholarly organizations. He accepted frequent appointments from the State Department to lecture overseas.

1924

ALFRED H. GRIFFITH died on January 20,

1964. Mr. Griffith was commonwealth's attorney of Buena Vista, Virginia, and had been mayor of that city for twenty-four years, serving in that capacity until 1952. He was also a former trial justice and judge of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court of Buena Vista, and at the time of his death he was president of the Griffith Broadcasting Corporation.

1925

RANSOM B. HOUGHINS died on October 24, 1963, in Roanoke, Virginia. Mr. Houghins was in the private practice of law in Roanoke. He had been active in the work of the Exchange Club, serving at one time as president of the Exchange Club of Roanoke and also as state president of the Exchange Clubs.

1926

DR. ROBERT CARL YATES, Professor of Mathematics at the University of South Florida, author of five college math textbooks, and a former supervisor of instruction at the U.S. Military Academy, died December 18, 1963. Before coming to USF, Dr. Yates was chairman of the department of mathematics at William and Mary. In addition, Dr. Yates completed a taped course in mathematics which is used widely by educational TV. He had been governor of the Mathematics Association of America, a member of the National Council of Mathematics, and once served as chairman of the Army Advisory Committee.

JOHN THOMPSON MARTIN of Wilmington, Delaware, died on December 8, 1963. Mr. Martin was a passenger on the giant Boeing 707 jet liner which exploded over the Maryland countryside killing all eighty-one persons aboard. Mr. Martin had been with the duPont Company since 1929 and since 1960 had been office manager of the export section of the plastics department. He had many outside interests, particularly in the fine arts—he was an organist, an excellent artist in water colors, and he directed many theatrical productions in Wilmington. Mr. Martin maintained a keen interest in the Washington and Lee Glee Club and sponsored their concerts in the Wilmington area. Alumni affairs were always sparked by his keen interest, and at the time of his death he was president of the Wilmington chapter of Washington and Lee alumni.

1932

JOHN WILLIAM McCLURE, JR., of Cumberland, Maryland, died on December 21, 1963. Mr. McClure was a vice-president of the Tri-State Paper Company, Cumberland.

1933

CLAUDE ANDREWS LAVARRE died on October 31, 1963. Mr. LaVarre had been with the Singer Sewing Machine Company for nearly thirty years and had had an interesting and varied career as a representative of that company in South America. From 1934 to 1939 he traveled over Peru, Bolivia, and Ecuador as an auditor and in 1940 was moved to Cuba where he became supervisor of the Eastern Division. He was later made general manager for Colombia and Ecuador. At the time of his death he and his family were living in Lima where he was manager of Singer's activities in Peru.

1936

JOHN G. FRY, JR., a vice-president of Valley National Bank of Phoenix, Arizona, and head of its Systems-Research and Development Department, died on January 15, 1964. He joined Valley Bank nine years ago and in 1960 was named a deputy controller and was elected a vice-president in 1962. Mr. Fry led a team analyzing the bank's need for electronic bookkeeping equipment and making studies of various systems available. He had the major responsibility for developing the bank's operations center and for converting the offices to electronic bookkeeping.

HERBERT KENT LYON, JR., having been ill for several months, died on December 22, 1963. He had been with the Royal-Globe Insurance Company of New York City since 1939. During recent years he was Chief Examiner of accident and health claims.

HARRY LEONARD ABRAHART of Philadelphia died on November 16, 1963. Mr. Abrahart was a designer and an interior architect.

GEORGE WILLIAM HOHANNES, an attorney with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Baltimore, Maryland, died August 31, 1963. Mr. Hohannes held the rank of Captain and was commissioned in December, 1942.

1937

WOOD BOULDIN, JR., Charleston attorney and leading West Virginia authority on income tax laws, died January 2, 1964. Mr. Bouldin was a partner in the firm of Spilman, Thomas, Battle and Klostermyer. He was the principal drafter of the present state income tax law and served on a number of tax committees of the state and the American Bar Association.

1953

EDWARD CARLTON MOFFETT was tragically killed on December 3, 1963, in Pleasant Valley, New York, when his car skidded on a patch of ice. He was returning from a party given him by his company, the Poirier & McLane Corporation of New York City, to celebrate his tenth wedding anniversary. Ed was superintendent on heavy construction projects in New York City for his company.

