

the alumni magazine of washington and lee university

DECEMBER 1972

W
&L

the alumni magazine of washington and lee
Volume 47, Number 8, December 1972

William C. Washburn '40.....Editor
Romulus T. Weatherman.....Managing Editor
Robert S. Keefe, '68.....Associate Editor
Mrs. Joyce Carter.....Editorial Assistant

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Annual Support Committee 1
Class Agents Weekend 2
Shenandoah and Its Editor 6
Campus News 8
Paxton Honors Teachers15
New Athletic Association16
Fall Sports Activity17
Class Notes18
In Memoriam22
Wilbur C. Hall, Benefactor24

Published in January, March, April, May, July, September, November and December by Washington and Lee University Alumni, Inc., Lexington, Virginia 24450. All communications and POD Forms 3579 should be sent to Washington and Lee Alumni, Inc., Lexington, Virginia 24450. Second class postage paid at Lexington, Virginia 24450, with additional mailing privileges at Roanoke, Virginia 24001.

Officers and Directors
Washington and Lee Alumni, Inc.

A. CHRISTIAN COMPTON, '50, Richmond, Va.
President

UPTON BEALL, '51, Tyler, Texas
Vice President

T. HAL CLARKE, '38, Washington, D.C.
Treasurer

WILLIAM C. WASHBURN, '40, Lexington, Va.
Secretary

RICHARD D. HAYNES, '58, Dallas, Texas

WILLIAM H. HILLIER, '38, Chicago, Ill.

VERNON W. HOLLEMAN, JR., '58, Washington, D.C.

C. ROYCE HOUGH, III, '59, Winston-Salem, N.C.

THEODORE M. KERR, '57, Midland, Texas

J. PETER G. MUHLENBERG, '50, Wyomissing, Pa.

J. ALVIN PHILPOTT, '45, Lexington, N.C.

BEAUREGARD A. REDMOND, '55, New Orleans, La.

EVERETT TUCKER, JR., '34, Little Rock, Ark.

On the cover: Outstanding cross-country runner Stuart Nibley tops a rise near Liberty Hall. In the background is House Mountain. Nibley's course is an access road which leads to the site where ground is being prepared for the new law building. Photo by Robert Lockhart.

STATEMENT OF OWNERSHIP as required by Act of Congress of Aug. 24, 1912, as amended by the Acts of March 3, 1933, July 2, 1946 and June 11, 1960: W&L, The Alumni Magazine of Washington and Lee University is owned by Washington and Lee University Alumni, Inc., and is entered as second class matter at the Post Office in Lexington, Virginia 24450, with additional mailing privileges at Roanoke, Virginia 24001. William C. Washburn is editor and business manager. His address is Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Virginia 24450. There are no bond, mortgage, or other security holders. The average number of copies of each issue during the 12 preceding month was 15,500.

Current Support Committee added to Achievement Council

A Current Support Committee has been added to the Washington and Lee Achievement Council, the group formed by the Board of Trustees to spearhead the University's effort to raise $56 million by 1980.

The Current Support Committee is the sixth committee of the Council, headed by Trustee John M. Stemmons of Dallas. Members of the new committee are Sydney Lewis, chairman and a Trustee; James H. Bierer, chairman of the Alumni Fund; Edwin J. Foltz, chairman of the Robert E. Lee Associates; and Robert A. Hemm, chairman of the Parents' Council.

The Current Support Committee will concentrate its efforts on raising the remaining portion of the $7,850,000 in current support required by the University as an integral part of the $56-million Development Program. The committee will direct its attention to the same constituencies during the 70's as the other five Achievement Council committees. The other five committees have responsibility for these designated constituencies: Alumni, Law Alumni, Parents, Foundations, and Business and Industry.

The Board of Trustees has issued a statement that asks all alumni, parents, and friends to make annual giving—gifts for current support—their first priority. Development officials have emphasized that roughly one-half of the University's current support requirements through the 70's need to be met through the Alumni Fund. The other one-half must come from parents, friends, foundations, and corporations.

These officials have also pointed out that the projections in the Development Program of $7,850,000 for current support and $24 million for endowment are valid only if both succeed. To the extent that one should fall short, the other would have to be larger.

The Current Support Committee will seek to coordinate the efforts of all of Washington and Lee's annual giving volunteers and to give these men and women a direct link to the Achievement Council and the Board of Trustees.

The Robert E. Lee Associates and its General's Council are not separate annual giving programs in themselves but are programs for recognizing exceptional giving and the means of assembling these donors and bringing them into a closer relationship with the University.

Sydney Lewis

A weekend of work and fun for Class Agents

Twenty-five Class Agents, the Alumni Fund Chairman, and all four of the newly appointed Vice Chairmen came to Washington and Lee on Friday, Sept. 22, for a weekend of work and fun. This was the first weekend for Class Agents ever held at the University, and the unanimous verdict of all who participated was that it was an unqualified success. The pictures on these and the following pages are a sampling of what went on.

Alumni Fund Chairman Jim Bierer, '40, goes over plans for the 1972-73 Alumni Fund program with the vice chairmen.

Calvert Thomas, '38A, vice chairman for Academic Classes 1935-48, and Herbert Jahncke, '30A, vice chairman for Academic Classes 1923-34.

John Stump, '57L, vice chairman for Law Classes.

Newt Harman, '40L Class Agent, and his wife greet friends during cocktails at the President's House.

Oliver Mendell, '50A, (center), vice president for Academic Classes 1949-72, at workshop with other Class Agents.

Class Agents Buck Ogilvie, '64A, and Carter Fox, '61A, exchange ideas about running their class campaigns.

Class Agents and their wives at the President's House for cocktails before dinner at Evans Dining Hall.

Charlie Smith, '27L Class Agent, and Paul Cavaliere, '48L Class Agent.

Absorbed in an exchange of views are Dick Smith, '41A, and Everett Martin, '37A.

President Huntley talks with Evins Hamm, '53A, and wife.

Scott Mosovich, '34, and Charles Tutwiler, '24L.

Bob Brennan, '73, President of the Student Body, addresses Class Agents at dinner...

... And so did Jim Bierer and President Huntley.

Class Agents discuss plans at Saturday morning workshop.

Agents ponder 1972-73 Alumni Fund program at workshop.

Lawson Turner, '72L, Al Orgain, '71L, and Claude Carter, '59L, at workshop.

President Huntley explains why the Alumni Fund has top priority in the Development Program for the '70's.

Before the football game, Class Agents had cocktails at the Alumni House.

Charles Tutwiler, '24L, gives a hand to Ethan Allen, '31L, during pre-game cocktails.

Matt Cole, '71A, talks things over with President Huntley.

From the President's box, Agents watch W&L end Westminster's 22-game winning streak.

Frank Parsons, '54A, and Jerome Frampton, '33L, and their wives chat during cookout.

Class Agents and wives gather for post-game cookout at home of Farris Hotchkiss, '58, Director of Development.

by Robert S. Keefe

The little quarterly that helps shape American literature

It was just 22 years ago that Shenandoah was born, a three-time-yearly magazine initially designed principally to provide students with an outlet for serious literary writing—to become what the Southern Collegian had been many years before. At first it was edited by a committee of undergraduates who were advised by a member of the faculty, and its principal content was the poetry, the reviews, the essays, and stories of Washington and Lee men.

Today, Shenandoah has become one of America's respected "little" quarterlies, the breed of magazine often (but not always) connected with a respected college or university, and which is published for the sake of the art and not for the dollar.

(The University hardly abandoned the notion that its students deserve a literary outlet of their own: Ariel is their quarterly and four years ago it was voted full membership on the student Publications Board.)

Shenandoah has come of age in W&L's English department: James Boatwright, its respected editor, is professor of English, and his two assistants—Dabney Stuart, the well-known poet, and Stephen H. Goodwin, a creative young writer of fiction—are associate professor and instructor in English respectively.

"Little" magazines are freed of the pressures facing commercial publishers, Boatwright points out—and enormous pressures those are.

Financially, Shenandoah is secure, though perhaps only barely so. Subsidies from Washington and Lee are crucial in that circumstance. Subscriptions are $4 a year and provide some revenue as well. So too do grants and external subsidies, awarded for the merit of the magazine. The latest is a $2,500 grant from the Coordinating Council of Literary Magazines. The sum must be matched, however, and not from its regular University subsidy—and so that is one of Boatwright's major non-editorial tasks this winter.

Historically, America's best writers and poets—those whose talents have influenced American letters most profoundly—have "gotten their start" in little magazines. More than a few of those starts have been in Shenandoah. In Volume I, Number I, there appeared a story called "Shattered" by a W&L student named T. K. Wolfe. Now he's known as Tom, and his books have titles like Kandy Colored Tangerine-Flake Streamline Baby and Radical Chic. Flannery O'Connor was published early in Shenandoah, and Washington and Lee now has in its archives the correspondence between her and Thomas H. Carter, the student editor of the magazine at the time. Reynolds Price, one of the foremost Southern writers now, was also "discovered" early by Shenandoah, and in fact he is now an advisory editor. (So is James Dickey, who is also published frequently in Shenandoah.)

The little magazine takes the best works of these people—and then doesn't remold them. "There is a kind of freedom to experiment" in the quarterlies like Shenandoah, Editor Boatwright comments, and as a result, it is precisely these magazines—and the writers they publish—that shape the whole of American literature.