Lynchburg's ROBERT B. TAYLOR, '44, left, outgoing president of the chapter, presents DEAN GILLIAM with a special citation while PROFESSOR SEVERN P. C. DUVALL and new chapter president S. THOMAS MARTIN, '38 look on.

News of the Chapters

A Special Citation for Dean Gilliam From the Lynchburg Alumni Chapter

FRANK J. GILLIAM, retired dean of students and admissions director of Washington and Lee University, received "The Lynchburg Citation" from Washington and Lee alumni at a dinner meeting at the Boonsboro Country Club, February 19.

The award is to be given annually by the Lynchburg alumni chapter, in recognition of "some distinctive and useful service to the University during the past year or over a period of years," according to President Robert B. Taylor.

Taylor explained that the citation will be a continuing annual feature of local alumni activities. Recipients will be chosen by the chapter's executive committee. He said "the citation may be presented to an administrative official, a faculty member, a student, an athletic coach, an alumnus, or even to an individual outside the Washington and Lee community who has made some notable contribution to the University's advancement or reputation."

The citation presented to Gilliam, a Lynchburg native, states that he was selected "for developing a stronger rationale for alumni interest and pride in Alma Mater through his signal contributions to the University's stature . . . for giving emphasis and direction to the ennobling traditions which abide in the minds and hearts of Washington and Lee men wherever they may be . . . and for enriching the undergraduate experience of those who have come within his sphere of influence and shared his warmly humane spirit, his affectionate concern, his uncommon wisdom, and his absolute sense of honor."

Gilliam retired last spring after thirty-seven years of service in the administrative and faculty organization. During his tenure as Dean of Students and Director of Admissions, he established Washington and Lee as a leader among Southern institutions in admissions practices and policies. Mr. James Caskie paid a tribute to Dean Gilliam and expressed on behalf of the entire Alumni Association sincere thanks for his dedicated service.

Although the Hill City alumni did not establish "The Lynchburg Citation" as an annual award until this year, University Treasurer Earl S. Mattingly was similarly honored by the Lynchburg chapter two years ago. In a surprise presentation at the annual Lynchburg alumni dinner in 1962, Mr. Mattingly received the "grateful appreciation" of alumni for "his manifold contributions to the strength, stability and progress of the University through his wise and selfless stewardship of its spiritual and tangible assets and his uncompromising allegiance to those ideals and honored traditions of Alma Mater which are revered by her sons throughout the land."

A social hour preceded an elaborate banquet which featured an inspiring talk by Dr. Severn P. C. Duvall, head of the English Department at Washington and Lee, who was introduced by Bert Schewel, '41. In addition, entertainment was provided by the Washington and Lee singing group, the Saveracs. Dr. Duvall, as a relatively new head of the English Department, centered his remarks around his impressions of Washington and Lee, its faculty, and its students. Dr. Duvall came to Washington and Lee in September, 1962, after having been a professor of English at Dartmouth.

President Robert B. Taylor, '44, presided over the business meeting. A treasurer's report was given by S. James Thompson, '57. A resolution was presented by Lea Booth, '40, from the Lynchburg chapter, but on behalf of all alumni chapters, to express appreciation to the Ford Motor Company Fund for their magnificent assistance to Washington and Lee in the restoration and preservation of Lee Chapel. Secretary Washburn was requested to send copies of this resolution to all chapters. Frank Callahan, '52, gave the report of the nominating committee, and Tom Martin, '38, was named president for the coming year.

For its annual Christmas social activity, the alumni of Lynchburg conducted their formal dance at the Elks Club on December 13. As usual, this was a gala affair with alumni and their guests starting the round of Christmas parties.

BALTIMORE

■ THE ANNUAL dinner-dance of the Baltimore Alumni Chapter was held at the Holiday Inn on November 2 and was attended by a large number of alumni, their wives, and special guests.

Chapter President Dick Whiteford, '57, presided over the after-dinner program which included reports by chapter committee chairmen on finances, student recruitment, special activities, and nomination of new officers.

Elected as the chapter's officers for 1963-64 were President William N. Clements, '50, Vice-President Stephen Ehudin, '57, Treasurer James O'Connor, '44, and Secretary John McDonald, '54.