As its prominence has grown, the number of manuscripts submitted has grown too. Boatwright receives "maybe 1,000 fiction manuscripts" every year—and personally judges each. He has to, he says. Editing the magazine is necessarily that personal an assignment. Two or three thousand poems come in every year too, and Stuart likewise reads them all—himself.

An unpleasant chore? On the contrary. It keeps them intimate with much of the best that is being written today and with those who are writing it. And not the least of the rewards is the immense personal satisfaction. "The little magazine receives whatever character it has from the abilities and sensibilities of its editors," he observes.

Which, of course, is exactly why Shenandoah is where it is today.

Jim Boatwright: teacher, editor, writers' friend

A good literary magazine is often thought to be a reflection of its editor, a sort of extension of himself. So it seemed especially appropriate this fall that the board of publishers of Shenandoah observed in a resolution: "Under Jim Boatwright's guidance and direction Shenandoah has moved to a standing among national literary publications [which led it to be described recently] as 'among the very best of the small magazines'."

In addition to teaching English (modern American and British poetry, creative writing, occasional survey courses in American literature) and in addition to editing and managing Shenandoah, Jim Boatwright is extraordinarily active in American literary organizations. He serves as acting chairman of the Coordinating Council of Literary Magazines, for instance, and is a longtime member of its board and executive committee; he's a member of the Advisory Panel to the Literary Program of the National Endowment for Arts; he is chairman of the Censorship Committee of the international PEN (Poets, Essayists, Novelists) American division.

At Washington and Lee he is a member of the Glasgow Committee and the Seminar in Literature program committee. He has reviewed for the New York Times Book Review and occasionally now for the New Republic; he's been published in Revue des Lettres Modernes. He's in near-constant correspondence with America's principal men and women in literature; the Eudora Welty's and W. H. Audens who come to Washington and Lee (as both did last winter and spring) do so largely because of Shenandoah and Jim Boatwright.

Not long ago he bought a home in the country west of Lexington "with a beautiful view of the Blue Ridge," where he spends much of his away-from-the-office time relaxing—generally reading or working. Summers? He tries to head for Greece as frequently as possible; he's "fascinated by the Greek civilization and culture."

In spite of it all—or perhaps because of it all—he remains one of Washington and Lee's most popular teachers—and one of its most demanding. "His" alumni, who return frequently, speak of the courses they took under Jim Boatwright as among their most rewarding experiences at Washington and Lee.

R.S.K.

New year brings record enrollment and women in the School of Law

Among Tucker's tomes and Toms, now women.

The University began its 224th academic year in September—a year highlighted by a record enrollment, the matriculation of the first women in the School of Law, the beginning of construction on a new $7-million law building, and continuing planning for other construction projects.

At the opening convocation in new Doremus Gymnasium, President Huntley called upon students, faculty, and staff to maintain a “community of trust and simultaneously to pursue academic excellence” in the face of extensive physical improvements on the campus.

Total enrollment in the University's three divisions is 1,685, the largest in history. The breakdown is 1,172 in the College, 248 in the School of Commerce, Economics, and Politics, and 265 in the School of Law—also a record for that division. The enrollment includes 386 freshmen, the largest number ever at W&L.

The six women admitted to the School of Law are the first women to pursue a Washington and Lee degree. There have been other women students, principally in the Eight-College Exchange Program, involving W&L and other single-sex institutions in the area. Women also have traditionally been allowed to audit courses and earn transfer credit. Women have received honorary degrees from W&L, and one, Mrs. Alfred I. duPont, was a member of the Board of Trustees for many years. But never before has a woman been eligible to receive an earned degree from the University.

Coeducation is limited to the School of Law. No determination has yet been made on the question of admitting women as degree candidates in the undergraduate schools.

Seventeen students are attending W&L

this year under the Eight-College Exchange Program. One is a man from Hampden-Sydney College, and the others are women, mostly from Hollins College. The exchange students are attending for the full year or for one or two terms. Under the program, credit earned at W&L is transferred to their “home” institutions.

The President, at the opening convocation, emphasized what he believes is a crucial question facing W&L today as physical growth takes place. He cited the graduation speech last June of Steve Robinson, president of the Student Body, who said that problems with the Honor System and the passing of bad checks in Lexington had indicated that the word of “W&L men is no longer taken with trust at face value.”

“We may be in danger,” President Huntley said, “of losing those intangible qualities which make the Washington and Lee community such a fertile environment.” He said there seemed to be some “dichotomy between the pursuit of academic excellence and the preservation of a community of trust.”

“There can be only one answer to this duality,” he said. “These two must be reconciled . . . The challenge must be met.”

Clearing of the site for the new law building—immediately to the north of Wilson Field on previously undeveloped land—has already begun. The University will ask for bids on the building this fall, and construction may begin before the end of the year. Funding of the new law building was assured last spring by the $9-million gift by Frances and Sydney Lewis of Richmond. The law building will be known as Lewis Hall in their honor, and an endowed center for innovative legal studies, also made possible by their gift, will be named for Frances Lewis.

Other projects expected to come under contract within the year include the construction of 30 married student apartments in the general vicinity of Liberty Hall, the construction of upperclass housing for 168 students along the Woods Creek side of the new law school access road between the Footbridge and the existing maintenance building, and the relocation of the maintenance building itself.

Advanced planning will continue this year on a new undergraduate library as well as on other projects included in the current decade-long $56-million Development Program. The University has already raised $19.2 million in the effort, more than half of the initial goal of $36 million by the American Bicentennial in 1976.

Greater Student Voice

At its autumn meeting, the University Board of Trustees voted unanimously to invite the president of the W&L student body to attend every regular board meeting with full privileges except voting. Until now, the Student Body President has been invited simply to present a special report and ask and answer questions at a single point during two regular board meetings each year.

The new level of student participation reflects “the conviction that student body leadership at Washington and Lee has been consistently responsible and intelligent,” President Robert E. R. Huntley said in informing students of the board's action.

The University's student government twice has asked the board to consider addition of the student body president as an ex officio member of the board. In his statement, President Huntley said the board agreed that the student president should have a more significant role in its discussions. The only portions of board meetings in which the student president will not participate will be those specified by the board itself. The new policy will be inaugurated at the board's winter meeting scheduled for Atlanta, Ga., in February.

Under the old policy, student body presidents were invited to present reports at the two board meetings held in Lexington. The new policy stipulates that the student president will be invited to attend the traditional out-of-town board meeting as well, at University expense.

An editorial comment in the Ring-tum Phi, said: "What this means is that a student voice will be heard on crucial issues. . . . The importance of this change should be obvious. While it may not translate into real student power in determining University policy, it does go a long way in providing considerable student influence."

Student Bar Officers

Officers of the Student Bar Association for the fall semester are Malcolm H. Squires, president; Theodore H. Ritter, vice president; Lawrence H. Framme III, secretary; and Donald R. Johnson, treasurer.

GOP's Roll Caller

The lady with the most widely heard voice in America for three days in August may well have been Mrs. Tobin Armstrong of Armstrong, Tex., mother of Washington and Lee sophomore Barclay Armstrong. Mrs. Armstrong is co-chairman of the National Republican Committee, and in that capacity she called the roll of the states for nominations and voting throughout the GOP convention in Miami Beach.

Projects Manager Brady

Douglas E. (Pat) Brady, superintendent of buildings and grounds, has assumed additional responsibilities as projects manager in connection with the capital construction portion of W&L's current $56-million Development Program.

James L. Arthur, previously assistant superintendent, has become associate superintendent and assumes day-to-day responsibility for direction of the 65-member staff. James Brown, an 18-year veteran of the staff, was named assistant superintendent, succeeding Arthur.

In his new capacity, Brady will be

Washington and Lee's representative in all construction projects, including the new $7-million School of Law facility to be constructed in the near future, a new $5-million undergraduate library, several hundred new student housing units, and major remodeling of existing campus facilities. He will also serve as liaison between the University and contractors in all satellite projects, such as road-building, utility development and ground-clearing. Development of roads and site preparation has already begun on the new building, and construction is expected to begin early in 1973. Brady will also continue to play a principal role in physical planning activities at the University.

Capital construction accounts for $24.2 million in the decade-long Development Program, approximately half the $56-million total. With last spring's $9-million gift from Frances and Sydney Lewis of Richmond, the law building has already been funded. Almost $2 million has been committed to the undergraduate library. Other major physical projects in the Development Program are in various stages of planning and funding.

Projects Manager Brady keeps a close eye on law building site preparation.

Also in the Development Program, and now under Mr. Brady's supervision as projects manager, is the $3-million addition to Doremus Gymnasium put into operation last winter. Brady's duties will include supervision of operations in connection with completion of that project.

A 1937 B.A. graduate of W&L, Brady has been buildings and grounds superintendent since 1947. He was Lexington's mayor from its incorporation as a city in 1966 until 1971.

Arthur, named to head the day-to-day operations of the buildings and grounds division at the University, has been assistant superintendent since 1968. He joined the University staff in 1964. Brown, newly named assistant superintendent, worked his way through the ranks from custodian to painting foreman, the position he filled prior to his promotion.

ROTC Exchange

The W&L faculty recently approved a request from the military science department to permit students from any college in the region that has no Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) program of its own to take ROTC courses at W&L.