President Whiteford introduced

Frank A. Parsons, '54, assistant to the president at Washington and Lee, who reported on current developments at the University. Parsons praised the Baltimore alumni for the success of their chapter activities, for the interest they share in their Alma Mater, and for their good fortune in marrying lovely wives.

LANCASTER

A post-game cocktail hour at Lancaster's Overbrook Country Club was well-attended by alumni from the Lancaster area, Philadelphia, Wilmington, and Baltimore who had turned out for the football game November 2 between the Generals and the Diplomats of Franklin & Marshall.

Edgar L. Grove, '56, of Lancaster arranged the successful affair. A "pep" band that Grove had engaged to play at the game also held forth at the country club. The music was LOUD.

BIRMINGHAM

■ A LUNCHEON in honor of Dean Frank J. Gilliam was held at the

A dinner party at the home of LARRY GALLOWAY, '43, in Baltimore turned out to be a Washington and Lee gathering. Pictured are, l-r, CALHOUN BOND, '43; FRANK BROOKS, '46; LARRY GALLOWAY, '43; CHARLES STIEFF, '45, and JAMES O'CONNOR, '44. All except O'CONNOR live within two blocks of each other.

Downtown Club on Monday, October 28. A large number attended and received a fine report of the University.

Following the luncheon Dean Gilliam met with prospective students and their parents in the auditorium of the Birmingham Federal Savings and Loan Association. John V. Coe, Jr., '25, president of the chapter, presided at both meetings.

MEMPHIS

■ THE ALUMNI in the Memphis area were pleased to have Dean Frank J. Gilliam visit with them on October 30. Dean Gilliam met with prospective students and their parents in the afternoon and spoke to the assembled alumni at a dinner meeting.

Chapter president, William Carington Jones, introduced Dean Gilliam and expressed thanks to those officers who had helped with the arrangements.

SHREVEPORT

■ THE ALUMNI and wives of the Northern Louisiana chapter entertained with a dinner in honor of Dean and Mrs. Frank Gilliam on Monday, November 4, at the Shreveport Club.

Robert U. Goodman, '50, president of the chapter, presided at the dinner and welcomed the large number of parents of current students who were present. A cocktail hour preceded the dinner at which Dean Gilliam gave an excellent report on the significant developments at Washington and Lee.

On behalf of the entire chapter, President Goodman presented Dean Gilliam with a silver tray as a token of gratitude for his many years of devoted service.

A meeting for prospective applicants to Washington and Lee had been held earlier in the day. Bill Washburn, the executive secretary of the Alumni Association, was

Above, E. ALTON SARTOR, JR., '38, left, and RICHARD C. EGLIN, '44, with WILLIAM B. OGILVIE of Shreveport, whose son is a senior. At right DEAN FRANK J. GILLIAM, left, listens attentively to JOHN B. ATKINS, JR., '45, at the Shreveport meeting.

L-r, MRS. GUY, MRS. MORELAND, MARVIN MORELAND, '56, and DALE GUY, '57, at Houston.

L-r, MRS. DITTO, TED H. RIGGS, '38, MRS. RIGGS, and BEN W. DITTO, '43, at Houston.

Past president JOHN W. GOODE, JR., '43, congratulates his successor, ROBERT H. SEAL, '44, at San Antonio.

MARSHALL T. STEVES, '44, left, and RAYMOND R. RUSSELL, JR., '42, at San Antonio.

San Antonio lawyers WILLIAM W. (MIKE) PALMER, '30L left, and RUSSELL B. WINE, '12L.

JOSEPH C. ARMOURS, '31; R. R. WITT, '13; and ROBERT H. SEAL, '44 at San Antonio.

present and displayed colored slides of the campus.

HOUSTON

■ A DINNER for alumni, their wives, and parents of current students was held Tuesday evening, November 5, at the River Oaks Country Club. Making a short report on the University, Bill Washburn showed color slides of the campus with special emphasis on the restored Lee Chapel. Buzzy Griffin, '60, now actively engaged in business in Houston, gave a humorous summation of "What Washington and Lee Did for Me."

Following the program, Robert Peeples, '57, president of the chapter, introduced the other newly-elected officers. They are W. Temple Webber, Jr., '54, vice-president, and R. Gordon Gooch, '56, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Milton Morrison, whose husband had for many years been president of the chapter, sat at the head table and was recognized. President Peeples reminded the alumni of the chapter's future program, particularly as it related to the recruitment of prospective students.