Credits earned at Washington and Lee under the plan will be applied at the student's "home" college, just as in the Eight-College Exchange Program, under which students may spend up to a full year taking a full load of academic programs at any of the participating institutions.

The ROTC program will be a more comprehensive exchange opportunity because no restrictions will be imposed on the eligibility of other colleges, Maj. William J. Dragozetch, acting head of the department at W&L, observed.
December, 1972

Students who enroll in the ROTC program at Washington and Lee will be eligible for the full range of benefits, including the $100-a-month allowance paid to students at the third-and fourth-year levels in the program. They will also be eligible to compete for U. S. Army scholarships, which cover a student's full tuition and book bill for an entire academic year.

Deferred Giving Director

Edward O. Henneman, formerly an associate in the New York City law firm of Winthrop, Stimson, Putnam & Roberts, has been named director of deferred giving programs and associate director of development at Washington and Lee. He began work in September.

Henneman is a specialist in trust and estate law. He is a magna cum laude graduate of Yale University and received his LL.B. degree from Harvard University in 1962.

At W&L, Henneman will administer a wide range of programs designed to provide tax-saving methods of making gifts to the University, such as pooled-income and other trust agreements. He will also provide liaison with the 42-member Estate Planning Council, composed of alumni throughout the nation. The council is headed by Martin P. Burks, a 1932 W&L law graduate who is now general counsel for the Norfolk & Western Railway in Roanoke.

Henneman succeeds Robert Liggitt, who resigned as W&L's deferred giving director to accept a similar position at Converse College.

Edward O. Henneman

Famed TV Series Shown

The famed British television series Civilisation was shown in Lexington in W&L's duPont Auditorium under the sponsorship of the art department. The 13 chapters in the acclaimed series were screened on successive Tuesday evenings beginning in September.

Created, written, and produced by the distinguished historian Sir Kenneth Clark, Civilisation traces the development of Western culture, ideas, and events over a span of 16 centuries. Man's most exquisite paintings, architecture, sculpture, and music accompany the narrative, illustrating a common heritage.

Grants from Xerox Corp. and the National Endowment for the Humanities have enabled presentation of the series as a public service.

Stuart is Visiting Poet

Dabney Stuart, professor of English and poetry editor of Shenandoah, W&L's literary magazine, initiated the second year of the Visiting Poets Series at Virginia Wesleyan College. He read selections from his two collections of poetry, Diving Bell and A Particular Place.

Stuart, who has also published poetry in many periodicals, including Poetry and New Yorker, has been teaching at W&L since 1965.

Lectures by Phillips

Dr. Charles F. Phillips Jr., professor of economics and an authority in the field of governmental utilities regulation, lectured in September at the Irving Trust Co.'s week-long Public Utilities Financial Seminar. He was one of two college professors invited to participate.

In October, Dr. Phillips conducted twin seminars in regulation and the economic characteristics of the natural gas industry. The seminars were sponsored by the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. of Houston and Kansas City.

Dr. Phillips, the author of several texts and a consultant to several utilities and financial organizations, has taught at W&L since 1959.

Frat Honors Turner

Dr. Charles W. Turner, professor of history, was awarded Lambda Chi Alpha's Order of Merit award at the fraternity's 33rd general assembly and leadership

A Retirement Surprise

For 30 years Mrs. Mildred Brownlee worked in the W&L Office of Admissions. In September, she retired and received a little surprise. At a party for her, she was given a clock she had long admired in the office. With her above are Dean Emeritus Frank J. Gilliam, under whom she worked for two decades; Special Advisor to the President R. N. Latture; Admissions Director James D. Farrar; and University President Robert Huntley.

seminar in Portland, Ore., in August. The award is conferred by the fraternity's board of directors who single out members of the fraternity whose work within the organization has not been publicly acclaimed.

Since 1947, Dr. Turner has served the Lambda Chi Alpha chapter at W&L in such positions as chapter advisor, alumni advisory board member, house corporation secretary-treasurer, financial advisor, and alumni association secretary-treasurer. This record of 25 years of continuous service in all these functions is unprecedented in the W&L chapter and is one of the most outstanding in the general fraternity.

Yevich Reports Votes

Robert H. Yevich, manager of the Laboratory Press division of the University's journalism department, was Virginia state manager for the joint election-reporting service of the three national television networks and the two major wire services.

Yevich, a 1970 graduate of Washington and Lee, took a two-month leave of absence from his duties at the University to organize the massive tallying enterprise. Central offices for the state operation were in Richmond.

Returns were counted and reported by News Election Service both on a precinct-by-precinct and county-by-county basis. Yevich supervised more than 2,300 employees and worked closely with clerks and electoral boards in each Virginia county and independent city.

Baremore Scholars

Lawrence E. Evans Jr., a senior from Pasadena, Tex., and Bryan E. McNeill, a junior from New Orleans have been awarded honor scholarships in memory of the late Tommy Mac Baremore, an outstanding debater at Washington and Lee who died in a drowning accident in 1968 shortly before he was to graduate.

The scholarship was established by Baremore's mother, Mrs. R. E. Baremore of Shreveport, La., and a number of her son's friends. Baremore was a leading debater in each of his years at W&L and had qualified the debate team for the National Invitational Debate Tournament only one day before his death. The faculty voted him a posthumous B. A. degree in recognition of his achievements as a student.

Both scholarship holders are members of the debate team. Evans is president of the team and of the University's Pre-Law Society. He is also chairman of the Student Recruitment Committee. McNeill is a Dean's List student, a member of Pi Kappa Phi social fraternity, and on the staff of the student-operated radio station, WLUR-FM. Evans is majoring in politics, and McNeill in German and history.

New Book by Spencer

Dr. Edgar W. Spencer, professor of geology and head of the department, is the author of a new book, The Dynamics of the Earth, published by Thomas Y. Crowell Co. of New York. It is the fourth of Dr. Spencer's books to be published by Crowell.

Another publisher, McGraw Hill, has re-issued Dr. Spencer's Introduction to the Structure of the Earth in paperback as part of its international series. The publication was in response to foreign interest in the text, first published in 1969.

Dr. Spencer, a W&L graduate, has been a member of the faculty since 1957. He holds the Ph.D. in geology from Columbia University.

Debate Season Opens

The debate team opened its season in September by being host to the Washington and Lee University Invitational De-Pennies from Heaven?

We have a little story that should instill some hope back into the hearts of those despairing friends of the W&L Honor System. The other day, the manager of the Bookstore decided to try to attract some of the Commerce School jocks.

Well, what better way to attract young businessmen other than to shower the display table with money. So amidst copies of The Wall Street Jungle and Up the Organization, Mrs. Munger (manager) arranged a dollar's worth of pennies.

Several days later, just for fun, the coins were counted. It turned out that the total had become $1.30.

So, Watchdogs of the Honor System, take heart; your baby is not only alive and kicking in the Bookstore, but it's accruing interest as well.

—An Editorial in the Ring-tum Phi

The five W&L alumni among the Distinguished Virginians honored by Gov. Linwood Holton (right) and Mrs. Holton are Sydney Lewis, John Warner, Cy Young, Tom Wolfe, and Robert W. Spessard.

bate Tournament, in which William and Mary, Virginia, and Richmond took top honors.

The national college debate topic this year is "Resolved: That the federal government should provide a program of comprehensive medical care for all citizens." All teams must be prepared to argue both in favor and against the proposition.

Other teams competing in the W&L tournament were Bridgewater, Johns Hopkins, Wake Forest, George Mason, Ferrum, Old Dominion, Madison, Glassboro, and Randolph-Macon. In addition, debaters from several colleges and high schools observed the tournament.

Next March, Washington and Lee will be the site of the Virginia State Championship Tournament, which W&L won last year. Dr. Halford R. Ryan, debate coach at W&L, is president of the Virginia Forensic Association.

5 Among Top Virginians

Five Washington and Lee alumni were among the 34 Virginians honored for bringing exceptional distinction to the Commonwealth at a reception and dinner in Richmond in September by Gov. and Mrs. Linwood Holton.

Two of the five, Sydney Lewis and John W. Warner, are trustees of the University. Lewis was honored with his wife, Frances. They are the donors of Washington and Lee's largest gift, $9,000,000 for the School of Law and a research center. Warner, a highly regarded lawyer in the nation's capital, was named Secretary of the Navy by President Nixon earlier this year.

Also honored at the gala affair were Harry K. "Cy" Young, the University's alumni director for 29 years and one of Virginia's greatest athletes; Robert W. Spessard, one of the best basketball players W&L ever produced, and Thomas K. Wolfe, the pop writer who writes in what he calls the "wowie" style. His most recent book is Radical Chic.

Lewis is a 1940 W&L graduate. Warner was graduated in 1949 and Wolfe received his degree in 1951. Young was graduated in 1917, and Spessard, 1939. Gov. Holton, too, is a W&L alumni, Class of 1944.

Attending the event from W&L were President and Mrs. Huntley and Dr. and Mrs. Edward F. Turner Jr. Dr. Turner is immediate past president of the Virginia Academy of Science and head of the University's physics department.

Apgar in McCormick

A recent display of cartoons and caricatures in the lobby of Cyrus McCormick Library included work by Garry Apgar,

Dr. Hayner Dies

Dr. Paul C. Hayner, a former teacher at Washington and Lee, died on Aug. 27 in a Los Angeles, Calif., hospital after a brief illness. He was 53. He was dean of philosophy at Fullerton State University in California, where he had taught since 1964.