SAN ANTONIO

■ A STAG cocktail-dinner meeting was held by the chapter on Wednesday evening, November 6, at The Barn Door in San Antonio. Bill Washburn, executive secretary of the Alumni Association, was guest speaker. During his remarks concerning the recent developments at the University he showed colored slides of the campus.

Washburn and Ganahl Walker had visited several high schools in the afternoon, and they reported on the prospective applicants who were interviewed. John W. Goode, Jr., '43, presided over the meeting.

In the short business session which followed, the following were elected: President, Robert H. Seal, '44; members of the Board of Directors, R. R. Witt, '13, Robert R. Russell, Jr., '42, Houston H. Harte, '50, Norman Fischer, Jr., '46, Thomas C. Frost, Jr., '50, and Marshall T. Steves, '44.

NORTH TEXAS

■ THE NORTH TEXAS alumni, their wives, and guests entertained with a dinner on Thursday, November 7, at the Cross Keys Restaurant in Ft. Worth.

Previously there had been a highly successful meeting with approximately twenty prospective applicants and their parents at the "99" Room of the First National Bank. The excellent arrangements were made by Clay Berry, Jr., '50, vice-president of the chapter, and Bob Collett, '60, who received the expressed appreciation from the entire group.

During the cocktail hour which preceded the dinner, a phonograph record of the Glee Club singing "The Swing" and "College Friendships" brought a fine response.

Charles M. "Pat" Patrick, Jr., '55, president of the chapter, presided over the meeting. Dr. A. Compton Broders, Jr., '38, of Temple, Texas, presented a proposal for a yearly "Washington and Lee Weekend in Texas."

The executive secretary of the Alumni Association, Bill Washburn, was on hand, and after reporting on the recent campus developments he presented some color slides of the University and the restored Lee Chapel.

A special welcome was expressed to Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt C. Hedrick, '10, who over the years have been such loyal supporters of the chapter and its activities.

NEW ORLEANS

■ THE INTERNATIONAL HOUSE was the site for a luncheon in honor of Dean Frank J. Gilliam on November 8. A small but enthusiastic group attended the meeting, and J.

H. McMillan, chapter president, presided.

On the preceding afternoon Dean Gilliam talked with prospective students and their parents at the New Orleans Academy. All alumni were deeply appreciative for the splendid, up-to-date report of the University given by Dean Gilliam.

MOBILE

■ WITH ALL the appropriate fanfare the alumni of southwest Alabama (Mobile area) gathered for the formation of an alumni chapter and the inauguration of officers. Down for the occasion were Dean Frank J. Gilliam and Bill Washburn, Alumni Secretary.

The gala affair was held Monday evening, November 11, at the Skyline Country Club in Mobile. A cocktail hour preceded the meeting where a large group of alumni and their ladies heard a report from Dean Gilliam on recent developments on campus.

Washburn, on behalf of the Alumni Association, presented a certificate of membership to Robert S. Bacon, '29, who was elected president of the newly formed chapter. G. Sage Lyons, '58, was named secretary-treasurer, and Dr. Guy C. Oswalt, '40, was elected vice president. Other members of the Board of Directors are: Russell Ladd, III, '57, Dr. Joseph R. Mighell, '40, H. Ogden Shropshire, '24, and Arthur C. Tonsmeire, '34.

A committee headed by Sage Lyons, accompanied by Dean Gilliam and Mr. Washburn, had conducted an interview during the afternoon with applicants from the local high schools. A report was made for this committee.

President Bacon concluded the meeting with a short explanation of the future program for the chapter. Following the meeting colored slides of the campus were shown.

PENSACOLA

■ AN OFFICIAL welcome into the membership of the Alumni Association was extended the Pensacola, Florida, chapter on Tuesday, November 12. Alumni of this northwestern Florida area joined for a meeting at the Pensacola Yacht Club, where Bill Washburn presented the certificate of membership.

The principal speaker for the occasion was Dean Frank J. Gilliam.

New officers of a new chapter at Mobile are, l-r, secretary-treasurer G. SAGE LYONS, '58; president ROBERT E. BACON, '29; and vice-president GUY C. OSWALT, '40.