Dr. Hayner went to Fullerton from W&L, where he was a member of the faculty from 1957 to 1964. He was an ordained Presbyterian minister. Surviving are his wife, two sons, and a daughter, all of Fullerton.

a 1967 W&L graduate, whose biting cartoons once enlivened the pages of the Ring-tum Phi. Apgar's cartoons now appear in the New York Daily News, National Review, and the Richmond Times-Dispatch.

The display also included early works by James Gillray of England and Honore Daumier of France, who flourished more than 150 years ago. They are considered the fathers of modern political cartoons. Other works were from early 20th century campaigns, the FDR era, and more recent times, including cartoons by Herblock and Patrick Oliphant.

W&L's Man in Hollywood

Lea Booth, '40, executive vice president of the Virginia Foundation for Independent Colleges, has an eagle eye for anything having to do with Washington and Lee. Recently, he sent in a newspaper clipping with the notation: "A lot of us old crows had Larry Watkin trying to teach us English in the 'olden days.' This might be of interest to some of the alumni of my vintage via the magazine."

The clipping, datelined Hollywood, said: "Lawrence E. Watkin, who wrote the screenplay for Disney Studios' The Biscuit Eater, was a professor for 16 years at Washington and Lee University . . . Watkin is the author of several novels, including On Borrowed Time (later a successful Broadway play) and Geese in the Forum, about Washington and Lee and its faculty.

"He researched and wrote screenplays for Darby O'Gill, Treasure Island, and Spin and Marty, originally a novel that was adapted for television."

Watkin taught at Washington and Lee from 1926 through 1942.

Robert Paxton dedicates book to former teachers

Dr. Robert O. Paxton, a 1954 graduate of Washington and Lee, is the author of a major new book on Vichy France. He dedicated the work to three of his former teachers, two of them W&L professors—Dr. William A. Jenks and Dr. James G. Leyburn. The other is Henry W. Bragdon, under whom Dr. Paxton studied at Phillips Exeter Academy. The dedication cites them as “teachers, scholars, exemplars.”

The book is entitled Vichy France: Old Guard and New Order, 1940-1944 and was published by Alfred A. Knopf. It was chosen as an alternate selection for November by the History Book Club.

Dr. Paxton, a native of Lexington, is now professor of history at Columbia University. Before that, he taught at the University of California at Berkeley and at the State University of New York at Stony Brook. He was valedictorian at Washington and Lee and a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford, where he received an M. A. degree. He received his Ph.D. degree from Harvard.

Dr. Jenks is William R. Kenan, Jr., professor of history at W&L and head of the department; Dr. Leyburn is professor emeritus of sociology and was dean of the University from 1947 to 1955. Dr. Leyburn retired from teaching last June.

The book is an important contribution in the field of modern Western European history. The jacket says of the work:

“Uncompromising, often startling, meticulously documented—this book is an account of the government, and the governed, of collaborationist France.

“Basing his work on captured German archives and contemporary materials rather than on self-serving postwar memoirs or war-trial testimony, Professor

Dr. Robert O. Paxton

Dr. James G. Leyburn

Dr. William A. Jenks

Paxton maps out the complex nature of the ill-famed Vichy government, showing that it in fact enjoyed mass participation. The majority of Frenchmen in 1940 feared social disorder as the worst imaginable evil and rallied to support the state, thereby bringing about the betrayal of the nation as a whole.

“The book lays bare the power struggle between Petain, Laval, and Darlan, their relationships with the Germans, and Laval’s attempts to nudge a suspicious Hitler toward a Franco-German alliance against Britain; it looks at their social reforms, some good, some farcical, and reveals that their programs, included the persecution of the Jews, emanated less from any compulsion on the German side than from long-festering internal conflicts; it examines the (belated) rise of the Resistance and the deadly enmity of General de Gaulle to the regime.

“Professor Paxton’s conclusions are devastating—he proves that collaborationist Vichy France, contrary to comforting myth, obtained for Frenchmen no better treatment than that accorded to the fully occupied nations, and that its very sovereignty turned out to be a negotiating liability rather than a trump. As a result, his book also sheds considerable light on French politics and the fate of the country since the war.”

Dr. Paxton lectured at Washington and Lee in 1969 under the sponsorship of the University Center in Virginia. His subject was “General de Gaulle: The General as World Strategist.” He is also the author of Parades and Politics at Vichy: The French Officer Corps under Marshal Petain, published in 1966 by the Princeton University Press.

W&L and 14 other colleges form Virginia Athletic Association

From The Ring-tum Phi

Washington and Lee University is a charter member of the new Virginia College Athletic Association, an organization designed to promote more in-state competition among colleges with an undergraduate male enrollment of 2,000 or less. The VCAA, formed earlier this year, is the result of proposals for such an organization by William D. McHenry, director of athletics at Washington and Lee; Bill Shellenberger, athletic director of Lynchburg College; and Thomas Martin, director of athletics at Roanoke College. These men felt the need for an association that would, in the words of Coach McHenry, "give an identity to the smaller schools within the state."

The question arises now: what about the College Athletic Conference? Does the VCAA conflict with the goals and purposes of the CAC? According to McHenry, president of the CAC, there is no such problem whatsoever. Despite the fact that the decision of Washington University to quit the conference has reduced the membership to four schools, the CAC is by no means defunct. Washington and Lee will continue to participate in all the athletic activities of the conference while in the meantime overtures are being made to other colleges similar in standards to W&L to join the CAC. A formal invitation has already been extended to Hampden-Sydney.

Coach McHenry took care to point out that the idea behind the VCAA was not an athletic conference per se, but more a confederation which would allow member-schools the chance to participate if they choose to. The rules state that each school has the option to select which sports it wants to compete in so long as it is decided before Sept. 1 of that academic year. Therefore, the VCAA actually serves as a forum for the schools, making scheduling of inter-member contests convenient and organizing championship events in each sport. The membership of the VCAA includes Washington and Lee, Bridgewater, Clinch Valley, Christopher Newport, Emory and Henry, George Mason, Hampton Institute, Hampden-Sydney, Lynchburg, Madison, Randolph-Macon, Roanoke, St. Paul, Virginia State, and Virginia Wesleyan.

Athletic Director Bill McHenry

The association provides for competition in 11 sports: football, cross-country, soccer, basketball, wrestling, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, baseball, golf, and tennis. Washington and Lee plans to participate in all 11—the number being left up to the discretion of the individual schools. Championships will be decided in each sport by way of a one or two-day tournament.

A unique exception to this procedure is football, for which a tournament is impractical. To compensate for this, the association coaches decided to meet at the close of each season and on the basis of schedules and records choose the outstanding team for the year, an all-association squad, and a coach of the year.

The VCAA offers many advantages to its member colleges. Besides the convenience in scheduling athletic events and sponsoring tournaments, there is the additional advantage of extended publicity in the media the organization can swing that the individual schools cannot gain on their own. The cost of these benefits is perhaps the greatest plus for the new association. The basic membership price is $100 but a small participation fee is charged for each sport with the total yearly cost not to exceed $175. Team travel expenses are minimal since the schools are all located in the Dominion. This last asset is particularly attractive to the small colleges with a limited athletic budget, such as W&L.

Despite the numerous advantages, the VCAA does not have all open field ahead of it. In fact, one of its major strong-points could become a fatal weakness. The emphasis on voluntary participation by the members in time could result in disinterest and withdrawal from the association. But as it stands now, considerable enthusiasm is being shown throughout the VCAA. If this feeling is continued and transmitted to the general public, the Virginia College Athletic Association will grow into an impressively competitive organization.

by Rich Koch
and James Baird

Fall sports are off to good start

The three fall sports at Washington and Lee—football, cross-country, and soccer—were doing well at the end of October. The football team had a 3-3 record, the cross-country team had only two losses, and the soccer team had a creditable record of 4-1-2.

In football, the Generals defeated Westminster College, 21-14, in the first game, ending Westminster's string of 22 victories, the longest regular season winning streak in the college division. W&L overwhelmed Towson State, 38-0, and won a Homecoming victory, 35-25, over a persistent Sewanee team. The losses were to Centre, 15-14, to a very strong Hampden-Sydney team, 34-6, and to Western Maryland, 29-7. Remaining on the schedule were Southwestern, Denison, and Washington University.

The cross-country runners seemed headed for a brilliant season, led by sophomore sensation Stu Nibley and backed by the best depth in many years. The team had suffered only two setbacks at the end of October, losing to Bridgewater in a direct meeting and coming in second to Bridgewater in a Virginia College Athletic Association meet at W&L in which seven teams participated. The team defeated Centre, won over all other teams in a four-way meet at Roanoke College, and recorded victories over VMI and Davidson. Nibley set a new record in his first intercollegiate meet at Centre. He shaved 19 seconds off the Centre course record, touring the four-mile course in 21:05. He also led the victories over VMI and Davidson.

The soccer team, with considerable experience returning from last year, had wins over Eastern Mennonite, Lynchburg, VMI, and Randolph-Macon. The team tied Indiana University and Roanoke, and lost only to Madison College.

A fuller roundup of fall sports activities will appear in a later issue of the magazine.

Chappy Conrad hauls in winning TD pass against Westminster.

December, 1972

Cross-country Coach Dick Miller ponders strategy.