New officers and board members of the Pensacola Chapter elected at the November certification ceremony. Seated, l-r, HENRY E. McLAUGHLIN, '40; FRONTIS W. SHERRILL, '28; and JUDGE RALPH M. McLANE, '29. Standing, l-r, WILLIAM J. NOONAN, JR., '43; HENRY M. YONGE, '42; RODGER P. DOYLE, '58; and JOHN R. LIGON, '43.

A large number of alumni and their wives joined together to hear his remarks concerning the recent developments on campus. Judge Ralph McLane, '29, presided over the meeting, and Mr. Frontis Sherrill, '28, introduced Dean Gilliam and expressed a welcome to the entire group on behalf of the newly formed chapter.

The elected officers are as follows: Rodger P. Doyle, '58, president; William J. Noonan, Jr., '43, vice-president; John R. Ligon, '43, secretary-treasurer. Elected to the Board of Directors were Frontis Sherrill, '28, Ralph McLane, '29, Henry Yonge, '42, Henry McLaughlin, '40, William Noonan, '43, and Richard Turner, '42.

In the afternoon prior to the meeting, Dean Gilliam and Bill Washburn had conducted interviews with prospective applicants to Washington and Lee at a meeting in the Citizens and Peoples National Bank.

CHARLOTTE

■ ALUMNI OF THE Charlotte chapter gathered for a stag party at the City Club on November 13. Bill

Washburn, Alumni Secretary, was through Charlotte for this occasion. Earlier Washburn had an interview with four prospective students from the Charlotte area.

Harry A. Berry, Jr., '51, President, was in charge of the arrangements. The program included a discussion of future plans for the chapter in the coming year.

ATLANTA

■ IN A TOUR of southern preparatory and high schools, Dean Frank J. Gilliam stopped in Atlanta on November 14. The alumni were pleased to join with him for luncheon at the Cherokee Town and

At the Piedmont Chapter meeting: l-r, D. M. HOLSENBECK; CLAIBOURNE H. DARDEN, '35; WILLIAM E. LATTURE, '49; and L. W. WILSON, '37.

Country Club. Many alumni brought guests and prospective students with them.

A busy schedule saw Dean Gilliam at Westminster School in the afternoon, and many prospective students and their parents met with him at 7:30 that evening in the Board Room of Foote and Davis. Floyd McRae, Jr., president of the chapter, expressed appreciation and welcomed all Atlanta alumni on behalf of those present.

PIEDMONT

■ A LARGE group of alumni in the Piedmont chapter gathered in the Wedgwood Room of the King Cotton Hotel in Greensboro on November 14. They heard a report from Bill Washburn, Executive Secretary of the Association, and reviewed color slides which he had of recent developments on campus.

During the afternoon Washburn visited the Grimsley High School in Greensboro to interview prospective applicants to Washington and Lee. Among the guests during the evening banquet were parents of current students and also the prospective applicants.

In the business session presided over by outgoing President Larry Wilson, '37, the following new officers were elected: President Robert F. Campbell, '42; Secretary William E. Latture, '49; Board Members Jack Eubanks, '52; Dr. William White Trigg, '49; and James D. Coleman, '37.

The splendid arrangements were made by Abe Jones, '51.

ROANOKE

■ PROFESSOR O. W. Riegel, head of the Journalism and Communications Department, was principal speaker at a Roanoke chapter meeting on Monday, November 18.

The stag dinner party was held in the Colony Club at the Patrick Henry Hotel and was preceded by a social hour. Benno Forman, '52, handled the arrangements and outgoing president Robert S. Goldsmith, '53, presided at the meeting.

vin Burton, '25, Dr. Henry Lee, '26, and Robert W. Spessard, '39.

In the business session the following officers were elected: A. Linwood Holton, '44, president; William A. Gibbons, Jr., '21, vice-president; William R. Holland, '50, secretary-treasurer.

JACKSONVILLE

■ ALUMNI in the Jacksonville, Florida, chapter area joined Monday evening, November 25, in honor of Dean Frank J. Gilliam and Mrs. Gilliam at a dinner meeting at the Robert Meyer Hotel. Presiding was presented at the close of the meeting.

MIAMI

■ MEETING at the Urmey Hotel on Tuesday evening, November 26, the alumni of Miami joined to hear Dean Frank Gilliam present an up-to-date picture of the Washington and Lee campus. Dean and Mrs. Gilliam were visiting the city, and in the afternoon Dean Gilliam presided at a meeting of prospective students.