Class notes

1919

H. RUSSELL ROBNEY, treasurer and business manager of Southern Seminary College since 1922, has retired. He will continue as a member of the board of trustees. In 1958, Mr. and Mrs. Robey gave the college to a non-profit board of control, but Robey continued to manage the college's business affairs. Robey was a member of the Buena Vista City Council from 1934 to 1950.

1926

G. FRED SWITZER of Harrisonburg, Va., retired in 1970 as chairman of the board of the Continental Telephone Co. He remains a director of Continental Telephone of Virginia and is also a director of the Virginia National Bank in Norfolk. Switzer is also chairman of the Virginia National Bank's local board in Harrisonburg.

1927

After 45 years with Gulf Oil Corp., A. H. CROWELL has retired and now lives in Southern Pines, N. C.

1929

Former Bristol, Va., Mayor GEORGE W. SUMMERSON, manager of the Martha Washington Inn, has been elected mayor of Abingdon, Va. Summerson has served as president of the local Chamber of Commerce and is a past vice president of the State Chamber of Commerce. He assumed managership of the Martha Washington Inn in 1956.

DR. JOHN PRESTON MOORE, after 26 years of service at Louisiana State University in the history department, retired in April as professor emeritus. A testimonial dinner in his honor was sponsored by the Latin American Studies Organization. A recognized authority and scholar in the field of Spanish colonial history, Dr. Moore joined the LSU faculty in 1946. He taught courses in Mexican, Spanish, and Portuguese history. His book, The Cabildo in Peru under the Bourbons: A Study in the Decline and Resurgence of Local Government in Audencia of Lima, 1700-1824, won honorable mention for the 1967 Bolton Memorial Prize of the Conference on Latin American History. Dr. Moore is now writing Revolt in Louisiana, a study of the administration of the Spanish governor of Louisiana, Antonio de Ulloa. Moore is past president of the Louisiana Historical Association and this year was chairman of the Committee on Andean Studies for the Latin American Conference. He lives in Lexington, Va.

HOWARD W. GWALTNEY, grandson of the founder of the Smithfield meat-packing and processing company, retired as president of ITT Gwaltney in June after 43 years with the company. He remains as chairman of the board. Gwaltney began with the firm in 1929. The firm became a subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. in 1970. Gwaltney is chairman of the board and president of the Bank of Smithfield, a director of the United Virginia Bank and the Seaboard National Bank, and is a trustee of the Tidewater Virginia Development Council and of Virginia Wesleyan College.

1930

J. ARLINGTON PAINTER (deceased) was recently memorialized with the dedication of a new football field in Lock Haven, Pa. The board of the Keystone Central School District named the field the J. A. Painter Memorial Field. The dedication cited his athletic records and paid tribute to him as a sportsman and community leader. Painter was instrumental in founding the Central State Basketball League, the Central Counties Football League, and the Susquehanna Football League. As unofficial historian for all sports in high school, Painter used his attic as a library of records and news clippings for high school athletics.

1932

JOHN W. BALL, practicing attorney in Jacksonville, Fla., has been appointed chairman of the American Bar Association Standing Committee on Judicial Selection, Tenure and Compensation. A former member of the ABA House of Delegates, Ball is a member of the American College of Probate Counsel, the American Law Institute, and the American Bar Foundation.

1938

CYRUS V. ANDERSON has been elected vice president (law) for Pittsburgh Plate Glass Industries. Anderson has been a member of the PPG law department since 1945 and has been associate general counsel since 1960. In his new position, he will be head of the department. Anderson was an attorney in the Antitrust Division, U. S. Department of Justice, from 1936 to 1942. He has served as a member of the Attorney General's National Committee to Study Antitrust Laws, was chairman of the American Bar Association's Section of Antitrust Law, and has been on other important ABA committees.

1939

JAMES C. PAERA, owner of an export-import firm bearing his name, has been elected president of Sales and Marketing Executives of Washington, D. C., Inc. Paera served in the merchant marine and as a purser on the Moore-McCormack Lines. He has also served as chairman of the Manufacturers Representative Committee of the Metropolitan Washington Board of Trade.

WILLIAM W. BROWN, formerly of Milwaukee, Wis., has recently been promoted to Midwest regional manager of the Alton Box Board Co. He resides in Creve Coeur, Mo.

GEORGE W. WILSON, chief executive officer of the Peoples State Bank in Alpena, Mich., was recently appointed to the Mackinac Bridge Authority by Gov. William C. Milliken. He was also elected treasurer of the Michigan Bankers Association. Wilson is a director and secretary of the Alpena Industrial Development Fund and holds directorships in the Chamber of Commerce, the Central Computer Corp. and the Greater Michigan Foundation.

1941

Army Reserve COL. G. RICHARD DAY has completed the second phase of the associate logistics executive development course at the U. S. Army Logistics Management Center, Ft. Lee, Va. The course prepares reserve components for executive and policy making mobilization assignments in logistics. Day is a real estate broker with C. Robert Peter Co. of Louisville, Ky.

1944

WILLIAM F. ALLISON has been appointed director of corporate and foundation programs for Syracuse University's Development Office. He was formerly assistant director. Allison has been a member of the Syracuse University staff since 1968 and has been director of its alumni programs.

WILLIAM R. KRAUSMANN has been appointed purchasing agent for Roblin Steel Corp. in North Tonawanda, N. Y. Krausmann has nine years' experience in the industrial purchasing field, most recently with the Aircor Speer Carbon-Graphite Co. of Niagara Falls. He has been a member of the Purchasing Management Association of Buffalo since 1963.

Meeting without prior design on vacation at Myrtle Beach, S.C. were members of the Class of 1949: John Schoenfeld, Matt Paxton Jr., and W. Hugh Moomaw.

Judge Turk

Judge Widener

1946

BRIG. GEN. GUY E. HAIRSTON JR. is commander of the School of Military Science at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex. His recent assignments included deputy commander, 504th Tactical Air Support Group in Vietnam. He returned to the United States in October, 1970.

1948

LESLIE F. JAMES has retired and lives in Bradenton, Fla. He was associated for 17 years with the CPA firm of Bosserman, Alt, James & Stickly in Waynesboro, Va.

1949

H. DE BAUN BRYANT, general counsel and secretary of Brown & Williamson Tobacco Co. in Louisville, Ky., has been elected a vice president, in charge of the legal staff and public relations department.

LUTHER W. WHITE III has been elected vice president of the Virginia Foundation for Independent Colleges. The foundation is a joint fund supported by contributions from business and industry, which are shared by 12 privately controlled four-year colleges in Virginia, including Washington and Lee.

1950

JOHN H. MCCORMACK JR. has been elected a trustee of Jacksonville University, in Jacksonville, Fla. McCormack is first vice president and director of the Atlantic National Bank of Jacksonville and chairman of the board of Springfield Atlantic Bank in Jacksonville and the Atlantic National Bank of West Palm Beach, Fla.

1951

ROBERT E. GLENN of Roanoke, Va., has been appointed to the board of Radford College by Gov. Linwood Holton. Glenn is a practicing attorney in Roanoke and will serve on the board for a four-year term.

A. STEVENS MILES has been named president of the First National Bank of Louisville, Ky. Miles joined First National in 1954 and became executive vice president of the banking division in 1969.

J. PHILIP THELIN has been promoted to vice president of the metropolitan and regional division for the First National Bank of Commerce in New Orleans. Thelin joined First National in 1968. He attended Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service.

1952

ROLAND E. THOMPSON, a builder and land developer in Fairfax, Va., has been appointed by Gov. Holton to the board of visitors of Longwood College in Farmville, Va. Thompson is also a director of the First Virginia Bank and a member of the Fairfax Chamber of Commerce.

S. MAYNARD TURK, a member of the board of visitors of Radford College, was recently named rector of the board. Turk is a practicing attorney in Wilmington, Del.

1953

SEN. WILLIAM E. BROCK III was awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws by King College of Bristol, Va., during graduation exercises in late May. Brock is serving his first term in the U. S. Senate after eight years in the House of Representatives. He is a member of the Committee on Government Operations, of the Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs Committee, and of the National Commission on Consumer Finance. In 1969, he led a campus task force of congressmen to many college campuses to listen to the ideas of young people. Throughout his public and private career, Sen. Brock has been a leader in civic activities in Chattanooga, Tenn.

KERMIT E. HUNDLEY has been named president of Mercantile National Bank of Indiana in Hammond. He succeeds Benton M. Wakefield, '41. Prior to joining Mercantile, Hundley was vice chairman and chief executive officer of Citizens Bank and Trust Co. in Park Ridge, Ill. He began his banking career in Charleston, W.Va. with the Charleston National Bank in 1949. After graduation from law school, Hundley became an officer in the trust department of Charleston National Bank. In 1956, he became senior vice president and executive trust officer of Houston (Tex.) Bank and Trust Co. Hundley has lectured widely and is a contributing author to the South Texas Law Journal.

ALDEN M. PITARD is the industrial and labor

Two Law Alumni Are Named to Federal Judgeships

Two alumni of the Washington and Lee School of Law were tapped in September by President Nixon for places in the federal judiciary. Judge H. Emory Widener Jr. of Bristol, Va., Class of 1953, was appointed to the Richmond-based 4th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, and State Sen. James C. Turk of Radford, Va., Class of 1952, was named to succeed Judge Widener on the bench of the U. S. District Court for Western Virginia.

Judge Widener had been on the Western District bench since July, 1969, and had been senior judge since 1970. He graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy and saw regular naval duty during World War II before entering law school at W&L. After graduation, he practiced law with his father, who was one of the few Republican lawyers in the old Democratic-dominated Ninth District in Southwest Virginia. Judge Widener is a close friend and adviser of U. S. Rep. William C. Wampler.

Sen. Turk received his undergraduate degree from Roanoke College before attending law school. He was elected to the Virginia Senate in 1959, the only public office he ever sought, and was the GOP's Senate minority leader. In 1969, he was co-chairman of Gov. Linwood Holton's successful campaign for governor. He was a member of a Radford law firm that has produced two high judges: Richard Poff, a former Republican congressman who is on the Virginia Supreme Court and Ted Dalton, who was a U. S. District judge until his retirement.

Class Notes

R. E. J. Curran, '57

C. S. Chamberlin, '60

relations manager for the Boeing Co. Atlantic Test Center in Titusville, Fla. He is the director of the Aerospace Contractors Equal Opportunity Committee and is a coach for Cocoa Beach Little League Baseball.

1954

JOHN L. DANIEL, vice president and treasurer for the past 12 years, has been promoted to the position of executive vice president for Delta & Pine Land Co. with headquarters in Scott, Miss. Before joining Delta & Pine in 1951, he was employed by Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co. Delta & Pine are originators and producers of Deltapine Cotton Varieties and D & PL brand originators cotton planting seed. There are company divisions in Lubbock, Tex., and Brawley, Calif.

CARL D. SWANSON has recently been appointed chairman of the psychology department and chairman of the division of social sciences at Davis and Elkins College in Elkins, W. Va. Dr. Swanson recently had several articles published dealing with group therapy.

1955

JOSEPH F. ROWE JR. has been promoted to assistant vice president of United Virginia Bank/Citizens & Marine in Hampton, Va.

1956

HUGH W. MORRELL has been named manager of financial services for American Enka Co. He joined the company in 1962 as director of industrial relations at the Rocky Hill, Conn., plant.

1957

ROBERT E. J. CURRAN has been appointed United States Attorney for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania. The swearing-in ceremony took place Aug. 10 in Philadelphia. Prior to his appointment, Curran was Special Attorney General for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Department of Justice. He was former solicitor for the Delaware County Housing Authority and the Delaware County Airport Authority.

1958

PAGE D. CRANFORD, regional administrator of national banks in Richmond for the controller of the currency, has been named vice president and counsel of Fidelity American Bankshares, Inc., of Lynchburg.

CHARLES L. McCORMICK III of Halifax, Va., has been appointed judge of the 2nd Regional Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court. McCormick is Commonwealth's Attorney for Halifax County and South Boston. He served as substitute judge for four years prior to his appointment.

1959

EDGAR M. BABER has been awarded the designation of C.L.U., the professional designation conferred by the American College of Life Underwriters.

1960

JOHN M. BRADFORD has been named president of Plantation Patterns, Inc., a Birmingham, Ala., based wrought-iron furniture manufacturer. The announcement was made by the parent company, General Housewares Corp. of New York City. Bradford joined Plantation Patterns in 1962. He became sales manager in 1967 and vice president in 1968.

J. HOWE BROWN, an Alexandria, Va., attorney, has been appointed municipal attorney for Fairfax city.

CHARLES S. CHAMBERLIN of Medfield, Mass., has been named vice president for Construction Financing of the Herriott Co., Inc., of Waltham, Mass., a mortgage banking firm. Prior to joining Herriott in June, Chamberlin was a senior analyst in real estate investment for the Aetna Life Insurance Co.

DR. JAMES N. HARDIN JR. has been appointed assistant head of the department of foreign languages at the University of South Carolina. Obtaining his doctorate at the University of North Carolina, Hardin is a Fulbright Scholar and also recipient of the Woodrow Wilson Scholarship.

DONALD B. MESSENGER has been appointed to the Consumer Protection Commission by the Prince George's (Md.) County Council. Messenger, an attorney, has served on the county's board of elections.

GERALD SHIELDS is the new director of admissions at Sewanee Academy, formerly the Sewanee Military Academy. He received his M.A. degree in history from Tulane University in 1963 and his master's in education from Harvard in 1968. Between 1963 and 1969, Shields was director of admissions at Asheville School in Asheville, N. C. He has also held positions at Brandon Hall in Dunwoody, Ga., and at Litchfield (Conn.) Preparatory School.

1961

GEORGE Y. BIRDSONG has been named to the Suffolk Advisory Board by the board of directors of United Virginia Bank-Seaboard National. Birdsong is secretary-treasurer and a member of the board of directors of both Birdsong Storage Co., Inc., and American Cold Storage Corp. He is active in civic affairs and serves as a director of Cypress Development Corp., a community action program. He is a past president of the local Jaycees, chairman of the Suffolk Redevelopment and Housing Authority, and a representative of the YMCA.

DR. ROY CARPENTER, assistant professor of oceanography at the University of Washington, was the recipient of the 1972 Distinguished Teaching Award bestowed on the faculty by the Alumni Association. Dr. Carpenter received his doctorate from the University of California at San Diego in marine chemistry and geochemistry in 1968. He also studied at Christian Albrecht University in Kiel, West Germany.

WILLIAM B. McWILLIAMS, formerly assistant vice president of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., in Asheville, N. C., has joined the Bank of Virginia-Central in Richmond, Va., as vice president and as officer in charge of the correspondent bank department. McWilliams has had extensive experience in commercial lending and in business development for both corporate and correspondent bank accounts. He is an Army veteran and served in the artillery while stationed in Korea and Vietnam. While attached to the U. S. Eighth Army he received a number of medals including the Army Commendation Medal for founding the Helping Hand Orphanage in Taegu, Korea.

1962

MARRIED: FRANKLIN BOLLING SMITH to Maurcou Sheyard on Sept. 9, 1972, in London, England. After a visit with his brother, J. J. Smith III; '60, in Washington, D. C. and brother-in-law, Dunlop Ecker, '62, in Birmingham, Ala., the couple now lives in Naples, Fla.

MARRIED: MICHAEL N. HERNDON to Jane Elizabeth Dykes on Feb. 11, 1972. Herndon was recently elected to a second term in the Georgia State Senate.

T. T. Moore Jr., '63

M. F. Rose, '63

BORN: MR. and MRS. ALAN M. CORWIN, a daughter, Lisa Anne, on Aug. 5, 1972. Corwin is temple educator for Temple Beth Shalom in Santa Ana, Calif. He is responsible for a varied program including administration and supervision of a school with an enrollment of approximately 500 students.

1963

JOHN P. HARCOURT has been appointed assistant secretary to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York. He had been serving as special program associate on the governor's staff. He worked in banking before joining the governor's staff in 1970.

THOMAS T. MOORE JR. of Charlotte, N. C. has been promoted to assistant vice president at North Carolina National Bank. He joined NCNB in 1967 after two years on active duty with the U. S. Army. Moore has been a systems planning officer at the bank.

MEADE F. ROSE has been promoted to an assistant vice president of the Philadelphia National Bank. He joined the bank in 1966.

Until May, 1971, SHERWOOD W. WISE JR. was at the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology in Zurich on a postdoctoral fellowship. He then spent two months at sea aboard the deep sea drilling project's D/V Glomay Challenger as a staff micropaleontologist. Wise has now joined the faculty at Florida State University as an assistant professor, teaching geology, oceanography, and micropaleontology.

1964

MARRIED: FREDERICK H. HULETT to Martha J. Rinehart on June 10, 1972. The couple lives in Meridian, Miss., where he is vice president of Hulett Furniture Co.

WILLIAM McC. SCHILDT, who until Aug. 1 was an associate dean of students and coordinator of the freshman year at Washington and Lee, is now an associate of the law firm of Miles & Stockbridge in Baltimore. He graduated from the W&L Law School with honors in 1968 and had been associated with the University until he began the practice of law.

JOHN E. MICHAELSEN has been promoted to the position of vice president for U. S. Guaranty Capital, a wholly-owned lending subsidiary of U. S. Financial Inc. Michaelsen, who directs the loan underwriting for the firm, joined USGC in 1971.

1965

WOODARD D. OPENO for the past year has participated in archaeological excavations in Salamis, Cypress, and Corinth, Greece. He studied at the America School of Classical Studies at Athens and then returned there in the fall to work on his Ph.D. dissertation for the art history department of the University of Michigan.

1966

MARRIED: JAMES GREGG BUCKEY to Marilyn Meyers of Akron, Ohio, on June 24, 1972. Buckey attended the University of Cincinnati Law School and served in the Coast Guard. The couple lives in Boston, Mass.

MARRIED: NATHAN V. HENDRICKS to Kathryn Andrea Barnes on Aug. 19, 1972 in Griffin, Ga. Among the groomsmen were Douglas C. Morrison, '67, Peter Kintz, '66, J. D. Humphries III, '66, and Joseph L. Churchill, '69. Hendricks is associated with the Atlanta law firm of Morris, Redfern & Butler.

MARRIED: SHAUN S. DONAHOE to Paula Stanley on May 27, 1972 in Apalachicola, Fla. Donahoe is employed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and is working on a moth control project. He is also a commercial oyster fisherman.