J. Alan Cross, president of the alumni chapter, presided at the evening dinner meeting and an-

Leaders of the Jacksonville chapter pose with a welcome visitor. L-r, outgoing president ROBERT P. SMITH, '54; DEAN FRANK J. GILLIAM, '17; new president WILLIAM B. BARNETT, '58; and ARCHIE O. JENKINS, II, '58, new vice-president.

In his remarks concerning the University, Professor Riegel paid special attention to the renovation project of Reid Hall. He explained some of the background and the future plans for the construction in Reid Hall as it relates to the new home for the Journalism and Communications Department.

Professor Riegel was introduced by Fred Loeffler, '46, of the Roanoke Times World Corporation. Bill Washburn, alumni secretary, was also introduced and made a few comments concerning the forthcoming Alumni Directory and general reunion.

Recognition was given to those alumni whose sons are present students on campus. They are Dr. Cal-the outgoing president, Robert P. Smith, Jr.

Dean Gilliam gave a brief sketch of recent developments on the campus. An afternoon of interviews with prospective applicants had been arranged by Bob Smith and Bill Barnett at the Barnett National Bank.

In the short business session which followed Dean Gilliam's after-dinner remarks, the following officers were elected for the coming year: President William B. Barnett, '58; Vice-president Archie O. Jenkins, II, '58; and Secretary-Treasurer Thomas F. King, Jr., '58.

The alumni were especially happy to see the colored slides of the campus which Bill Washburn pre-nounced plans for the future program of the chapter.

A special welcome was given to Senator Frederick M. Hudson, who represented the class of 1890. Senator Hudson is still most active as an attorney in Miami.

Following the formal meeting, Bill Washburn presented recent colored slides of the campus, including some showing the restoration of Lee Chapel.

FT. LAUDERDALE- PALM BEACH

■ A LARGE group of alumni and their wives and guests attended a dinner meeting on December 2 in honor of Dean and Mrs. Frank J.

Gilliam. Dean Gilliam was making a tour of southern preparatory and high schools and while in Ft. Lauderdale and Palm Beach visited with a number of prospective students and their parents.

During the dinner which was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Bev Smith, '32, the short business session saw Hugh Glickstein, '53, a lawyer in Ft. Lauderdale, named as new president of the chapter.

FLORIDA WEST COAST

■ THIS FALL the chapter was pleased to have visitations from two repre-group, President Chumbly expressed appreciation to Bill for his visit.

CLEVELAND

■ ON DECEMBER 26, the local alumni had a luncheon meeting in honor of the current students attended by more than twenty-five persons.

Dr. John Battle, President of the Alumni Association, made a report on developments at the University. Sam McChesney, '67, and Dick Grazier, '66, gave reports on student activities.

During the business session Rob-

Vice-president George M. Allen, Jr., '57; Treasurer Stephen H. Snow, '54; and Secretary James T. Trundle, '50.

WASHINGTON

■ THE WASHINGTON chapter held its annual holiday alumni luncheon on December 30 at the Army-Navy Town Club. The honored guests were Coach Lee McLaughlin, head football coach, and "Buck" Leslie, backfield coach, along with Secretary Bill Washburn.

Moving picture film of the football highlights was shown and sentatives of the University. On December 3, Dean Frank J. Gilliam met with alumni, their wives, and guests at the Palma Ceia Golf and Country Club. Charles Lykes, Jr., '39, presided at this meeting, and in the short business session presented these new officers: President Joe Chumbly, '55, and Secretary Bert Nelson, '42. Dean Gilliam in addressing the assembled alumni gave an up-to-date review of the University.

Old friends meet at the St. Petersburg stag party. L-r, WILLIAM G. GARDINER, '29; HUGH E. REAMS, '46; RICHARD L. LILE, '20; and VINCENT A. IGNICO, '43.

On January 21, the chapter started the New Year with a stag get-together at the St. Petersburg Yacht Club. Alumni Secretary Bill Washburn was on hand and presented excellent color slides of the campus. On behalf of the enthusiastic ert H. Moore, Jr., '44, was named chapter president for the ensuing year.