MARRIED: EDWARD B. CROSLAND JR. and Martha Mallory Stewart on Aug. 5, 1972. Ed is an attorney with the Securities Exchange Commission, presently on loan to the Senate Banking Committee.

BORN: DR. and MRS. JOHN R. BURK, a second daughter, Jennifer Lynn Burk, on July 21, 1972. Dr. Burk is in his second year of residency at Ochsner Foundation Hospital in New Orleans.

JAY BOWERSOX has been promoted by C&P Telephone Co. to commercial manager in Easton, Md. Jay reports he has a new cottage on the Tred Avon River in historic Oxford, complete with sailboat, crab pots, and more.

DR. C. BARRETT ALLDREDGE is stationed with the U. S. Army at Fort Gordon in Augusta, Ga. His specialty is otolaryngology.

After five and a half years of service with the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, BRUCE P. COOPER is now taking graduate engineering studies at Old Dominion University in Norfolk.

PETER M. DE MANIO, former judge of the criminal court, Orange County, Fla., has been elected to a six-year term as Judge, Circuit Court Ninth Judicial Circuit, effective January, 1973.

1967

MARRIED: HUGH WHARTON SCOTT II to Elizabeth Anne Hoke on Aug. 17, 1972, in Laramie, Wyo. The couple will make their home in Laramie, where Mrs. Scott is attending the University of Wyoming.

BORN: MR. and MRS. KENNETH M. GREENE, a daughter, Diane Allison Greene, on July 12, 1972. The young lady joins an older sister. The family lives in Virginia Beach.

BORN: MR. and MRS. PHILIP L. CLINE, a son, Benjamin Lee Cline, on Feb. 29, 1972. Cline is currently working towards his doctorate in economics at Oklahoma State University. He is a part-time instructor and an NDEA fellow.

ANDREW N. BAUR has been elected a vice president of Mercantile Trust Co. in St. Louis, Mo. Prior to joining Mercantile, he was with the First National Bank of Atlanta, Ga.

After receiving an MBA from Harvard in June, PHILANDER P. CLAXTON III is currently associated with Davidge and Co. in Washington, D. C. He is also president of University Enterprises, Ltd. and is attending Georgetown University Law School.

1968

MARRIED: LARS H. HOLTAN to Jane Ellen Egan on July 29, 1972, in Rockford, Ill. Holtan is a system representative for Honeywell Information Systems, Inc.

MARRIED: ARTHUR M. MEYER JR. to Kathy Lynn Magee on Aug. 26, 1972 in Dallas. Meyers attends the University of Texas Law School in Austin.

BORN: MR. and MRS. ROBERT A. CASHILL, a son, James Kearns Cashill, on May 23, 1972.

BORN: MR. and MRS. CHARLES C. LEWIS, a daughter, Rebecca Dollins Lewis, on Aug. 15, 1972. Lewis is a practicing attorney with the firm of Tiffany and Tiffany in Warrenton, Va.

Class Notes

BORN: MR. and MRS. ARNOLD STEPHAN GRANDIS, a daughter, Evelyn Francina, on Dec. 31, 1971. Arnold is in his fifth year at Duke Medical Center. He expects to complete his genetics research in June, 1973, and receive a Ph.D. in biochemistry.

Recently promoted LT. JAMES W. WHITEHEAD JR. is stationed aboard the U. S. Navy Aircraft Carrier John F. Kennedy now in the Mediterranean. He is a radar intercept officer.

A. RODNEY BOREN is enrolled at Thunderbird Graduate School of International Management in Glendale, Ariz. The school, founded in 1946, is devoted exclusively to training men and women for international careers.

1969

MARRIED: STEPHEN SHARP to Lynn Cawley on Dec. 30, 1971 in Denton, Md. Sharp is currently working in the Office of the General Counsel, Federal Communications Commission in Washington, D. C. He expects to receive his J.D. degree at the University of Virginia in December 1972.

MARRIED: RAY V. HARTWELL to Katherine M. Hock (Hollins, '69) on June 17, 1972, in Richmond, Va. Among the groomsmen were classmates John L. Johnson and William H. Graddy. Having completed military service with the U. S. Navy, Hartwell entered W&L Law School in September.

MARRIED: LESLIE STUART CARTER to Cordelia Wheeler Exton on Sept. 9, 1972 in Southport, Conn. The couple will make their home in Pittsburgh, Pa., where the bridegroom is in the trust department of the Union National Bank.

BORN: MR. and MRS. CLARK CARTER, a son, Read Allen Carter, on March 11, 1972. Formerly on the staff at McDonough School, Carter has recently become associated with the Baltimore insurance agency of Mason & Carter, Inc.

DAVID R. HACKETT operates the Community Legal Aid Society, Inc. in Sussex County, Del. He counsels lower-income residents in problems ranging from consumer protection to tenant rights.

After receiving an MBA from the University of Virginia, R. STEPHENS PANNILL has joined the staff of the First National Bank of Martinsville, Va.

W. CARL WALKER received a J. D. degree from the University of Virginia in June, 1972. He is now with the creative staff of Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborne, Inc., an advertising firm in New York City.

HARRY M. (HANK) WILSON III, after receiving his law degree from the University of Florida, is practicing in Jacksonville with the firm of Smith, Halsey, Schwalbe, Spraker and Nichols.

1970

MARRIED: MARTIN B. TURPIN to Pamela Gay Firebaugh on July 22, 1972, in Richmond, Va. Turpin has recently been appointed the Central Illinois and Western Indiana sales representative for the Lane Furniture Co. of Altavista, Va. The couple lives in Springfield, Ill.

MARRIED: MICHAEL C. G. NEER to Cornelia Lee Kittle on Sept. 23, 1972. Ensign Neer is serving as a physical education instructor and a basketball coach at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. His bride is a stewardess for Pan American Airways.

MARRIED: RICHARD P. LASKO to Charlotte Jane Perry on July 8, 1972, in Malverne, L. I. Lasko practices law in New York City.

MARRIED: HUGH BUCKLER GUILL to Victoria Kathryn Simmons on Aug. 5, 1972 in Stamford, Conn. Having completed a tour of military duty in Vietnam, Guill entered Wharton Graduate School of Business in September.

GEORGE F. BATEH worked this summer in the state attorney's office in Jacksonville, Fla. He is in his third year at the University of Florida Law School.

LARRY MANN studied ironmongery in England, Denmark, and Greece. He is back in Lexington with the blacksmith, Manly Brown, working primarily with wrought iron, turning out articles which are artistic and practical.

HOMER L. (MICKY) MIXSON is entering his second year at Harvard Law School. During his first year, Mixson won the Williston competition and placed third in the Ames competition.

1971

MARRIED: SHELBY WAYNE WEDDLE to Connie Jaye Blake on July 8, 1972, in Salem, Va.

MARRIED: JOHN G. STAFFORD JR. to Cynthia Lee Eustace on July 8, 1972, in the chapel at the Quantico Marine Base. Lt. Stafford is stationed at Camp Lejeune, N. C., after completing the field artillery officers course at Fort Sill, Okla.

JOE TOMPKINS JR., currently attending the Harvard Law School, has been accepted into a joint degree program between Harvard Law School and the John F. Kennedy School of Government. It is a four-year program and upon completion, Tompkins will receive his J.D. degree and a degree of Master of Public Policy. The program is highly selective with normally only four or five law students being accepted each year.

1972

MARRIED: WILLIAM A. GARRETT JR. to Anne Lynn Williams on July 22, 1972, in Danville, Va. Garrett is a practicing attorney.

MARRIED: KENNETH BRUCE MUROV to Robin Lea Dickler on July 30, 1972, in Roanoke. The couple will live in Baton Rouge, La.

MARRIED: A. SCOTT NEESE to Christine A. Fellerski on July 8, 1972, in Iron De Quoit, N. Y.

MARRIED: HAROLD T. SMITH JR. to Ross Anne Tucker on June 11, 1972. They will make their home in Baltimore.

BORN: MR. and MRS. JOHN A. PARKINS JR., a daughter, Rebecca Kern, on June 2, 1972. The young lady joins an older sister. The family lives in Newark, Del. Parkins is a law clerk for the Delaware Supreme Court.

In Memoriam

1895

MAURICE MOORE, former vice president of Lynchburg Cotton Mill Co., died Sept. 15, 1972, at the Medical Care Center in Lynchburg. Moore was associated with the old Lynchburg National Bank and Trust Co. He was secretary, treasurer, and vice president of the Lynchburg Cotton Mill Co. (now

SUBSCRIBE TO

The Ring-tum Phi

If you wish to receive the weekly campus newspaper The Ring-tum Phi, please fill out the coupon at the right and send it with $6.00 to:

The Ring-tum Phi
Box 899
Lexington, Va. 24450

Name _____

Address _____

Zip Code _____

the Consolidated Textile Mill) from which he retired in 1921. He served on the Board of Health of Lynchburg and on the City Planning Commission.

1912

STEVENS PALMER HARMAN, a former teacher of Woodberry Forest School, died Sept. 15, 1972. He was a writer and a poet.

1914

JAMES D. FLOWERS, chairman of the board of Alabama National Bank, died Aug. 3, 1972, in Montgomery, Ala. He was a life member of the board of trustees of Huntingdon College, past president of the Montgomery Chamber of Commerce and Jaycees, and served for 21 years on the Montgomery County Board of Education.

1919

RALPH E. MOORE SR., a native of Augusta County, Va., died Oct. 8, 1972, in a Knoxville, Tenn., hospital. He spent seven years in India as an agricultural missionary with the Associated Reformed Presbyterian Board of Missions. After returning to the United States in 1922, he continued teaching vocational agriculture for 10 years before becoming superintendent of the Presbyterian Orphans Home in Lynchburg. He served as director of Bachman Memorial Home in Sweetwater, Tenn., from 1947 until his retirement in 1962. He was also director of Ruritan National and secretary-treasurer of the Tennessee State Gideons International.

1920

GEORGE S. MUELLER, formerly with Bell Telephone Laboratories and more recently a part-time farmer and teacher, died August, 1972, in Montvale, Va. Mueller was at one time associated with the government scientific projects conducted by the Bell Laboratories.

ALEXANDER HARBERT GRAY, a leading attorney in Brownsville, Tenn., died July 8, 1972. Gray had practiced law in Brownsville since 1924 and had served as county attorney for many years. As a state senator he represented Haywood and Fayette Counties in 1929 and again in 1949. He served as president of the Haywood County Bar Association and was active politically during his entire career. Gray was a director of the State Pardon Board and was the first administrative attorney for the State Labor Dept. He was a director and attorney for the First State Bank, and attorney for the Federal Land Bank and the L & N Railroad.

PAUL R. LARKIN, former vice president of J. C. Dillion Co., Inc. in New York City, died June 2, 1972, in Palo Alto, Calif.

1921

CHARLES LEYBURN GILKESON, a retired staff engineer with Virginia Electric and Power Co., died May 30, 1972, in Harrisonburg, Va. Gilkeson was co-author of several technical papers presented before the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. One of these was translated into French and published in a French technical magazine.

1922

JOHN WEST MELTON of Shreveport, La., died Aug. 20, 1972. Melton was secretary-treasurer of A. J. Hodges Industries, Inc., and secretary of the A. J. and Nona Trigg Hodges Foundation.

1923

ROGER BLACKWOOD JONES, a former resident of Scarsdale, N.Y., and Pawleys Island, S. C., died Aug. 14, 1972, after serious surgery. Jones had retired as assistant legal counsel of Sinclair Refining Co.

DONALD G. GRIMLEY, former assistant superintendent of manufacturing for Western Electric Co. died July 25, 1972. Grimley formerly of Ridgewood, N. J., had retired several years ago and made his home in Lexington, Va.

1924

FRANK WELFORD HARRELSON of Richmond died Aug. 26, 1972. Harrelson was a retired employee of Philip Morris Tobacco Co.

1925

D. ORMONDE RITCHIE, a retired Supreme Court justice of New York, died Sept. 19, 1972, in Bridgewater, N. Y. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey appointed Ritchie in 1947 to fill a vacancy as county judge of Suffolk County. His appointment as Supreme Court justice for the 10th Judicial District came in August, 1952.

1926

RADFORD KEIGHTLEY GIMSON, a chemist for the Alpha Portland Cement Co., died July 19, 1972, in Somers Point, N. J. Before retiring in 1967, Gimson was with Alpha Cement for 42 years in LaSalle, Ill., and Easton, Pa.

1932

ROBERT M. AVENT, a former attorney with the St. Joe Paper Co. in Jacksonville, Fla., died June 10, 1971. He was a Navy Lieutenant Commander in World War II and was also licensed by the Florida Real Estate Commission.

1937

JACK BRADLEY PIERCE, formerly in the investment and security field and associated with A. I. Shatswell & Co., bank examiners and auditors of Boston, died Nov. 19, 1971.

1941

LATHAM L. THIGPEN JR., general manager of Westvaco Corp. in Baltimore and vice president of the Maryland Kidney Foundation, died Sept. 8, 1972. Thigpen joined the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co. in 1946 and was associated primarily with the Hinde and Dauch division, one of the nation's leading producers of shipping containers and other corrugated products. Thigpen was a native of Richmond, Va.

1942

ROBERT NELSON VAN DER VOORT JR., died in Setauket, N. Y., in July, 1972. An active conservationist and a member of the Conservationists United for Long Island, he had recently completed a plan to prevent the loss of ground water by recharging sewage. After service in World War II, Van der Voort joined General Bronze Corp., where he worked for more than 20 years.

1946

ALLISON NAILOR MILLER JR., president of the W. C. and A. N. Miller Development Co., died Aug. 28, 1972, in Potomac Falls, Md. The firm is engaged in development of residential sites. Miller became president of the company in 1951. He was a member of the board of directors of the Security Storage Co. of Washington, the Potomac National Bank, and the Washington Brick and Terra Cotta Co. He was also a member of the Washington Board of Realtors, the Washington Home Builders' Association, and the Metropolitan Washington Board of Trade. He was a founder of the Potomac Polo Club.

Wilbur C. Hall, 1892-1972, bequeaths the bulk of his estate to W&L

Washington and Lee has received a bequest of more than $1 million under the terms of the will of Wilbur C. Hall, Leesburg, Va., lawyer and staunch friend of the University, who died on Aug. 21 at the age of 80 after a long illness.

Mr. Hall attended the W&L School of Law from 1910 to 1914 and distinguished himself in Virginia civic and governmental affairs for more than 50 years.

University officials reported that the bulk of Mr. Hall's estate has been designated for the law school portion of the University's decade-long Development Program and that his commitment was among the first to be counted toward the $56-million effort. To date, $11.7 million has been committed to the law school development goal.

On Aug. 23, Prof. Charles P. Light, former dean of the School of Law, delivered a eulogy to Mr. Hall at a memorial convocation at the Loudoun County Courthouse in Leesburg. Present were members of the bar from throughout the state to hear Prof. Light extol Mr. Hall's virtues as a lawyer, statesman, and friend of education. Honorary pallbearers from W&L included Prof. Light, President Robert E. R. Huntley, Law Dean Roy L. Steinheimer Jr., Assistant to the President Frank A. Parsons, and Alumni Secretary William C. Washburn.

Mr. Hall was unwavering in his support of Washington and Lee and its School of Law. When the University awarded him an honorary LL.D. degree in 1967—citing him as “a lawyer's lawyer” who had exercised profound and beneficial influence on Virginia's progress—he said it was “the happiest moment of my life.”

Mr. Hall was a founding partner in the law firm of Hall, Monahan, Engle, Mahan & Mitchell of Leesburg and Winchester. Choosing to remain in the general practice of law rather than to specialize, he became one of Virginia's most prominent lawyers. He was an outstanding orator and was much in demand as a speaker across the state.

After service in the Navy in World War I, he was elected to the Virginia House of Delegates. When he retired from elective politics in 1935, he was chairman of the House Committee on Finance and of the Joint Democratic Caucus. But he remained a power in the Democratic party, serving twice as a Presidential elector and for a time as chairman of the State Conservation Commission. He was also a member of the Judicial Council of Virginia, and the 1948 Commission to Reorganize the Government of Virginia. It was said that if he had chosen to run he could have been governor of Virginia. As it was, much milestone legislation came from his pen while he was a legislator.

He was a member of Washington and Lee's General's Council of the Robert E. Lee Associates, a group of the University's most generous supporters, and he was actively involved in the current $56-million Development Program. He endowed activities of W&L's Burks Moot Court program with a $10,000 gift and contributed substantial sums regularly to current operating needs.

THE WASHINGTON AND LEE CHAIR

With Crest in Five Colors

The chair is made of birch and rock maple, hand-rubbed in black with gold trim and arms finished in cherry. It makes a welcome gift for Christmas, birthdays, anniversaries, or weddings. All profit from sales of the chair goes to the scholarship fund in memory of John Graham, '14.

Price: $44.50 f.o.b.

Gardner, Massachusetts

Mail your order to

WASHINGTON AND LEE ALUMNI, INC.

Lexington, Virginia 24450

Please allow five to six weeks for shipment
after your order is placed.

WASHINGTON AND LEE ICE BUCKETS AND TRAYS

The Rockbridge Chapter of the Washington and Lee Alumni Association, by authority of the Alumni Board of Directors, is offering these handsome ice buckets and trays for sale to raise funds for the University.

Manufactured by the Bacova Guild, they are made of durable fiber glass and bear the Washington and Lee crest in full color. The ice buckets have hand-rubbed mahogany tops. They are a welcome addition to any home.

All profit from sale of these items goes to the scholarship fund in memory of John Graham, '14. Income from the fund helps worthy students attend Washington and Lee.

THE PRICES:

Large ice bucket (three gallons) $45.00 plus $2 handling and postage.

Small ice bucket (five quarts) $37.50 plus $2 handling and postage.

Big tray, (16x21) $15.00 plus $1 handling and postage.

Round tray (14 inches) $9 plus $1 handling and postage.

Virginia residents add 4% sales tax.

Use Order Form Below:

ROCKBRIDGE CHAPTER—W&L
 P.O. Box 948
 Lexington, Virginia 24450

Please send me the items checked below. Make checks payable to Rockbridge Chapter—W&L.

- Large ice bucket, $45.00 each plus $2 handling and postage.
- Small ice bucket, $37.50 each plus $2 handling and postage.
- Big tray, $15.00 each plus $1 handling and postage.
- Round tray, $9.00 each plus $1 handling and postage.

Name.....
 Address.....
 City and State..... Zip.....

Virginia residents add 4% sales tax.
 Payment of $..... is enclosed.

112
 113

59