PHILADELPHIA

■ THE FINAL meeting in 1963 of the Philadelphia chapter was held at the Yale Club with President James Trundle presiding. Several matters of business were discussed including the program for the recruitment of local high school students and the participation of the Philadelphia chapter in the College Night Program.

A February dinner-dance was the subject of discussion before the following new officers were elected: President Stuart J. Bracken, '54;

Coach McLaughlin gave a brief talk on the prospects for next year. A large group attended this meeting and brought a number of high school seniors as guests.

CHARLESTON

■ ALUMNI of the Charleston area were pleased to have a visit on January 9 from Director of Admissions James D. Farrar and Alumni Secretary Bill Washburn. A dinner meeting was arranged by outgoing president, Lee Kenna, '40, at the Edgewood Country Club.

Dean Farrar presented a review of the admissions policy at the University and an overall review of recent developments. Bill Washburn presented recent color slides.

Among alumni attending the Danville meeting in November were, l-r, C. RICHARD WILLIAMSON, '51; JOHN D. HEARD, '53; P. K. MILES, '17; and ROBERT L. HOPKINS, JR., '51.

The following new officers were elected for the coming year: President W. T. Brotherton, '47; and Vice-president Frank Baer, '52. Re-elected for secretary-treasurer was Ike Smith, '57.

RICHMOND

■ IN HONOR of Founders Day, the Richmond chapter held its formal dinner-dance at the Rotunda Club on the evening of January 25. A large number attended this splendid affair, which was arranged by chapter president, C. W. (Buck) Pinnell, '46. Bill and Elizabeth Washburn from Lexington represented the University.

LOUISVILLE

■ FOOTBALL Coach Lee McLaughlin and Backfield Coach Buck Leslie were in Louisville on February 3 and visited local high schools.

That evening an alumni dinner was held at the Pendennis Club under the splendid arrangements of President A. R. Boden, '52. Both Coach McLaughlin and Bill Washburn addressed the large group which included several prospective students, their parents, and local high school coaches.

Following the meeting movies of the Generals-Centre football game were shown, as well as color slides of the University. Expression of appreciation was made to George Burks for his splendid help in the visitation to the local high schools.

DANVILLE

■ THE CHARCOAL HOUSE Restaurant was the setting for a meeting of the Danville area alumni on Friday, November 15, where a large group from Martinsville, Halifax and the surrounding area joined with the Danville group to hear Bill Washburn, the alumni secretary, make a report on recent developments on campus. After a short social hour the group had a delightful steak dinner.

In the business session the nominating committee, consisting of Charles R. Thomas, Jr., Stafford Whittle, II, and Mills Rogers, Jr., placed the following slate of officers for election: President Douglas K. Frith, '57; Vice-president John D. Heard, '53; and Secretary-Treasurer T. Ryland Dodson, '46. The election was unanimous.

Washburn also had colored slides of new facilities at Washington and Lee.

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY ALUMNI MAGAZINE

A Statement

The following is a statement of ownership, management, and circulation of The Alumni Magazine of Washington and Lee University as required by act of Congress on August 24, 1912, as amended by the Acts of March 3, 1933, July 2, 1946, and June 11, 1960. The Alumni Magazine is published quarterly and entered as second class matter at the post office at Lexington, Virginia, September 15, 1924.

The printer is the Washington and Lee Journalism Laboratory Press with C. Harold Lauck as superintendent. William C. Washburn is the editor and business manager. The address of the preceding is: Washington and Lee Alumni, Incorporated, Lexington, Virginia.

The owner is the Washington and Lee University Alumni, Incorporated, Lexington, Virginia. There are no bondholders, mortgage, or other security holders. The average number of copies of each issue of the publication during the twelve preceding months was 10,700.

DON'T FORGET!

June 11, 12, 13

General Alumni Reunion of All Classes

Make your plans NOW to be there!

See Page 24 for additional information.

The Washington and Lee Chair

with crest in five colors

This chair is made from northern birch and rock maple—hand-rubbed in black with gold trim (arms finished in cherry). A perfect gift for Christmas, birthday, anniversary or wedding. A beautiful addition to any room in your home. All profit from the sale of this chair goes to the scholarship fund in memory of John Graham, '14.

Mail your order to:

WASHINGTON AND LEE ALUMNI, INC.

Lexington, Virginia

Price $30.50 f.o.b. Gardner, Massachusetts
(effective April 1, 1964)